COOLIDGE WILL DELAY ALL ACTION ON TAXES UNTIL AFTER JUNE 30

He Wants to See How the Treasury Stands at the End of the Fiscal Year.

HOPES FOR CUT IN EXPENSES

If This Justifies Tax Revision and an Extra Session, It Won't Meet Before October.

HE HAS NO NEW PROGRAM

Spokesman Says the President Has Revealed His Policies and He Stands By Them.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Any expectation that President Coolidge would call Congress in extra session immediately after his new term begins in March next for the purpose of further reductions in taxation was dissipated at the White House today. A spokesman for President Coolidge, speaking with the President's knowledge and authority, indicated clearly that if an extra session were called at all there would be no determination of the question of taxes until after the end of the present fiscal year on June 30.

The President's spokesman said that the Government could not reduce taxes much more until it further reduced its expenses. What could be done, it was explained, would depend on the condition of the Treasury and this would not be known until the end of the fiscal year, when the Government's balance sheet would indicate whether further tax reduction was feasible. Plans for additional reduction of taxes, it was said, might be made then, but it was stressed that this would depend upon the State of the nation's finances.

It was emphasized by the President's spokesman that Mr. Coolidge did not wish it to be understood that he would not convene Congress in extra session in any circumstances, but that it was his intention not to have an extra session unless it was absolutely necessary. In any event, it was explained, there would be no extra session immediately after the new Congress comes into existence in March.

Some important members of the Administration have been credited with the desire to have further tax revision undertaken in accordance with the terms of the Mellon tax reduction plan when the present Congress reassembles in regular session on Dec. 1. The present Congress, however, judged by its past record, is hostile to much of President Coolidge's legislative program and is Republican in name only.

Recent Congress Unsympathetic.

Unless the great victory of the President in the election of Nov. 4 has chastened a considerable number of those Senators and Representatives who are classified politically as Republicans but who have done their utmost to embarrass the Administration, there would be little prospect of any favorable consideration of an Administration tax measure. It was the present Congress which rejected the Mellon plan and substituted for it in the new revenue law provisions dictated by a combination of Democratis and La Follette Republicans in the Senate and the House.

What was said at the White House today showed that President Coolidge had fully determined that it would be useless to undertake any tax reduction legislation during the forthcoming brief concluding session of the present Congress.

To all appearances, the Congress which comes into being next March will have majorities in both houses sympathetic with the purposes and policies of President Coolidge. The balance of power held in the Senate by Senator La Follette and his following seems to have been overcome through Republican gains, which justify expectation that even under the most unfavorable circumstances, the President will have a majority of three or four above any combination of Democrats, Farmer-Laborites and La Follette Republicans.

The situation in the House will be even more favorable to the Administration. With the members of the La Follette bloc in that body voting with the Democrats, Farmer-Labor, and Socialists the regular Republican majority should be in the neighborhood of 25.

Little Time in Short Session.

In these circumstances, it is clear why President Coolidge feels that it would be inadvisable to attempt any tax reduction legislation while the present Congress lasts. There is additional reason in the briefness of the closing session of the existing Congress, with hardly enough time to dispose of the annual supply measures. These must be enacted in preparation for the new fiscal year to begin on July 1. There is an even more important reason stressed by the President's spokesman today in the inability of the Government to know whether tax reduction will be feasible until it strikes its balance of receipts and expenditure at the end of the current fiscal year.

There was a hint in what was said by the President's spokesman today that Mr. Coolidge expects to make further reductions in the cost of Government during the balance of the fiscal year, a matter of seven and a half months. That he might not be able to do so was suggested by his spokesman's statement that there could be no further reduction in taxes until there had been further reductions in expenses. It was made clear, however, that the whole subject of tax reduction and an extra session of

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—A three-quarters-inch red, white and blue stripe horizontally across the middle of the face of an envelope was approved today by the Post Office Department as a distinctive sign for exclusive use of air mail.

The department announced that such envelopes for mail not intended to be carried by airplane would not be permitted. The Government will not furnish the envelopes, but users of the air mail may have their envelopes printed with the stripe.

Use of the design is expected to facilitate the prompt handling of such mail.

MAKES FIFTH AGREEMENT

Total Amount Involved, Including Unpaid Interest, Is $178,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—An agreement was reached today by the Treasury Department and representatives of the Polish Government for the funding of the Polish debt of $178,560,000. It is along the same lines as the agreement reached with Great Britain. Secretary Mellon acted for the United States and Dr. Wladislaw Wroblewski, the Polish Minister, for his Government. The agreement was approved by President Coolidge and will be submitted to Congress and the President and the Council of Ministers of Poland.

The debt includes bills for flour, Shipping Board services, surplus war stores and famine relief supplies.

This agreement is the fifth funding accomplished by the World War Foreign Debt Commission since its creation in February, 1922. Previous ones concluded and approved by Congress were those with Great Britain, Finland and Hungary. The one reached with Lithuania on Sept. 24 will be submitted to Congress at the coming session.

Minister Wroblewski, in commenting on the funding agreement, characterized it as essential to the rehabilitation of Poland, and pointed with pride to the fact that Poland balanced the budget this year and stabilized her currency.

Statement of Indebtedness.

Principal amount of obligation to be funded, $159,666,972.

Interest accrued and unpaid thereon to Dec. 15, 1922, at the rate of 4¼ per cent. per annum, $18,898,053.

Total principal and interest accrued and unpaid as of Dec. 15, 1922, $178,565,025.

To be paid in cash by Poland Nov. 14, 1924, $5,025.

Total indebtedness to be funded into bonds, $178,560,000.

"The basis of the settlement," the Treasury statement said, "is substantially the same as that of the settlement made by the United States with Great Britain, except for a provision under which Poland shall have the option to liquidate amounts due under the agreement prior to 1930 in part by certain semi-annual payments aggregating $10,000,000, the balance in bonds of Poland similar in terms to those originally issued.

"The $178,560,000 principal amount of the bonds of Poland to be issued under the refunding agreement mature serially over a period of sixty-two years and bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent. per annum up to Dec. 15, 1932, and at the rate of 3½ per cent. per annum thereafter."

New Currency on Gold Basis.

"The funding of its American debt is an essential part of the work of economic and financial rehabilitation of Poland," Minister Wroblewski said after he had signed the compact. "The Government of Poland, irrespective of men or parties, realizes that a full rehabilitation means fulfilling financial obligations as well as balancing the State budget.

"Thus, if any special credit is to be given to Poland it would be on account of the seeming rashness shown by Prime Minister Grabski, who is also in charge

HE ENTERS AN APPEAL

But Wilbur Announces That the Vessel Will Leave Today for Scene of Bombing.

SHEARER FOR NAVY INQUIRY

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Justice William Hitz of the District of Columbia Supreme Court refused today to issue an injunction to prevent Secretary Wilbur from proceeding with the navy's plans for the destruction of the battleship Washington, as provided by the Washing conference treaty.

Justice Hitz sustained a motion filed in behalf of the Secretary to dismiss a suit brought by William B. Shearer of New York, a naval expert, as a taxpayer, for a temporary restraining order against Mr. Wilbur, following brief arguments by counsel for Mr. Shearer and for the Government.

"There is no equity in the bill," Justice Hitz said. "The Court has no jurisdiction over the subject matter therein."

Counsel for Mr. Shearer noted an appeal to the District Court of Appeals. They have twenty days in which to prepare it. By that time Congress will be in session.

Wilbur Will Proceed With Plans.

When Secretary Wilbur was informed of the decision and of the appeal he stated that the battleship would leave the League Island Navy Yard tomorrow, reaching early next week the spot where it will be destroyed.

Mr. Shearer issued a statement tonight in which he charged that a plot exists to destroy the navy, and alleged also that a report from the department sent last Spring to Chairman Butler of the House Naval Affairs Committee concerning conditions in the naval establishment was altered after the experts had submitted it to officials above them.

Mr. Shearer was in court with his lawyers, Wilton J. Lambert, Rudolph H. Yeatman and William E. Leahy. Assistant District Attorney Vernon E. West presented the case for Secretary Wilbur.

Mr. Lambert reviewed the Washington Arms Conference treaties and emphasized a point which Mr. Shearer has repeatedly urged, that the Washington is 85 per cent. completed and represents an investment of $30,000,000 of the taxpayers' money. Mr. Lambert said that to sink the ship would be useless waste as it has great salvage value, inasmuch as the Naval Limitation Treaty permits this Government to have airplane carriers.

Mr. West declared, on the other hand, that proof was lacking as to the value claimed for the ship, and as to airplane carriers, he said, the treaty provided that the Saratoga and Lexington shall be used.

Mr. Shearer's standing in court as a taxpayer in an action of this sort was attacked by Mr. West. This was an action against the United States, he pointed out, in which the Government has not consented to be sued and is not the defendant. The issue, he declared, was not one for the courts, but for politics or diplomacy.

"Again," he added, "this ship does not belong to Wilbur. It belongs to the United States of America."

The treaty, Mr. West contended further, prescribed that the manner in which destruction should take place should be at the discretion of the navy. Benefits to be obtained by the navy in bombing and gunfire tests against armor of the sort used in the Washington were pointed out. Secretary Wilbur, counsel added, was simply an agent of the President.

Says Executive Order Is Lacking.

Richard H. Yeatman, for Mr. Shearer, laid emphasis on the fact that there was nothing before the Court indicating that the President had exercised the privilege accorded by law of delegating his power to the Secretary of the Navy. He declared that no evidence was produced in the form of an executive order for the destruction of the Washington. the Court had ruled, reads, in part, as follows:

"The public and all the taxpayers of

Playmates Admit Missing Boy Was Drowned; Kept Their Secret for Fear of Punishment

After maintaining silence for four days three small boys admitted to the police last night that on Tuesday afternoon last they had witnessed the drowning of 6-year-old Harry Weidenfeld of 1 Goerck Street while he was fishing with them in the East River at Jackson Street. The boys, Rocco Feramisco, 8, and William Palladino, 9, both of 3 Goerck Street, and Frank Chiafala, 9, of 5 Goerck Street, declared, after a grilling by detectives in the Clinton Street Station, that they had seen Harry slip off the rocks on a beach near the dock, to be instantly swept away by the strong tide.

They told the detectives that they were afraid to reveal the manner of Harry's death lest they be punished, and that they had decided before they started for home to say that Harry had left them before they finished fishing for killies shortly before 5 P. M. on the day of the drowning. Young Palladino was the first to break down under the questioning of Detectives O'Rourke, Kavanagh, Whalen and Mitchell, who had suspected from the start that the boys had not told the truth about the disappearance of their companion. They made conflicting statements regarding where they were at the dock at the time when they said Harry started for his home.

It was not until last evening, however, that the detectives decided to call their attention to these discrepancies in their stories in the presence of all of them, and then the true story of the boy's disappearance came out. The police had made an unsuccessful attempt on Thursday to recover the body at the dock.

Called 'Bobbed Hair Sissies,' Church Choir Singers Strike

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Bobbed-hair members of the choir of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church, South, have gone on strike against the term "bobbed-hair sissies," applied to them by the Rev. Burke Culpepper, a Memphis evangelist.

After reciting a Bible story, the Rev. Mr. Culpepper turned to the choir, and, telling of the foibles of the present day, made the remark which nettled several of the singers. An indignation meeting was held, and, according to one source, at least half of the women members of the choir have refused to continue their services.

The Rev. Dr. William A. Lambeth, pastor of the church, termed the incident a "tempest in a teapot," and declared only two or three young women had refrained from attendance.

VIGOROUX IS GUILTY; GETS MONTH IN JAIL

METROPOLITAN VINDICATED

Copyright, 1924, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—John Vigoroux, former agent in New York for the late George Joseph DeMotte, well-known dealer in antiquities, was condemned today by the Seine Assizes to one month's imprisonment and a fine of 25 francs in the suit brought two years ago by M. DeMotte against his former employe for falsification of accounts and the misappropriation of funds. Mme. DeMotte, widow of the antique dealer, gets $3,775 reimbursement.

For the time being this seems likely to end the big campaign of insinuation about French antiquities and their dealers, which has been going on for more than two years. M. DeMotte is dead; M. Boutron, the sculptor who he employed to make his alleged "restorations," is dead, and M. Vigoroux is condemned by a jury of his countrymen.

Again today, as yesterday, important witnesses, such as the well-known art critic, M. Koecklin, declared on the stand that M. DeMotte was far more of a restorer than an antiquarian, and that many of his restorations were thoroughly bad. His friends, on the other hand, defended him as a great artist.

Would Halt Sale of Art.

Deputy Henri Auriol from the stand was ready to declare that whatever good qualities M. DeMotte may have had he deserved censure, as he was one of the band of antiquarians who were systematically pillaging all the churches in Southern and Eastern France. He was going to introduce a bill, he said, to make such depredation a punishable offense.

As always in a French trial of this sort, the evidence most of the time was totally irrelevant to the case which was being tried, which was simply the conduct of M. Vigoroux as M. DeMotte's agent. The characters of the two men, their domestic tragedies, the question of how much restoration should be allowed, the propriety of selling works of art which belonged to the nation, the whole history of the statue of Saint Paul, which M. DeMotte sold to the Metropolitan Museum, of the Kings of Parthenay in the Louvre of which only the busts, it is said, are original, and the custom among society people of taking commission on art objects sold, all these and a score of other questions were fully discussed during this curious and complicated trial.

Most of the time it seemed more like a trial of the late M. DeMotte rather than of M. Vigoroux, and it was only at the end that the jury returned to their muttons and declared against the agent, who has, during the past two years, conducted such a vigorous campaign against the authenticity of the works sold by him for his former employer. Even the jury, however, added that there were extenuating circumstances. Hence the light sentence of one month—which M. Vigoroux will not have to serve—and the fine of 25 francs.

Jury Backs Metropolitan.

PARIS, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—The jury which convicted John Vigoroux today refused to believe that spurious antiques were manufactured by DeMotte, and in the courtroom the finding was regarded as a vindication of the judgment of American art purchasers, as the entire case against Vigoroux hinged upon three sales the defendant made in the United States.

There were a statue of the Apostle St. Paul, purchased by the Metropolitan Museum in New York for $3,000; a head of Christ in stone, sold to Hawley W. McLanahan of Philadelphia for $3,000, and a statue, "Virgin and Child," sold to Mr. Winthrop of New York for $7,000.

The verdict also was considered as refuting a charge made by Deputy Paul Boncour, French delegate to the League of Nations, during his plea as attorney for the defendant that "Americans know more about selling hogs in Chicago than they do about French art."

The jury was loath to believe Vigoroux's statement that New York "men-about-town" would accept "left-handed commissions" for which they were unwilling to take responsibility. The trial, however, afforded opportunity to Count Boni de Castellane to appear as a witness and testify that "the acceptance of commissions for sales of antiques by noblemen of the world is a quite common occurence."

Deputy André Paissant, who appeared at attorney for the DeMotte interests, told the jury that "while Count Boni wears a fine waistcoat and a sweet red

CITY PAID $3,000,000 TO EXPERTS IN ONE OFFICE, CRAIG SAYS

NAMES $100,000-A-YEAR MAN

In Reply to Mayor's Demand, Says Mark Wolff Got $105,000 in Twelve Months.

HAD WORKED FOR $2,700

Controller Asserts That Many Others, Some Non-Residents, Draw "Fancy Salaries."

Controller Charles L. Craig, who had caused a stir in the meeting of the Board of Estimate yesterday, when he declared that nearly $1,000,000 had been paid by the city for the services of "experts" within the last year, sent to the Board of Estimate last night a report not only supporting his charge, but disclosing that for the assistance of the Corporation Counsel's office alone, between 1918 and 1923 nearly $3,000,000 had been paid out for the services of "experts" and special counsel fees.

The Controller's assertion that enormous sums had been thus expended was elicited in a discussion by the board of the employment of General Edward Burr, a retired United States Army engineer. Burr was engaged at $100 a day, or a maximum of $1,000 a month, as adviser during the construction of the proposed Rockaway boardwalk.

Mr. Craig charged that a former city accountant whose salary had been $2,700 a year, was now drawing about $100,000 a year from the city as an expert accountant.

"Name the man!" demanded Mayor Hylan. "If anything of that kind is going on, I want to know it."

"I will name him," replied the Controller. "I have prepared a communication on this subject to the Mayor and the Board of Estimate and you will get it almost as soon as this meeting is over."

Names the $100,000 Man.

In his report to the Mayor last night Controller Craig named the man as Mark Wolff. Wolff, the Controller said, had been employed in the Corporation Counsel's office and had received nearly $105,000 in twelve months. He reported that Wolff had testified that he paid out $37,000 of the sum for services of assistants and had retained $67,000 for himself.

Discussing his report last night Controller Craig pointed out that it did not include "the expenditures for 1924, for which the Corporation Counsel has made application to have his appropriation increased." The Controller, in a prepared statement distributed from his office last night, said:

"When I referred today to the employment of an expert at $100,000 a year I was requested by the Mayor to name the expert. I promised to send him a report. The report covers only the office of the Corporation Counsel. It does not include the Board of Estimate's 'experts,' nor the Department of Plant and Structures' 'experts,' nor the numerous other 'experts' that have been engaged by the various departments under the Mayor's direction.

"The 'expert' referred to, who was employed by the Corporation Counsel, received $105,000 for twelve months' services, of which he testified he had paid out about $37,000 for assistants and had retained $67,000 for himself. His name is Mark Wolff. This man up to 1918 was a civil service accountant, employed by the city at a salary of $2,700 per annum. By the terms of his engagement with the Corporation Counsel there was no option left but to pay him the rates agreed upon, which give him an earning power of almost three times the Mayor's annual salary.

Others at "Fancy Salaries."

"There are numerous other 'experts' at present employed at fancy salaries, both residents and non-residents of New York. One of them was engaged to study and report upon the Controller's plans for the improvement of Riverside Drive. This man, employed at the direction of Mayor Hylan, is also working for the Brooklyn City Railroad Company. He has also been engaged by the New York Central Railroad interests. His qualifications must have had a peculiar appeal to the Mayor in connection with the west side improvement. Possibly the Mayor imagined he would be entirely disinterested.

"But the one case in which honest and able experts should have been engaged, namely, the proposed exchange of the bed of Park Avenue in return for a balcony on the east side of the Grand Central Terminal from the New York Central Railroad, was marked by the absence of special experts. Neither real estate experts, nor traffic experts, nor special counsel were retained for that job."

In his report upon the request of Corporation Counsel George P. Nicholson for funds for use in the electric light and gas litigations the Controller said in part:

"The purpose of both requests is, principally, to augment appropriations for the employment of the Corporation Counsel at large fees of so-called experts, directly or indirectly employed at the Mayor's direction, despite the pledges made in 1917 to end the 'million-dollar expert patronage bonanza' and to return the out-of-town experts 'to their own home towns.'

"Experts received almost $3,000,000 in the years 1918-1923, inclusive, the total

Of twenty other persons in the car twelve were seriously injured. Doctors and nurses from Sebastian, Vero and Fort Prince were rushed to the scene and late tonight were still at work relieving the injured, who were being taken to Fort Pierce.

The wreck is believed to have been caused by a defective brake beam which broke and overturned the car. The train is a local.

The relief workers were forced to dig two of the women and the baby from under the wrecked car. According to the passengers, the train was running half an hour late. The passengers noticed the bumping of the car and began looking around. Finally the car swayed and turned over on its side, hurling the passengers through windows or pinning them within.

It was an hour before medical aid reached the scene. Dr. David Rose of Sebastian was the first to arrive and immediately began to attend the more seriously injured.

Sheriff J. E. Merritt of Fort Pierce left there in an automobile accompanied by Judge Sumner, Coroner, to hold an inquest at the scene of the wreck.

The injured were on the way to Fort Pierce hospitals, but the first detachment had not arrived there late last night. The wrecked car was a day coach.

MAYOR DENOUNCES COMMERCE CHAMBER

SAYS CARS ARE WITHHELD

Gives Figures Purporting to Show That I. R. T. Is Able to Give Fuller Service.

Mayor John F. Hylan, in a radio talk on transit over the municipal broadcasting system WNYC last night, assailed as the most recent recruit in an "organized drive to prevent the construction of an independent subway system, owned and operated by the city." Frederick H. Ecker, President of the State Chamber of Commerce, who on Thursday evening addressed that body urging action for transit relief.

The Mayor charged that the State Chamber of Commerce had tried for ten years to obstruct the first municipal subway and that the chamber's policies "are dictated by the Interborough and B. M. T. financial groups." He declared that Mr. Ecker, as the Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, was naturally so affiliated, as "the insurance companies of this city were for years large holders of traction securities."

Touching again upon the alleged inefficiency of the subway operating companies, Mayor Hylan declared that last month the Interborough "had more than 660 cars in train formation, available for use but which were not used, and 190 other cars, not in train formation, but available for use, which were not used."

Mayor Charges Propaganda.

In his traction talk, which began at 8:30 P. M., Mayor Hylan said:

"Another evidence of the organized drive to prevent the construction of an independent subway system, owned and operated by the city, for the service and profit of the people, is seen in the statement of the President of the State Chamber of Commerce.

"Newspaper advertisements by the traction corporations, accusing the City Administration of the faults of the traction operators; daily broadsides by the individual members of the State Transit Commission, against whom the Board of Estimate has preferred charges for neglect of duty, and scathing denunciation of the Mayor and the City Administration by traction-controlled newspapers are all part of the most colossal campaign of misrepresentation and villification by self-seeking traction manipulators that has ever been witnessed in the City of New York.

"There is not one of these private traction accelerators who does not know that the Board of Transportation provided the change from an elevated connection proposed by the State Transit Commission to a subway connection on the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line as desired by the people and insisted upon by the city Administration. They know that within the past few days three contracts for subway construction on this line were awarded by the Board of Transportation. They know that the extension of the Fourth Avenue line from Eighty-fifth Street to Fort Hamilton, the Corona-Flushing extension and the Queensboro extension to Forty-first Street and Eighth Avenue are all on the way.

Plans for New City Routes.

"They know that the Board of Transportation is rapidly completing plans for new city routes to be operated as an independent subway system, such as the contemplated Washington Heights, Sixth Avenue line, the subway from Sixth Avenue under the East River to Greenpoint and across Brooklyn toward the ocean and the line from Manhattan to Queens and out as far as Jamaica, and that these routes will provide adequate rapid transit service for all boroughs of the city, and they know, as well, that all this has been done in a little over four months during which the Board of Transportation has been in office.

UNDERWORLD POMP AT BURIAL OF CHIEF

CROOKS PARK THEIR GUNS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Twenty-six truck loads of flowers, 1,000 automobiles and more than 10,000 persons were at the cemetery today for the funeral of Dion O'Banion, 32-year-old ruler of the Chicago underworld, king of hijackers and, according to the Chief of Police of Chicago, the director of at least twenty-five murders.

Detectives moved on foot through the crowds, mounted policemen trotted among them and uniformed men with guns rode in automobiles, ready for trouble if any one attempted to carry out the threats of revenge which have been made since last Monday when O'Banion was shot down while trimming chrysanthemums in his flower shop, which masked his deals in whisky and lives.

There was reason to be on the alert every minute, for the mortal enemies, as well as the followers of young O'Banion, were at the funeral. Every gang was represented. Hijackers and bootleggers dressed in mourning and rode side by side in the same limousines. It was recognized by gangmen, gunmen, all factions of the liquor traffic and all groups which have trouble with the police as an occasion for forgetting old hates and doing honor to the greatest representative of their general class.

Cathedral Doors Barred.

To the great grief of the family and friends of O'Banion, the doors of the Holy Name Cathedral, where he had served as an altar boy, were closed against the funeral. The services in town were held at an undertaker's chapel which would hold only 100 persons. The $10,000 silver coffin was buried under masses of flowers. The benches seated the widow, the father, other relatives, the close followers of O'Banion and leaders of other gangs.

The master of ceremonies at the funeral was Louis Altiere, O'Banion's pal and lieutenant. Before the room filled up Altiere, in a purple collar and frock coat, a sheaf of lilies of the valley at the lapel, touched his eyes with a handkerchief of dashing pattern and rearranged the flowers in order to give a better effect to the floral tribute of the widow—a pillar seven feet high, made of 2,000 red roses.

"Now play," he whispered, behind a gloved hand, when the pallbearers and other principal mourners had deposited their revolvers with friends and filled the room.

Behind the flowers a stringed orchestra struck up a hymn. The windows of the chapel were thrown up so that the thousands outside could hear the slow and solemn music which was drawn from the stringed instruments by some of the most accomplished jazz artists of Chicago. The crowds in the streets doffed their hats. When the hymn music reached the roof-tops, hundreds of other heads were bared. Such was the demand for space that profiteers charged a dollar a head for the right to see the funeral from the adjacent roofs.

Police Battle to Control Crowd.

Hymn after hymn was played. There was no other service. When the sad music ended the funeral cortege started. The police battled to keep back the crowd which scrambled down from the roofs and rushed for their automobiles.

At the cemetery more than 500 automobiles were parked before the long funeral procession arrived. The services continued quietly until photographers were noticed unlimbering their machines on

EXPLOSIONS MENACE FIREMEN

TENEMENT HOUSES EMPTIED

AMBULANCES KEPT BUSY

New York Department Called to Scene by Error or Crank—Three Inquiries Begun.

Fire burning fiercely for six hours laid waste two square blocks of Jersey City waterfront yesterday, made ruins of $1,000,000 worth of property, drove 3,000 persons in frightened flight through smoke-fogged streets, made homeless 100 families of tenement dwellers and caused injuries to about fifty persons, mostly firemen. Thirteen firemen, a policeman, three women and a man civilian were taken to hospitals.

Starting from an explosion of unknown origin in the subcellar of the Battelle & Renwick Saltpeter Plant, a division of the Richardson Chemical Corporation, the flames roared on the wings of a brisk wind through the plant and thence through two dismantled warehouses of the American Sugar Refining Company. These three buildings covered the two blocks bounded by Morris Street, Washington Street, Warren Street and Dudley Street.

No lives were lost despite the large area of the fire zone, the fume-laden smoke from burning chemicals, the razing of walls and the hazards of hastily emptying rows of frame tenements of their terrorized tenants.

Refugees Promptly Cared For.

All of the homeless were promptly cared for by the Red Cross and other relief agencies. The big drill hall of the old Fourth Regiment Armory in Jersey City was turned into a community home for the refugees. At long tables meals were served last night and cots were set up, sheltered by curtains, for the families. Scores of children were tucked into beds as comfortably as if they were at home, after nurses had supervised the meal of the many infants among the homeless.

Every man and every piece of apparatus in the Jersey City Fire Department fought the fire. Reinforcements from the departments of Bayonne, Hoboken and Newark manned the Jersey City fire houses from 8:50 o'clock in the morning, when the fire was discovered, until 3 P. M., when it was announced to be under control.

Two New York fireboats, the John Purroy Mitchel and the New Yorker, fought the fire from start to finish from the piers of the American Sugar Refining Works. They were aided by tugs of the Lehigh Valley and the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Credit for holding the flames in check was given to the high-pressure fireboats.

At 2 o'clock when the local firemen began to gain on the fire, a false call to New York Fire Headquarters sent fifteen companies of Manhattan firefighters, under command of Chief Kenlon, hurrying across the river. When they arrived at the burning area they were told their aid was not necessary. Investigation disclosed that a man, either badly frightened or malicious, had impersonated Roger Boyle, Chief of the Jersey firemen over a public pay telephone in the Erie Station in Jersey City.

Three Investigations Begun.

Three Jersey City departments began investigations to determine the cause of the explosion and also to establish whether there had been criminal negligence. They had been unable to get very far last night and predicted that no definite results might be expected before tomorrow night. The fire was still flaring up sporadically and the firemen said that another twenty-four hours might elapse before all flames were extinguished and the ruins had cooled sufficiently for an investigation to be made.

Ambulances from three hospitals, St. Mary's, St. Francis and the Jersey City General Hospital, were kept busy throughout the fire. Emergency stations manned by young internes were maintained in the streets applying first-aid to hysterical women and treating the minor hurts of the fire-fighters. Thirty nurses, trim in their white uniforms and blue capes, were also on duty circulating among the rubber-coated firemen distributing coffee and sandwiches. Clergymen from near-by churches stood by in case their services might be needed.

While the "front line" had its hands full fighting the fire or attending the injured, the relief agencies which responded promptly to the call for their services found much to do. Twelve tenements, ranging from one-story shacks to three-story wooden structures, had been rendered uninhabitable by fire and water. Scores of similar dwellings on the streets fronting the burning territory had been singed and their tenants forced into the streets back of the fire lines.

Reaching back for fully five blocks in each direction window panes had rattled to the sidewalks as intermittent series of small but powerful explosions—coming as water mixing with chemicals generated gas—shook the neighborhood. Many casualties, which did not get into the list of injured, came through cuts inflicted by falling glass. Relief workers attended to many of these cases.

They also were enlisted to take care of those forced by the police and fire order to evacuate tenements within a block and a half of the fire zone. When policemen sped through the dwellings directing all to get out the tenants, largely of Polish and Russian birth, tumbled into the streets in disorder. With their belongings bundled beside them they huddled on the long milk platform of the Lehigh Valley Railroad a quarter of a mile from the fire. Relief workers sorted them out, collected their belongings, fed them and finally led those who had no relatives to whom to go to the shelter of the armory for the night.

Although scores of houses and their furnishings were open to thieves, and despite the fact that frightened refugees were too agitated to keep watch over their possessions, only two alleged attempts at looting were reported.

Louis Mills, 20 years old, who said he lived at 269 Monmouth Street, was arrested at 128 Essex Street by Patrolman Drapher, who charged him with disorderly conduct and being unable to explain his presence in the Essex Street house. The other man was Arthur Darling, 24, a longshoreman of 150 Newark Avenue, arrested by Detectives Frank Sadlack and James Kelleher at 146 Morris Street. He had a large suitcase containing clothing, some money and cheap jewelry. Darling insisted this had been given to him by a lodger at the Morris Street address. He and Mills will be arraigned today.

Fire an Awesome Spectacle.

As a spectacle the fire was awesome. It might be pictured in three phases: The first, when the flames were gaining in force and area; the second, when the fire was at its height and the evacuation of the tenements was ordered, and the third, when the firemen fighting through the peculiarly heavy and low-lying smoke conquered the fire and turned to hold it confined.

Gammontown, for that is what they call the section where the fire raged, is a place of tall, dingy industrial establishments and squat, dingy tenements that lean against the industrial buildings. Shortly before 9 o'clock all the men were off to their jobs. The women were busy with housework; the children were off to Public Schools 13 and 16 and the parochial school of St. Peter.

Then came the alarm of fire. Down the narrow streets raced the clanging fire apparatus and to the windows went the housewives.

Fire Chief Boyle was one of the first to reach the scene. When he arrived the Richardson plant was in flames. He knew the contents of the building and at once turned in a series of alarms.

Great clouds of heavy white smoke that caught at the throat and burned the eyes were pouring from the seven-story chemical works. Then flames broke through the windows. More fire apparatus came tearing down the streets; the smoke grew denser. Still the tenement watchers held on.

Police reserves ran through the streets putting up rope lines, and the sidewalks were dotted with the twisted patterns of hose lines. Then there came a heavy explosion and a section of the chemical wall dropped in jagged chunks into the street. A tower of flame burst through the roof, and the four walls, acting like a chimney, roared a draught. The smoke, steadily increasing, shot out, and a curtain of whiteness blotted out the view. Now and then a twisting tongue of flame would leap angrily out of the smoke fog.

Ferryboats coming cautiously into the Erie slip, five blocks from the fire, used their fog horns, so dense was the smoke drifting over the Jersey shore. Passengers on the boats had a magnificent view of the fire as it leaped to the nine-story warehouses of the sugar company. They watched it run with rapid pace through the smaller warehouse and could see it leap Dudley Street.

Then came the order for the tenants near the fire to get out.

Chief Boyle called Commissioner William B. Quinn, Director of Public Safety, from the City Hall and Chief Richard Battersby from Police Headquarters. They summoned every available man. Some patrolmen were called from their beats, others from their homes. Within an hour 500 men, half of the entire force, were on hand, only the traffic men being left on duty.

Down the narrow stairs and into the streets they came, policemen, coughing and choking in the smoke, guiding them and in many cases shouldering the bulky bundles the refugees sought to save. Trunks, baby carriages, mattresses, pots and pans, pictures of relatives still in the old country, highly colored lithographs of the saints and the Virgin, carpets, "Sunday" suits of clothing, food—whatever came first, or whatever the frightened ones most highly prized.

They were mostly women of foreign birth, and bundling their possessions into sheets and blankets, they hurried off. Some remained to pack trunks and the police had the greatest difficulty in getting them out of the danger zone.

One boy of 4 was forgotten. He was rescued by Fire Captain George Bush. Both were slightly burned and taken to the hospital.

Among the women saved was Mrs. Helen McCann of 211 Washington Street. She was about to become a mother and was taken from her home, in which the body of her four-year-old daughter lay in a coffin awaiting burial in the afternoon. She gave birth to a boy in police headquarters. Her sister, Mrs. Mary Conalian, wife of a Jersey City detective living at the same address, had to run from the house with her seven children.

For half an hour the greatest confusion existed. Fire apparatus, ambulances and police patrol wagons clattered through the streets. The police drove the crowds beyond the ropes, often resorting to force when reason was of no avail.

"You may shoot me," one man cried as he tried to force his way back to the tenement where he lived, "but all I own is in that house."

He had to be restrained and hurried off.

A bedridden woman of 80 years was carried to safety by policemen.

Two blocks away from the fire children were in Public School 16. When it became known that the fire was a serious one the children were assembled and an attempt was made to march them to Police Headquarters. They left the school building well under discipline, but once in the street some of them ran off. These were rounded up later.

At the Lehigh Valley milk station terror-stricken women, with all they had saved, jabbered in Russian or Polish to their neighbors, repeating time and again the story of their plight, of how they fled, and of what they were forced to leave behind. Every few feet were these groups.

Pets were not forgotten in the excitement, however. One little girl held tightly to a dirty, ragged doll and several children were seen playing with cats and dogs which they had rescued. The Koncheski family of mother, father and five children, of 132 Dudley Street, brought their two fox terriers to safety and buried them under several blankets to keep them warm. From the next house, at 130, John Sydor, his wife and nine children emerged with trunks and bundles. The oldest child is a girl, 14, the youngest a baby of a few months.

When noontime approached, John Swenson, owner of the Balance Dry Docks and Shipyard at Warren Street, came to the aid of the refugees. Those who had babies he took into the shacks at the yards, where he built fires to keep them warm. Then he ordered taxicabs to carry dozens of them to restaurants for luncheon. He maintained others in "the baby carriage garage" of an apartment house he owns, the tenants in which are encouraged by Mr. Swenson to have children. Because of the large number of babies in the house a special "garage" for the perambulators was constructed.

Others were taken to the Elks Home, Y. M. C. A.s and Y. W. C. A.s, the halls of other fraternal and religious organizations, St. Peter's College, St. Mary's Home, Victory Hall, the Whittier House on Grand Street and many more buildings where food and temporary shelter were given them.

Fire Continues to Gain Headway.

Meanwhile the fire gained headway. Dull reverbrations sounded from the cellar of the chemical plant as the water mixed with chemicals. Sections of the walls of the burning structures sagged and dropped with crashing reports into the streets, firemen scurrying for their lives. Generating terrific heat, the fire peeled paint from bricks and wood of the buildings fringing it. Gusts of heat, sweeping on the wind fluctuations, struck at the crowds behind the line, two and a half blocks away, sending them in retreat.

After the first explosion the flames spread to tenement houses in Essex Street, in the rear of the saltpeter plant. These houses had been evacuated and the firemen ran into them with chemicals and hose. The wind, however, was fanning the flames into a fury, and the smoke was so intense that firemen at first sought breath by lying down on the ground but later fell exhausted and had to be carried away. Their places instantly were taken by others.

A back draft blew Fireman Richard Kingston into the street, breaking one of his legs. His companion, Michael Kane, was overcome by smoke. Fireman John McDonald also was overcome, but returned to duty and was cut about the face with glass as another explosion rocked the saltpeter plant.

The fire had then been under way for two hours and was clearly beyond control. The entire block was in flames, with the exception of one corner, where there was a fireproof warehouse. It was this third explosion that caused the fire to spread south of Essex Street to the old sugar refinery. Burning embers flung into the air were carried by the wind across the street, and soon the old brick buildings of the refinery were aflame.

Had the wind changed at that moment a conflagration might rave resulted. The block bounded by Warren, Morris, Washington and Essex Streets was in flames. Northward lay dwellings, the large factory of Colgate & Co., the Pennsylvania Terminal, Jersey City's business district and the Erie yards beyond. Southward were the buildings of the refinery backed up against the Morris Canal basin.

Fighters Hemmed Between Two Fires.

It was in that direction that the wind carried the fire, and the firemen stood in Essex Street with fire in front of them and fire behind them and the explosions in the saltpetre plant rocking the ground on which they stood and raining bricks and burning embers about them.

Even in that peril they did not flinch. But though they continued to pour water into the refinery and though more water was flung into the building from the sides and from the rear, the flames gained headway and by noon were beyond control. They threatened to leap across Washington Street to another set of buildings of the refinery, which were being used by Colgate & Co. for storage purposes. Many tons of soap were there and the flames gained an overhead bridge that connected the two sets of buildings.

Four streams of water were concentrated at that point and the flames were beaten back, but the fire had weakened the structure and at last one end of the bridge fell into the street, tearing out a part of the wall. This served to stir up the fire within the refinery and soon that corner of the block, reaching up six stories, was a pillar of flame. Weakened by the fire and rocked by the wind, it threatened for some time to fall and at last parts of it did.

The police now began to drive reporters back to the safety lines, for a high pinnacle of brick wall appeared to be on the verge of collapse. But though the fire raged about that pinnacle and the streams of water beat against it and the wind struggled with it, an hour passed before it, too, swayed and plunged forward and crumpled to the street.

Two whole blocks were now on fire and it was then that the call was sent in to the New York Fire Department. That call purported to come from Chief Boyle; but Chief Boyle denied later that he had sent it or that he had authorized any one to send it for him. Detectives later learned that it was put in from a pay station in a cigar store at 22 Exchange Place.

The call went through to Fire Commissioner Joseph Drennan. It asked that help be sent, as the flames were beyond control and a conflagration threatened.

Commissioner Drennan, accompanied by Fire Chief John Kenlon, hurried to his automobile and drove to Washington and Cortlandt Streets, Manhattan. There he turned in an alarm that brought out four engine companies, two fire trucks, one water tower, a deputy chief and two battalion chiefs. Assigning this apparatus to positions near-by Commissioner Drennan sent in two more alarms and finally had twenty engine companies with steamers, six hook and ladder companies, a rescue squad and a fire department ambulance.

All this apparatus clattering through downtown New York attracted an enormous crowd and the police reserves had to be sent for to keep the streets clear for the firemen.

In the meantime Commissioner Drennan had arranged with the Pennsylvania Railroad to detach three ferry boats from service. These were the Chicago, the Newark and the Washington. Onto them the engines and the trucks were rolled, and soon they started across the river, landing at Exchange Place. From there they raced to the fire half a mile away and prepared to take up any stations that might be assigned.

Boyle Denies Call for Help.

While the fire chiefs awaited orders, Commissioner Drennan and Chief Kenlon drove to the fire. Leaving their car in Washington Street, they passed through the lines, and went in search of Chief Boyle. They found him in the midst of things with the fire at last in hand.

"We've rolled over, Chief, and are ready to help," Commissioner Drennan said.

Boyle's astonishment was so apparent that Commissioner Drennan asked whether he had not called for help.

"I did not, nor did I authorize it," the chief replied.

There was a conference then. Commissioner Drennan told of having received the call for help. Chief Boyle denied having sent it. He said he appreciated the Commissioner's immediate response and regretted the error, but that he had the fire in hand.

At that Commissioner Drennan and Chief Kenlon left. They ordered their apparatus back to Exchange Place and there it rolled onto the ferries again and returned to Manhattan.

Later, when Commissioner Drennan was asked whether any professional jealousy had caused the incident he replied that it had not. Chief Boyle also denied pique.

"I don't know who sent the call," he said, "but I did not, and I did not authorize it. It was a fine response, but it came just when we had control of the situation. In fact, I had a little earlier requested the contracting firm of Stillman, Delehanty-Ferris, to send a squad of men to dynamite the adjoining buildings and so prevent the further spread of the fire, but I found that we did not need to do that."

Joseph Budin, proprietor of the store from which the call was sent, and Charles Carter, a taxicab driver, whose stand is outside the store, were questioned by the police, but denied knowledge of who sent the call and were not held.

By 3 o'clock the fire had been subdued and by 4 some of the Jersey City apparatus began uncoupling its hose and preparing to leave. The danger then was not so much from fire as it was from falling walls, and firemen and police prevented any one from going near the ruins. At 3:15, when a stream of water was still playing on the wrecked saltpetre plant, the last explosion of the day occurred. It flung bricks into the air, but no one was injured.

Then an inspection showed the twelve houses on Essex Street were not inhabitable and the tenants were taken from whatever shelter they happened to be in to the armory at Mercer Street and Bergen Avenue. Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, who was apprised of the fire by telephone to Hot Springs, Va., where he is passing a vacation, ordered that everything that could possibly be done to bring comfort to the refugees should be done. The Municipal Relief Department, the Red Cross and the army officers immediately obeyed his request.

Mrs. William Friele and Captain Beatrice Koonz (the latter having served in the Motor Transport Corps during the war) summoned their emergency relief workers of the Red Cross. Having obtained permission of Major William Higgins to make use of the armory, they established headquarters there. Joseph White, lay director of the Jersey City Hospital, sent several hundred beds; others were furnished by the regiment.

Word of the disaster having reached philanthropic ears, bread, rolls, butter and coffee were soon being sent into the armory by bakers and organizations of all kinds.

The stream of men, women and children commenced entering the armory shortly after noon. The men and women gave their names and the names of their children, accepted something to eat at a large counter at the far end of the huge hall, and then sat in the seats lining the walls, watching their children romp about and play.

The armory presented a strange but picturesque appearance. Instead of marching men, khaki-clad and alert, were poorly dressed foreigners, many of the women holding babies, and children, delighted with their new, clean, big playground. The boys played "tag" or marbles. The girls, with the assistance of settlement workers, jumped about in a circle to the tune of "London Bridge Is Falling Down," unmindful of the danger that was threatening their own homes.

The police assisted the Red Cross workers in obtaining names and placing the beds and cots on the floor. In the early afternoon 1,000 beds had been set up and preparations had been made for about 1,000 more. In the cases of those who had deserted their homes without taking clothing, an appeal was made which was quickly answered by almost a dozen organizations and societies.

"I have no idea what caused the fire," Chief Boyle said as his men began to prepare to go away. "The place was a furnace when I reached there and I was one of the first on the spot. Some one, I think he must have been an official of the saltpeter company, said that boys had started a bonfire; but that was nonsense, because it was clear that the fire had started in the basement of the plant and boys couldn't start a bonfire there."

The Fire Chief was asked to estimate the loss.

"That is hard to say before an examination is made," he replied. "I don't suppose, however, that the saltpeter plant was worth more than a few hundred dollars. The refinery was an abandoned building, with no stores in it and no machinery in it. The dwellings did not amount to much, and my guess now would be that $1,000,000 would cover the loss."

Speaking for Earl B. Babst, President of the American Sugar Refining Company, E. T. Gibson said:

"The company has been dismantling the Jersey City refinery ever since it was shut down in 1920, and today's fire, which reached a portion of the property, has, according to last reports, damaged only unused buildings which were in process of being dismantled and in which there were no valuables or supplies belonging to this company of any value. All buildings of value are covered by insurance."

Last night the cause of the fire was still undetermined. Jersey City police and fire officials planned, however, to make an investigation into it today.

LIST OF INJURED IN FIRE.

The more seriously injured by the fire are:

BALBIAN, JAMES, fireman; emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

BURNS, JOHN, fireman; emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

CALLAHAN, JOHN, fireman; emergency hospital for minor injuries to face.

COLLINS, EUGENE, fireman; emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

CUNIFF, FRANK, fireman, 229 Monmouth Street; treated by ambulance surgeon for injuries to arm and wrist.

FITZGERALD, EDWARD, fireman, 319 Armstrong Avenue; Jersey City Hospital; injuries to eyes, burns on face.

FRENCH, C. H., fireman of New York fireboat John Purroy Mitchel; treated at emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

KEATS, FRANK, fireman; emergency hospital for lacerations on knee.

KEEFE, CORNELIUS, fire captain; emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

KELLY, HARRY, fireman; emergency hospital for lacerations of leg and injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

LOUIS, FRANK, fireman; emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

LOWRY, WALTER, fireman; emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

MANNING, JOSEPH, fire captain; emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

SEIBERT, EDWARD, fireman, 224 First Street; treated at emergency hospital for injuries to eyes from fumes and smoke.

SHOMINSKI, CZESLOW, 6 years old, of 106 Morris Street; slight burns on body.

CUMMINS HAS HOPE FOR RAIL LAW SOON

MAY ACT IN NEXT SESSION

Willing, He Says, That Roads' Bonded Indebtedness Be Deducted From Valuation Basis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—With the arrival of Senator La Follette in Washington, Senator Cummins, one of the authors of the Esch-Cummins bill, will begin a series of conferences with the radical leader looking to compromises under which railroad legislation may be taken up at the short session of Congress and pushed to a conclusion, if possible, before March 4.

Senator Cummins, who reached here from his home in Des Moines today, said he believed an agreement probably could be reached. He was ready to agree with Senator La Follette's contention that the bonded indebtedness on which the railroads now pay interest should be deducted when arriving at a basis of valuation on which returns should be earned.

If Senator Cummins is successful in putting the rail legislation through at the short session he will not seek the Chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee when the new Congress reorganizes next year. This post, which he long occupied, is now held by Senator Smith of South Carolina, a Democrat, placed there by a coalition of his party and the La Follette Senators. Instead, the Senator will doubtless be made Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, an office to which he would ordinarily succeed through seniority, succeeding the late Senator Brandegee.

Not After Senate Presidency.

Senator Cummins will not be a candidate in the new Congress for the pro tem presidency of the Senate.

"I have had enough of it," he said this afternoon, "and I will close my career by a little work on the floor."

Senator Cummins said he had "a good deal of hope" that the railroad tangle could be cleared up at the coming session.

"Of course, legislation to effect consolidation is one of the essentials," the Senator stated. "There is also the question of disposing of the Railroad Labor Board. My choice would be to leave it as it is, but I would be willing to have it modified in order to get good feeling. The Howell-Barkley bill should contain a provision creating a board representing the public for the decision of disputes likely to lead to strikes.

"The main fight will be on Section 15-a. Senator La Follette's bill presents a basis that might, in the language of diplomacy, lead to an understanding. I don't say I would be willing to accept all of it, but it might be a basis.

"The Senator says the actual investment should be taken as a basis for valuation. He uses the word 'prudent' investment, but there is not enough imprudent investment to amount to a row of pins. I would not consent to that definition because, in my judgment, it is unconstitutional and would have to be fought out in the courts.

"The only difference between his proposal and mine is that he provides that the contract rate of interest on the bonded indebtedness of a railroad be regarded as part of the operating expense. After the valuation of the road is ascertained, he would deduct the bonded indebtedness and would insure returns on the difference.

"I do not believe the railways have the right to take profits from that part of the capital on which they have borrowed and on which they pay a definite rate of interest."

Wants Government to Hold Surplus.

Mr. Cummins added that he did not approve the fact that Senator La Follette did not insure the Government retaining the surplus earnings above the guarantee rate, and he believed this feature should be kept in the law. Forty million dollars of surplus earnings were now due the Government, but could not be collected until the Interstate Commerce Commission concluded its work of valuation, he asserted.

Asked why he thought he had a chance of getting railroad laws through at the short session, Senator Cummins replied:

"I think the people are tired of fighting over a purely economic question. I am assuming that the result of the last election shows they are tired. The chief interest of the railroads, their men and the shippers should be devoted to carrying out the business of the country without fighting over it.

Senator Cummins endorsed Senator Curtis of Kansas for leader of the Senate to succeed Mr. Lodge, with Senator Wadsworth as Senator Curtis's lieutenant, this being "the natural order of promotion."

DEFICIT BAFFLES BISHOPS.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Nov. 14.—Notwithstanding a day and night of discussions the Board of Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, assembled here for their semi-annual meeting, were unable to arrive at a plan for meeting a $3,350,000 deficit in contributions for foreign and home missionary work.

Unless a solution of the problem is found the missionary program will be reduced more than 30 per cent. The board postponed action until it meets with the Board of Foreign Missions in Pittsburgh next Monday.

GOMPERS SAYS LABOR FARED WELL AT POLLS

In Statement at Federation's Convention He Declares Congress Will Not Be Reactionary.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 14 (By the Associated Press).—Labor fared "almost phenomenally well," in the general elections, Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, said today in a statement, commenting upon the results of the November 4 balloting.

The election comment was combined with an outline of the forty-fourth annual convention of the federation, beginning Monday.

"While I have no desire to discuss specific questions in advance of the action of the convention, there is one important fact to which I may call attention, because it is already achieved and cannot be changed. It has been said by many writers in many publications that labor fared badly in the recent election. That is not true. Labor fared well, almost phenomenally well.

"In the face of the tremendous Coolidge landslide, there were elected to the new House of Representatives more members having labor's endorsement than are to be found in the present House. In the present House there were 170 such members. I have not the exact figures as to the new House, but the number of members elected with labor's endorsement will exceed that figure. Among these there are Republicans, Democrats and Farmer-Labor Party members.

"The new Congress is not likely to pass any measure greatly detrimental to the interests of the workers and our people generally. This is one of the most hopeful facts of the day, and one which to us is encouraging and reassuring. Those who fondly hope to rule the new Congress in favor of reactionary interests will find themselves facing a solid group which will not permit the passage of time-serving legislation. Reaction, seemingly drunk with victory, may soon enough find itself intoxicated upon "imaginary wine."

WIDOW OF 1812 VETERAN IS OLDEST PENSIONER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The oldest pensioner on the Federal rolls is Mrs. Mahala Huff of Louisa, Ky., according to the latest tabulation made by the Pension Bureau of the Department of the Interior. She is 105 years old, the widow of James Huff, who served as a private in the Virginia Militia in the War of 1812, and draws $30 a month from the Government.

A recheck just made by the officials of the Pension Bureau shows that pensioners of the War of 1812 are fast disappearing. There are no longer any veterans of that war alive.

Fifteen months ago the number of widows of the War of 1812 on the pension rolls was forty-one. Today there are only twenty-nine. Three of these live in New York. They are Emma Arnout, 76 years old, Asheville, widow of Samuel Arnout, who served as a private in Parker's Company of New York Militia; Anna Eliz King, 65 years, Trumansburg, widow of Harsey King, who served as a private in Trowbridge's Company of New York Militia, and Caroline King, 84 years, of East Aurora, widow of Darius King, who served as a private in Stevens's Company of New York Militia.

PREDICTS DRY WORLD.

Mrs. Smith Tells W. C. T. U. That Women's Votes Will Bring It.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Women citizens will win world prohibition, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith of Des Moines declared here tonight at the Golden Jubilee Convention of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. She is director of the citizenship division of the organization.

"Unity of action can bring this to pass," Mrs. Smith said. "Women, who are the creators of public opinion, must now take up this task. We can and will build a spiritual defense wall around our homes."

Law enforcement would be the keynote of the new citizenship program, Mrs. Smith said. "Women with the ballot are in a position now to demand better enforcement of law, and particularly of the prohibition amendment," she added.

U. S. BRIEF DEFENDS RAILWAY VALUATION

Seeks to Prevent a Review of the I. C. C. Figures by the Federal Courts.

UPHOLDS NEW YORK RULING

245,000 Miles of Railroads Will Be Affected by Delaware & Hudson Case Now Before Supreme Court.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Government filed with the United States Supreme Court today a brief contending that the decree of the District Court of the Southern District of New York, dismissing a petition of the Delaware & Hudson Railroad Company and others, asking for a review of the tentative valuation of their properties made by the Interstate Commerce Commission, should be sustained. Solicitor General Beck and Blackburn Esterline, assistant to the Solicitor, represented the Government.

The contention is made by the Department of Justice that approximately 245,000 miles of railroads, the tentative valuation of which has been placed at about $18,900,000,000 by the Interstate Commerce Commission, are really involved in the case, as a victory for the Delaware & Hudson Company and the other appellants, among them the Albany & Susquehanna and the Rensselaer & Saratoga Railroad Companies, would make it possible to transfer the question of valuation from the commission to the district courts throughout the nation.

In its brief the Government says that on March 28, 1923, the Interstate Commerce Commission fixed the tentative valuation of the railroad properties and issued a notice requiring the carriers involved to file with the commission on or before thirty days from April 12, 1923, any protests which they might wish to make. The protest in the case of the Delaware & Hudson and the other appellants in this case was filed on May 10, 1923. Figures given in the brief show that the tentative valuations fixed by the commission for the purpose of rate advances covering all railroads were approximately as follows:

Eastern group, $8,800,000,000; Southern group, $2,000,000,000; Western group, $8,100,000,000.

If this tentative valuation is struck down in the pending case, the Government holds, it follows that carriers may do so ad infinitum until all tentative valuations have become the subject of equity proceedings in all the District Courts of the United States, and the value of the steam transportation system would be transferred from the commission to the courts.

DIFFER ON FARM BILL.

McNary Against Pressing Measure —Haugen Insists on Need.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The McNary-Haugen Farm Relief bill will not be pressed for enactment at the next session of Congress, Senator McNary of Oregon co-author of the measure, said today on his return to Washington.

The Senator said he still believed in the bill as a fundamental principle of legislation, but felt that the emergency it was designed to meet had passed. Conditions of distress among farmers had been largely relieved, he said, except for the cattle raisers, who could not be assisted by the bill. He predicted that if the present increased price of wheat, corn and hogs is maintained for the next year or two the farmers will extricate themselves from any further difficulty.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 14.—Representative Haugen, co-author of the McNary-Haugen farm relief measure, expressed disagreement with Senator McNary of Oregon when informed today that the Oregon Senator believed the chief agricultural emergency had passed, and for that reason the bill would not be pressed for passage.

Mr. Haugen declared the need for farm relief, as contemplated in the McNary-Haugen bill, was fully as great today as when the bill was first offered, that in his campaign for re-election he had promised his support to farm relief legislation, and that he would continue to work to that end.

Wins by One Vote Out of 1,200,000.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 14.—Out of more than 1,200,000 votes cast, Judge B. M. Willoughy, Republican, has been re-elected to the State Supreme Court for the First District over George K. Denton, his Democratic opponent, by one vote, according to official tabulations by the State Canvassing Board. The vote was: Willoughy, 601,861; Denton, 601,860.

CORNELL MEN HEAR WORKMEN LAUDED

C. M. Schwab at Alumni Dinner Compares University and Workshop Education.

The Cornell Alumni Corporation gave a dinner at the Hotel Roosevelt last night in connection with the two-day reunion and convention of the alumni of the university from all parts of the United States. The reunion will end today with the football game between Cornell and Dartmouth, for which 50,000 tickets have been sold.

The principal speakers at the dinner were President Livingston Farrand of Cornell, President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth and Charles M. Schwab. Thomas Frederic Crane, 80 years old, former Dean of the university and a member of its original Faculty of 1865, was toastmaster. George F. Baker, one of the benefactors of Cornell, was among the guests of honor.

Mr. Schwab, who is a trustee of the university, referred in his speech to the overwhelming election of President Coolidge, and said that men with capital to invest now felt a deep sense of security, especially with the sweeping defeat of the "isms" that threatened to engulf the industries of this country.

"Never before," he continued, "have I had such confidence in the future and prosperity of this country as today. The election demonstrated the right thinking of the American people, and there is no hesitation now that this popular approval of sound government will do much to settle all foreign complications.

"There is no country in the world that can compete with us now. Mr. Dawes's work is one of the greatest constructive achievements even accomplished by one man. His work has created a feeling of solidarity and permanency never experienced before."

At the start of his speech Mr. Schwab spoke of the joy of association and the appreciation of friends, and how the builders of great works got their real thrill, not when the work was completed, but when they received the appreciation of those who had known them during their long and active career.

He told how he had been impressed when his old-time friends from Homestead, Pa., of thirty years ago invited him to go there for a reunion, and stressed the loyalty of the representative workingman.

One observation he made was that the students of the universities should be taught that education does not consist of the things found in books, but there was another form of education that makes the man, and that the man who spends his life in the workshop is just as much educated as the man from the universities. He said he was made just as happy to have as a friend the honest workingman "who can do something you cannot do" as he was to have the friendship of men of education. The standard of morality, he said, was just as high among them as in any other class in this country.

He urged those present to teach the boys at school to be broad and democratic in their views, and not to cultivate the idea of their educational superiority to the men in the "royal ranks of labor."

President Farrand of Cornell spoke of the responsibility resting upon American colleges and their graduates.

"It is not the preparation of our students to earn a living," he said, "which presents the problem of our colleges today. It is to prepare them to be ready and able to discharge the duties and responsibilities of American citizenship."

President Hopkins said there had always been periods of changes since the industrial revolution, but that they were more pronounced now than in the previous eighteen centuries. He said the world had grown smaller and more crowded, and that the problem of education was not how to live but how to live together.

Mr. Baker, after an enthusiastic reception, made a brief speech. He built the Baker dormitories at Cornell, and also gave $1,500,000 toward the Baker Laboratory of Chemistry which was dedicated last December.

The morning session yesterday at the convention at the Roosevelt opened with a meeting for the election of a new board of directors. The alumni association represents 36,000 graduates of Cornell, 5,000 of whom live in New York.

At the morning meeting the proposed new Cornell Medical School was discussed. Dr. Walter L. Niles, Dean of the Cornell Medical School, told of plans for raising by subscription the $7,000,000 necessary for the building of the new school.

BROOKHART FACES CONTEST

Iowa Democrats Declare Senator's Majority Will Be Overthrown.

DES MOINES, Nov. 14.—With the official canvass of the senatorial vote completed in all except two counties, and Senator Smith W. Brookhart leading Dan F. Steck, his Democratic opponent, by only 755 votes out of a total of more than 894,000, a contest for the seat of the junior Iowa Senator seemed a certainty tonight, although definite announcement of an intention to contest the election was withheld by the Democratic candidate.

SCIENTISTS STUDY TUBERCULOSIS 'CURE'

NOT READY FOR THE PUBLIC

New Chemical Arouses Physicians' Hopes, but Publication Now Is Deprecated.

Men of high standing in the medical world deprecated yesterday as premature the announcement that a Danish bacteriologist has discovered a chemical remedy for tuberculosis, but at the same time they admitted the existence of such a treatment and said that it was to be exhaustively tested under the highest auspices in this country.

The original announcement was made in Columbus, Ohio, on Thursday by Dr. Allen W. Freeman of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, who took care to point out that it had not yet met the acid test of general use. This same note of caution was sounded yesterday in New York, in Washington and in Baltimore, the seat of Johns Hopkins University, by the men who admitted the existence of the remedy.

The discoverer, Professor Mollgaard, head of the department of physiology in the State Veterinary School at Copenhagen, is understood to be at work here on his new therapeutic agent, which, if it should come up to preliminary hopes, would be one of the great medical discoveries of all times. The news that Dr. Mollgaard is in this country was disclosed by Dr. William Henry Welch, formerly pathologist of Johns Hopkins Hospital and now head of the department of bacteriology and immunology of the Johns Hopkins School of Hygiene and Public Health.

Dr. Welch was in New York for the annual meeting of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene and was interviewed only briefly about Dr. Freeman's disclosure, which he discussed with manifest reluctance.

A dispatch from Baltimore said that Dr. Welch had accompanied Dr. Freeman to Denmark when Dr. Freeman investigated the work in progress in Professor Mollgaard's laboratory, but Dr. Welch did not mention the source of his knowledge of the work going on in Denmark.

Dr. Welch Regrets Announcement.

"The facts as disclosed by Dr. Freeman at the annual conference of Ohio Health Commissioners are correct," said Dr. Welch, "but I deprecate their publication at this time. The work is in an experimental stage and any wide heralding of a 'cure' for tuberculosis might lead to disillusionment and disappointment for sufferers. It should be made very clear that this discovery is not in any sense available at this time so far as the general public is concerned."

Dr. Welch then added that Dr. Mollgaard was in position to speak for himself and make such disclosures as he thought advisable, inasmuch as he is now in this country. When he was asked how Dr. Mollgaard could be reached, Dr. Welch said that the Rockefeller Foundation could put the interviewer in touch with him.

Inquiry was made at the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Its director, Dr. Simon Flexner, was not available, but others there said they never had heard of Professor Mollgaard, although they believed his name would not be unknown to them if he were doing any work in connection with the institute. Inquiry of the Rockefeller Foundation likewise failed to elicit any information about Professor Mollgaard or to bring any confirmation of the supposition that the professor was working in this country in connection with that organization.

Important confirmation of the seriousness with which Professor Mollgaard's work is being taken in this country came also from the United States Public Health Service. Dr. Freeman in his address at Columbus made brief mention of the intention of the Federal health authorities to try out the Mollgaard compound. That led to inquiry of the service and brought prompt confirmation.

Dr. N. J. White, Assistant Surgeon General, in Washington, said that samples of Dr. Moolgaard's chemical were on their way to America consigned to the Public Health Service and that the Government laboratories would undertake a searching examination of his product. Dr. White said that little was known in this country as yet as to the actual merits of the new therapeutic agent and added:

"All I can say is that Dr. Mollgaard has been well recommended and a thorough investigation of the merits of his discovery will be made. If it is to be used in this country the Government must issue a license for its transportation in interstate commerce. Until our examination is completed, and that will take some time, we are not willing to say anything more about the matter."

At Johns Hopkins University it was learned yesterday from Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, former Professor of Medicine, that the chemical has not actually been tried at Johns Hopkins, although medical scientists there are watching the work abroad with keen interest. So far as could be learned last night, there has been no actual test anywhere in this country.

The public disclosure made by Dr. Freeman apparently was not expected by the medical world. Dr. Welch said that he had no idea that Dr. Freeman meant to make any such startling communication to the Ohio Health authorities, although such publication as he had seen of Dr. Freeman's address was authentic within Dr. Welch's own knowledge of the Mollgaard work.

Dr. Freeman Hopeful.

In spite of the scientific caution with which he made his announcement Dr. Freeman did not conceal his own optimism that, unless there were some slip-up, the world might hope at last for a real weapon against the white plague. The solution used by Dr. Mollgaard, and understood to have been devised by him after a series of experiments, is a double salt of gold and sodium dissolved in thio-sulphuric acid.

Telling of the work which he had witnessed on a visit to Copenhagen from which he had just returned, Dr. Freeman said that this salt worked with such swift and deadly effectiveness against the causative bacterium, the tuberculosis bacillus, that it would release a lethal quantity of poison from destroyed bacilli if it was injected alone. For that reason Dr. Mollgaard had devised a special technique, introducing into the body at one and the same time the therapeutic salt and a serum developed in calves by the injection of dead tubercle bacilli. This serum stimulates anti-bodies in the blood which are able to deal with the sudden excess of poison liberated by the rapid destruction of the live germs in the tissues of the patient.

The Mollgaard chemical is called "sanakrysen" and is the result, Dr. Freeman told, of many years of experiment by the Danish bacteriologist. It was the reticence of the discoverer himself and his reluctance to risk arousing false hopes which accounted for the lack of publicity hitherto, but Dr. Freeman had seen brief cable announcements from Copenhagen and judged from those that Professor Mollgaard had arrived at that stage of confidence where he was willing to take the world into his confidence.

Dr. Freeman said that some hundreds of cases already had been treated in the hospital at Copenhagen and "many persons in the advanced stages of the disease have been, to all appearances, cured of their affliction," although all of them had been reported as of the type generally regarded as "beyond hope."

"We cannot be too optimistic. It has happened before that discoveries which were at first hailed as sure cures for certain diseases under a more thorough-going test failed to live up to what was expected of them. There is no doubt, however, but that the results in the Copenhagen hospitals provide a basis for high hope that the end of tuberculosis as an unconquerable plague has been reached. Laboratory tests indicate that a very high percentage of tubercle bacilli perish almost immediately under the effects of 'sanakrysen.'"

COOLIDGE TO DELAY ALL ACTION ON TAXES

Congress must remain in abeyance until July at least. As there would be strenuous objection to having Congress convene during the hot season in Washington, the prospects appear to be that should the President determine next Summer that an extra session was desirable, he would be inclined to fix the time of convening it not earlier than next October.

Speeches Gave Coolidge Program.

An effort today to ascertain what policies the Administration would follow in view of the overwhelming victory of the Republican Party at the polls brought the response from the President's spokesman that Mr. Coolidge had expressed his views on public questions on a number of occasions and was standing on what he had said. This statement was made to apply specifically to the President's views on foreign affairs, which was construed as equivalent to saying that the President will again bring before the Senate his recommendation that the United States adhere, with certain reservations, to the Permanent Court of International Justice set up by the League of Nations. The President's views on foreign affairs, it was said, are the same now as they were when he expressed himself publicly.

One bit of news that the President's spokesman disclosed was that Mr. Coolidge was in favor of the proposed Child Labor amendment to the Constitution. This was of special interest in view of the fact that the electorate of the President's own State, Massachusetts, by a heavy majority in the referendum on Nov. 4, had rejected the proposal to have the Legislature ratify the amendment.

In response to a question, the President's spokesman indicated that Mr. Coolidge had not read the press cable dispatches summarizing the campaign speech of Foreign Minister Stresemann at Dortmund, Germany, yesterday, in which he took the position that the approval of President Coolidge in the American elections supported the policy of Germany and that the outcome of the American elections meant a growing friendly relationship between Germany and the United States.

It was said by the spokesman, however, that if the German Foreign Minister had declared that friendly relations between the two countries were growing that statement was true. The spokesman went on to say in behalf of the President that it was not only true with reference to Germany but with reference to other nations of Europe. The President, it was explained, thought that the best evidence of American-European friendship was found in the agreement of the London Conference which adopted the plan for putting the Dawes reparations plan into effect.

SINKING OF WARSHIP IS UPHELD BY COURT

the United States have had a case argued in their behalf today. If the public and taxpayers are interested in the navy it is their duty as patriotic citizens of the United States to fully support an action that is to be taken before the Court of Appeals, not only because there is a plot to destroy the United States Navy and merchant marine, but that an order to destroy one of our newest battleships is given without authority. If the public isn't willing to interest themselves in the navy for the defense of this nation, possibly they would be interested in the laws of this country where the defense of this nation can be decided by a man without authority.

"As far as I am concerned, it is not my fight; but the officers of the United States Navy have pleaded with me to try and save this ship and, if possible, bring about a Congressional investigation of the serious condition of the defenses of this nation before the navy is weakened any further. The treaty reads 5-5-3 (for Great Britain, America and Japan), and it stands Great Britain 5, Japan 3 and the United States 1. The British maintain a lobby in the United States and are further succeeding in weakening our navy and merchant marine. The pacifists maintain a lobby that, unconsciously or consciously, carries out the program of Great Britain.

"Such officers as Admirals Rogers, Fisk, Mayo, Gleaves and others, who have been members of the General Board and President of the Naval War College, have already sounded a warning to this nation. The situation is so serious that the Secretary of the Navy, Curtis D. Wilbur, ordered a board of strategy to work out the strength of the United States Navy and the problems are now being played on by the Board of Strategy at the War College at Newport. The results of some of these problems and conditions of the navy, and the influence that is destroying the navy, are laid down in authentic information to me from the War College."

Cites a Protest He Had Received.

Mr. Shearer then offered the following statement that had come to him, certain names being deleted:

"While waiting for my —— to get torpedoed—we are in the midst of a mighty battle—I will start a letter to you, using the machine in hopes that it will receive less criticism than my last hurried attempt with a pencil. We really write so much here that a letter is apt to be hurried and brief. However, knowing your interest in the subject I am going to write about. I will let you have it. I had intended writing you last week; this speech [illegible] published in Sunday's papers has certain passages in it that make me hasten to let off steam.

"I am enclosing extracts from this speech that I hurriedly copied. In view of some highly secret disclosures that were made to us last week, these statements which we all know are not so. are made even worse, and must be admitted to be incorrect by the speaker himself if he were confronted by the actual facts, which he could not possibly have known.

"The head of the tactics department here has continued to compile comparative data to show our relative strength with that of ——. He has not got to —— yet.

"It would take too long to go into all the details of the matter but I will say this, we are hopelessly inferior to Great Britain in capital ship strength—range, rapidity of fire, weight of metal thrown, destructive effect, &c.—and the hell of it is, there is nothing that Congress can do under the treaty that can elevate us from our hopeless inferiority in capital ship strength.

"Gun elevation will not do it. Blisters will help. Thickness of deck armor will help, but we cannot structurally do this. Our 16-inch guns are inferior in fire effect to their 15-inch. What is the answer? Strange as it may seem to one who has not heard the reasons for such a drastic departure in our policy (I often wonder if we have one!) the answer is high-speed 10,000-ton cruisers with no armor unless they have some 5-inch to 6-inch deck armor, equipped with 8-inch guns. This will give you an inkling as to our condition.

Says Department Was Hoodwinked.

"The navy is not entirely blameless of being blind to facts. I will tell you of one incident that may be of interest. About two years ago we had an enlisted man aboard one of the Red battleships during their fleet practice. By flooding their blisters they fired at 30,000 yards. Fifteen ships are fitted with these blisters—their 15-inch gun ships. The first ships to be replaced are not so fitted. We have only five ships that can fire at that range.

"However, when we confronted them with this information we had obtained they answered that they hoped we would fit our ships with blisters. They admitted then of having held the practice, but said it was an unsuccessful experiment; that blisters were only good as a protection against mines and torpedoes; but that they did not say that by flooding them they got an increased gun elevation. And what is of far more importance, they place their deck armor at an angle that makes their ships nonpenetrative at a much greater range. And the joke is that the department swallowed it all. The correspondence is all in the archives here.

"It should be known and I cannot see why most of it should be secret. I am not the originator of the dope. I cannot do more than let him decide the proper time for disclosure. The whole thing has and will stir things up.

"P. S.—I have only scratched the surface."

"I have had handed to me," Mr. Shearer continued, "a list of twenty-two Admirals on active duty, sixteen Captains, thirteen Commanders and eight Lieutenant Commanders. These men represent the leading officers of our forces afloat and ashore, and they have stated that the only thing that can possibly save the navy is a thorough Congressional investigation.

"Last April Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt was requested by the Hon. Thomas S. Butler, Chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, to answer the charges as published in THE NEW YORK TIMES of April 27, 1924, on the conditions of the United States Navy. The answers were prepared by officers of the Navy Department.

"That report was changed and the truthful conditions of the navy were not given to the Chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee. However, the changes were made and the Chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee and the public received a report that was not in accordance with the facts.

Refers to Wilbur's Speeches.

"In April, 1924, Mr. C. D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, spoke before the Y. W. C. A. Convention in New York and stated before that convention that the most beautiful sight in the world was the sinking of a battleship. In a political speech in California Mr. Wilbur spoke for a big navy and used the words to the effect that cold steel was the best for our enemies.

"The Republican Party adopted the following in the Cleveland convention: 'The Republican Party pledge themselves fully to maintain a navy to the treaty strength.'

"Their first action after the election is to issue an order (?) to sink battleship No. 47, named after the greatest man America has ever known, and this order for the sinking was issued in secret, with the excuse that great information was to be gained by firing 14-inch projectiles, when not one ship in the United States Navy that carries 14-inch guns has the range to reach any British or Japanese ship. There are many old ships that carry the same armor as the Washington that could have been used for the target.

"It may be well-timed to advise the American public of a lecture delivered by a professor of international law at the University of Tokio in which he said: 'The Americans are a decadent people, without spirit, unmilitary and unwilling to resent insults. The American Armies are insignificant in size and the American Navy is made up of amateur seamen. The Americans are powerless to prevent the Imperial Japanese Government from asserting its rights whenever it is ready to assert them.'

"I repeat, this is not my fight, and I appeal to every American citizen to look well into the defenses of this country. I offer my services as a naval expert with a fair knowledge of the existing situation to bring this matter before the American public.

"We are allowed under the Limitation of Arms agreement 56,000 additional tons of airplane carriers. This nation would be well justified in using the same excuse the British used in keeping the Glorious and Courageous, which are not permitted under the treaty."

HAS WAY TO SETTLE INTERALLIED DEBTS

PARALLELS HUGHES PLAN

SEES TURN IN THE TIDE

Roland W. Boyden, formerly American unofficial observer on the Reparation Commission, in a speech last night at the annual dinner of the Academy of Political Science at the Hotel Astor urged the Coolidge Administration to adopt the principle of the Dawes plan in the settlement of the interallied debts. He advocated the settlement of this problem on the basis of what France and our other foreign creditors could pay us—just as the reparations issue has been attacked on the basis of what Germany could pay France—instead of pressing for payment in full.

An appeal to the American people to apply themselves to the problem of how America could cooperate with the rest of the world to prevent future wars was voiced by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., who presided at the dinner. Mr. Lamont declared that any American who attended the League of Nations Assembly meeting at Geneva in September must realize that American participation in international cooperation was a greater question than the economic reconstruction of Europe, and that European statesmen were determinedly working for peace. The banker also praised the League for turning the tide toward economic revival eighteen months ago with its plan for the reconstruction of Austria.

Bankers Opposed Force.

Mr. Lamont, who was one of the American bankers in London participating in the negotiations attendant upon the London conference, gave his hearers an inside view of those deliberations and the motives behind them. He explained, for example, that the American and British bankers opposed any settlement that would cause investors in the German loan to rely upon force to secure its payment, because the bankers realized that force was never of much use in the case of international debts. Mr. Lamont said that the London conference agreement had made the German loan safe beyond reasonable doubt, and had headed Europe in the right direction economically. The success of the Dawes plan in actual operation, he went on, depended upon the good-will and enlightened self-interest of all concerned, especially the German people.

The dinner last night followed morning and afternoon sessions of the Academy, at which "The Future of Prices at Home and Abroad" was the general topic of discussion. Edwin R. A. Seligman, MacVickar Professor of Political Economy and Finance at Columbia University, speaking on "Taxation and Prices," advocated the reduction of governmental expenditures for war preparations and the increase of international cooperation. Instead of a "futile cry against Government extravagance," he urged a "fight against Government aloofness from world participation."

H. Parker Willis, editor-in-chief of The Journal of Commerce, and former Secretary of the Federal Reserve Board, and M. J. Murphy, Vice President of the Federation Bank of New York, joined in a warning of the danger of a higher cost of living in consequence of the present stock market boom, and in urging action by the Federal Reserve Board to curb the present speculative movement. Other speakers discussed means of reducing the cost of living without reducing wages, and the prospects for the farmer in the "new era" of agriculture predicted on Thursday by President Coolidge.

Mr. Boyden in his address at the dinner said in part:

"We Americans have done everything for the Dawes plan except to adopt it ourselves. We wish our foreign creditors to pay their debts to us. This desire to be paid is not particularly American. France, for instance, wanted Germany to pay her. The wish of France to have Germany pay reparations was infinitely stronger than our wish to have France pay us. We do not need the money as badly as France needs reparations. Our national budget has not been in deficit since the armistice, as that of France has been. We have not been devastated by France as France was devastated by Germany. Our factories and mills have not been destroyed by France. Our man power has not suffered at the hands of France. We are not afraid of invasion by France.

"If wishes could get reparations from Germany, the reparation bill would have been paid long ago, but the French wish and even the attempt to realize the will by force were powerless in the face of economic principles and practical facts.

"The United States has in the same way confined itself to wishing," continued Mr. Boyden. "Its political leaders have confined themselves to expressing this wish, without explaining to the public the economic principles and practical facts which make the wish impossible of realization. They have kindly explained these principles and facts to France, and in the most friendly way have urged France to be sensible and to yield to the inevitable and to adopt the Dawes plan; but they have been reluctant to advise the American voters to take the medicine they prescribe for France.

Quotes Hughes on Conference.

"Why should not the United States adopt the Dawes plan? Why should not Secretary Hughes say to the American people just what he said to France and the Allies? It fits like a glove:

> There ought to be a way for statesmen to agree upon what Germany (in our case, France) can pay, for no matter what claims may be made against her, that is the limit of satisfaction. There ought to be a way to determine that limit and to provide a financial plan by which immediate results can be obtained and the European nations (in our case, France) can feel that the foundation has been laid for their earnest and mutual endeavors to bring about the utmost prosperity to which the industry of their people entitles them. If statesmen cannot agree, and exigencies of public opinion make their course difficult, then there should be called to their aid those who can point the way to a solution. Why should they not invite men of the highest authority in finance in their respective countries—men of such prestige, experience and honor that their agreement upon the amount to be paid and upon a financial plan for working out the payments, would be accepted throughout the world as the most authoritative expression obtainable.

"France owes the United States and England about $5,800,000,000 principal and about $1,400,000,000 of interest, a total of some $7,200,000,000. It is of no use to discuss our debt by itself. Our debt is not better and no worse than England's, and the two must be considered together.

"If we and England took for our debt French bonds on the present market basis for French bonds in the United States, the interest charge alone would be about $540,000,000. If we charged interest at 5 per cent. the interest charge upon France would be about $360,000,000.

"A 2 per cent. interest rate, with 1 per cent. amortization, would amount to about $215,000,000. Where would French exchange go and what else would happen if France were required to pay even $215,000,000 annually in foreign currency? I believe the attempt to pay even $215,000,000 annually would cripple France.

"Such considerations as these are pure business considerations, just the same considerations as would be applied by any business creditor who wished his debtor to pay.

"Whatever that tribunal decided, that amount would be all we could get if we pushed France to the extreme limit. As Secretary Hughes said to France, 'That is the limit of satisfaction.' In other words, we can't get more than our debtor can pay.

"And when we have determined this limit, we have still to ask ourselves whether we are willing to push France, our friend and ally, to this extreme limit."

British Editor Opposes Collection.

Walter T. Layton, editor of The Economist, of London, who also spoke at the dinner last night, urged the United States not to press for the collection of the interallied war debts. To do so, he warned, would make it impossible to stabilize Europe and proceed further with its reconstruction. He also warned that the bull movement on the Stock Exchange might interfere with the stabilization of Europe by preventing the export of capital to Great Britain and the return of British exchange to parity this Winter.

"If Europe is to get back on a gold standard," he went on, "Great Britain is the crux. Next to the success of the Dawes plan, the most important problem for Europe today is that Great Britain get back on a gold standard and take with her several other countries, such as Holland, Spain, Sweden and Switzerland."

Mr. Layton said that four conditions must exist in the United States if Great Britain was to get back to a gold standard this Winter.

"The first is," he said, "that your prices should remain up. If they should fall, the whole thing would be impossible.

"Secondly, capital should flow both for short and long terms to Great Britain and Europe this Winter if this movement is to take place. The only cause for anxiety is that you now seem to be on the eve of an expansion of trade. You are already experiencing a big Stock Exchange boom, which may raise the price of money in this country. We hope that monetary reform in the United States will be sufficient to take care of expansion and speculation and yet not raise money rates so high as to stop capital flowing to the other side.

"Thirdly, it is not an easy task for us to get back to parity if America, while continuing to sell raw materials to Europe, puts increasing impediments in the way of foreign countries selling to the United States.

"Finally, the payment of interest on the war debt to America doesn't make it easier to maintain the parity of exchange. We can and shall bear our burden, but Great Britain is the only country in the world except the United States that could pay such a foreign debt. If there is any attempt made by Great Britain or the United States to force France and Italy to pay a substantial part of their war debt, we should prejudice the hope of stability in Europe. The United States can still further help the reconstruction of Europe by taking with us a liberal view of the interallied debts."

Mr. Lamont, who presided at the dinner, spoke on "The Turning of the Tide." He pointed out that the economic provisions of the Treaty of Versailles had proved unworkable, and that repeated conferences throughout five years failed to settle the reparations problem.

"And then suddenly the sun broke through the clouds," he continued. "The reconstruction of Austria was undertaken and carried through on sound lines. This particular job was the work of the Finance Section of the League of Nations. Austria was in the depths, credit and confidence both gone; despair sitting in the seats of the mighty. The scheme of Austrian reconstruction was based upon an international loan in which America actively participated. It was successful and great advance has since been made."

Describing the League's plan for the reconstruction of Hungary as having resulted in remarkable financial recovery, Mr. Lamont then pointed out that despite these favorable developments, the way to progress had been blocked by the German reparations question up to the time of the London Conference last Summer.

Ruhr Policy Failed to Collect Debt.

"It was early in 1923," Mr. Lamont went on, "that France and Belgium undertook in effect, by force, through occupation of the Ruhr to obtain reparations payments from Germany on a large scale. Whatever may have been the moral effect of this course upon Germany, so far as collecting the debt itself force measures could be of little use. In the case of an international debt that is always true. And it was the realization of that fact by all concerned that went far toward bringing about the accords of the London Conference. The allied Governments perceived that, justly or unjustly, they could not by force compel the German people to pay for war damage on a scale deemed by the Germans as impossible of fulfillment. Therefore some other method had to be adopted—in this instance the Dawes plan.

"On the same principle American and British bankers, when asked their opinion respecting the issue of a German Government loan, took ground against any arrangement that might oblige the investor in a German Government bond to rely for his security upon measures of force. It was felt that any occasion for allied intervention should by every means be avoided; and that the matter which was of the most immediate and continuing importance to the investor in a German bond was not what measures of foreclosure should be adopted in the remote event of willful default (though the security of the bondholders even in that contingency was provided for); but rather what sound measures could be devised which would at all times provide ample revenues for the interest and sinking fund requirements, and that would also command the hearty cooperation of the German people in the fulfillment of their obligations.

"The allied Governments themselves realized fully that inasmuch as the carrying out of the Dawes plan depended upon the successful issue of a German loan, therefore the conditions affecting and underlying such a loan must be made such as to appeal to the investment markets of the world. They recognized that their hope of collecting large reparations from Germany depended upon similar conditions. And it would appear that in the agreements finally reached at London, putting the Dawes plan into effect the allied Governments did their best to reach a political accord that would mean a Germany tranquilized and endeavoring in good-will to meet its obligations."

Mr. Lamont expressed the belief that the principle of arbitration embodied in the London agreements had not been sufficiently emphasized. He said that the adoption of this principle, so that the Germans, for example, could take a complaint of too heavy reparation payments before a tribunal with an American presiding Judge, "marked a great advance in interallied dealings."

However it may develop in the future, Mr. Lamont said, the Dawes plan must be regarded as "the first bridge built firm enough for all the Allies to march across, shoulder to shoulder." He pointed out that this bridge was built, this final accord between the Allies reached, under the Labor Governments of Great Britain and France.

The Burden Upon Germany.

While Germany under the Dawes plan must accept for years a system of foreign supervision over many of its economic activities, Mr. Lamont continued, "it would not be at all fair to describe this control as in itself necessarily onerous and burdensome." He said that it had been designed to rest as lightly as possible on the regular machinery of German industrial and commercial life.

Discussing the negotiations for the German loan, Mr. Lamont said that they were conducted in a spirit of harmony without haggling over terms, and that the Germans had accepted the terms as fair and helpful to Germany. Pointing out that in June, 1922, the Bankers Committee of which J. P. Morgan was a member, set forth that in order to make a success of a German loan issued at New York and London, the Continental banking centres must show their good faith and confidence by issuing part of the loan, Mr. Lamont went on:

"Now it was not easy for some of these Continental markets to issue this German loan: partly because of the difficult exchange position of some of them and partly for sentimental reasons. For example the French peasant in the devastated regions could not quite understand why France should lend money to Germany. But the answer was incontrovertible: there was no reason why the average American investor should lend to Germany unless France, which was to be the chief beneficiary of reparations payments, should have sufficient confidence in Germany's future to do likewise. After all the working out of the Dawes Plan and the payment of the large sums for reparation called for by it depend upon the good-will and enlightened self-interest of all concerned, including very particularly the German people themselves."

Mr. Lamont said that British public opinion as a whole has discarded the theory that the German loan would strengthen Germany so much as to make her a grave menace to British trade.

In conclusion, Mr. Lamont said:

"So at last one corner has been turned. Economically Europe seems to be headed in the right direction. And with pressure in that respect somewhat relieved, the statesmen of Europe now seem determined to improve their plans for more continuous intercourse and understanding—machinery that in their particular cases they believe will lessen the danger of war. That was the meaning of that great assemblage at Geneva last September when the Premiers of almost all the leading States of the Old World gathered together to gain from intimate discussion new inspiration and incentive to travel the paths of fair policy and of peace.

"To any American present there, whether or not in sympathy with the organization centred at Geneva, the attitude of those Prime Ministers was a commanding spectacle. It made one realize that, important as is the material or economic rebuilding of Europe today, there is an even greater and higher task than that. It made one ask one's self the question: In what way can the generous and helpful-minded people of America cooperate with the rest of the world in the effort to prevent war? How can America gain a clear vision of the world's needs and how can she contribute to them? That is a question not simply for Prime Ministers and Presidents. It is a problem for you and for me, for every person in this country today."

Prof. Seligman on Taxation.

Professor Seligman in his paper on taxation yesterday afternoon said in part:

"The scientific attitude toward the problem is represented neither by the reactionary standpatter, who regards every increase of taxation as confiscation, nor by the enthusiastic communist who deifies the group and distorts the lessons of history by neglecting the individual. In the United States we are at present perhaps in greater danger from the former than from the latter extreme."

"Where taxes are unproductive they are apt to raise the price level by increasing cost. Where taxes are productive of wealth either directly or indirectly through the growth of social utility they are likely to engender a fall in the price levels.

"The lessons are clear. If we desire to prevent a disparity between the level of prices and the level of wages we must first of all reduce our expenditures for war and preparedness for war; for these must, from every sound point of view, be declared to be in the last analysis unproductive. If one-tenth of the energy which is today so abundantly directed to reducing the crushing burden of taxation bequeathed to us by the war were devoted to the strengthening of international cooperation in order to lessen the chances of war, we should really be making a beginning in the direct direction. Instead of the futile cry against Government extravagance we ought to be waging the fight against Government aloofness from world participation. And when that is accomplished, and the way is finally cleared for the promotion of the more enduring and civilized ends of Government, we must then steer our way carefully between two extremes; we must not be drunken enthusiasts, reeling from side to side in an intoxication of prodigal expenditure, but we must also take care not to be puritanical esthetics who mistake niggardliness for economy and who thus dry up the real sources of social progress."

If emphasis is put on getting a dollar's worth for every dollar spent, Professor Seligman went on, there need be little fear of the growing burden of taxation.

Inflation May Raise Prices.

Mr. Willis, speaking on "The Present Relationship between Credit and Prices," declared that the present danger of investment inflation called for "efficient credit leadership at Washington."

"The result of the present disturbance in the stock market," he said, "will be to create an unduly high level of values, and an unduly low level of investment yields. We may expect at no distant day a disturbance of our price level resulting in an inflation of prices, due to the stock market inflation. Above all things we need to make our Federal Reserve system efficient in its control over credit. Under proper conditions and with freedom from political control, there is no reason why the Government should not control the price level through the Federal Reserve system."

Discussing Mr. Willis's paper, Mr. Murphy said:

"The future of the banking system in this country will centre largely around the Federal Reserve system. I believe the present rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank is too low. There was no occasion last Summer further to reduce the rediscount rate. It is in the power of the Federal Reserve machinery to effectively check the speculation which has been in evidence during the last few days."

Magnus W. Alexander, Managing Director of the National Industrial Conference Board, declared that the worker's purchasing power had risen more than the cost of living in the last ten years. In a paper written by Mr. Alexander, but read in his absence by an assistant, Mr. Alexander said that the cost of living had risen 63 per cent. since 1914, but that the "effective" wages of the industrial worker today were 27 per cent. higher than ten years ago, and the standard of living of workers in the United States had risen more than 2 per cent. a year despite the price inflation of the last ten years.

The main problem of industrial management in the future, however, Mr. Alexander went on, was not to reduce wages nor to raise price levels, but to increase the efficiency of production in order to bring the worker's purchasing power closer to the cost of living by the decrease in prices resulting from increased production.

Paul Douglas, Professor of Economics at Amherst College, in a paper read by William F. Ogburn, Professor of Sociology at Columbia University, took a different view of the purchasing power of the worker's wage. He said that the cost of living had increased more than wages had risen since 1890. The purchasing power of the worker, according to Professor Douglas, had fallen between 10 and 20 per cent. from 1890 to 1923. Professor Douglas said the fall in "real wages" had been greatest for Government employes, and had also been large for unskilled labor, seamen and workers in slaughtering and meat packing, while "real wages" had risen slightly in the manufacture of clothing and cloth.

Farmers Lose in Purchasing Power.

Charles J. Brand, consulting specialist in marketing of the United States Department of Agriculture, said that the purchasing power of farm products, despite recent improvement, is still 10 per cent. less than in 1913. In view of the fixing of the price of export crops and products by the foreign market, Mr. Brand said the only way to bring about a balance between agriculture and industrial prosperity was to "contrive some device comparable to the tariff that will afford the same effective protection to exportable surplus crops that the conventional tariff affords to manufactured and non-export commodities."

B. H. Hibbard, Professor of Agricultural Economics at the University of Wisconsin, favored the indirect control of prices of farm products through tariffs, rather than Government price fixing or direct control. Charles H. Tuck, representing the New York Dairymen's League, discussed cooperative marketing of farm products.

GILBERT CHANGES EXPORT TAX PLAN

WILL PAY CLAIMS DIRECT

New Arrangement Gives Transfer Committee Complete Supervision Over These Transactions.

BERLIN, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—Seymour Parker Gilbert Jr., Agent General for Reparations under the Dawes plan, handed to Finance Minister Luther today the following communication:

"In conformity with the provisions of the experts' plan that the use and withdrawal of moneys to the credit of the annuity shall be controlled and regulated by the Agent General and the Transfer Committee, I have the honor to inform you that the Agent General will not credit the German Government on account of the annuity with any sums it may pay exporters in reimbursement of deductions from their invoices on and after Dec. 1 because of any reparation recovery acts.

"Any sums that may be required for the foregoing purpose will be paid only by the Agent General if and to the extent authorized by the Transfer Committee. The Transfer Committee on Oct. 31 authorized the Agent General to make payments under the reparations recovery acts until further action by the committee."

Mr. Gilbert's communication does not signify alteration or amendment of the provisions of the experts' plan with respect to the practice of crediting Germany with moneys refunded by her to exporters, but is merely intended to facilitate auditing of such transactions.

Hereafter the Agent General will make payment to Germany direct for sums refunded her nationals under recovery acts, instead of permitting her to deduct the amounts from her annuities.

The present action is undertaken in order to afford the Transfer Committee more complete supervision of these transactions, which it is assumed will reach appreciable totals in the event that France, Belgium and Italy also levy recovery assessments. The British levy during October is said to have exceeded 18,000,000 marks.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—The Franco-German commercial treaty seems endangered by the question of the 26 per cent. tax on German exports. During the last two months both British and French experts have been studying plans for the incorporation of recovery acts in the Dawes plan. It has been their intention to suggest that a part of the German payments under the plan be used for meeting the 26 per cent. duty, thus avoiding the difficult question of the transfer of money out of Germany.

As the act works in England, German exporters receive from their British clients 74 per cent. of the purchase price and transfer 26 per cent. to the Treasury. German venders in their turn collect that 26 per cent. from the German Government.

Incorporation of that method of payment in the Dawes plan has already been envisaged as one of the first decisions to be taken on the expiration of the transitional period. While it may seem a somewhat roundabout method of obtaining payment it has worked well in England as it avoids the necessity of making actual payments outside of Germany with a good effect on exchange. The French have during the past few months applied it with satisfactory results also though the amount of trade done and therefore the amount collected is necessarily smaller.

During negotiations on the commercial treaty with France, Herr Trendelenbourg raised the question of abolition of this tax, which he said interfered with German trade development. It was on this point that Herr Trendelenbourg returned to Berlin to consult his Government. There he himself described the incident as only one of those skirmishes habitual in negotiations of this kind, and it was as a kind of "try on" that the French disposed of his sudden journey home.

A statement issued by Premier Herriot today shows that the Agent General for Reparations has received from all German payments during the first month of application of the Dawes plan 83,300,000 gold marks or the equivalent of one-twelfth of the billion gold marks to be paid during the first year.

AQUITANIA ARRIVES, DELAYED BY STORM

The Cunarder Aquitania arrived yesterday from Southampton and Cherbourg six hours late because of heavy weather the first two days after leaving the channel.

Among the passengers was Sir William Alexander, Director of the British Dyestuffs Industries. He said he had come to inspect the company's plants in the United States and Canada. He has been in Parliament since 1923 and now occupies the seat for Central Glasgow.

Sir William expressed the opinion that Great Britain would fare well under the rule of the majority Conservative Government, and that the dole system will soon be replaced by a living wage. Asked about the treaty made by the recent Labor Government with the Soviet, he said: "There was no excuse for it. We shall wipe it all out."

Another passenger was Prince Lubomirski, formerly Polish Minister to Washington and now engaged in the banking business in New York, who returned from a business visit to Paris, Berlin and Warsaw. The Prince, who speaks English well, is young, wealthy, and a bachelor. The Marquis and Marchioness De Pinar Del Rio returned on their way to Cuba after spending the Summer at St. Moritz.

Emanual C. Kimmel of 295 Barbey Street, Brooklyn, was brought back on the Aquitania by Detective Eisele from London on a charge of defrauding New York furriers of $25,000 by means of forged orders. Colonel Barney Flood and two other police officials from headquarters were at the pier.

The Aquitania brought 350 first, 263 second, and 198 third-class passengers, and 5,000 sacks of mail.

Officers of the liner said announcement had been made that Captain Harry McConkey, R. N. R., recently manager of the Cunard Company in Hamburg, would succeed the late Captain David S. Miller, R. N. R., as Marine Superintendent in New York.

FRENCH PAY IN TAXES 20,497,500,000 FRANCS

PARIS, Nov. 14.—During October the French taxpayers set a record for paying, directly and indirectly, 3,047,000,000 francs to the Treasury, a figure beyond all precedent thus far.

Of that amount, 2,947,000,000 francs was produced by normal permanent taxation, being an increase of 729,000,000 francs over the revenue of the corresponding months of last year.

In many departments the indirect income from monopolies and other taxes broke all former records. For the first ten months of this year these indirect receipts reached 16,497,500,000 francs, which exceeds the budget estimates by more than 2,000,000,000 francs and is 3,336,000,000 francs more than the amount collected in the same period of last year.

Besides all this the French taxpayers turned in more than 4,000,000,000 francs income tax and other direct taxes, which increase was in excess of 1,000,000,000 francs for the same period in 1923.

Oliver Saylor, literary agent for Morris Gest, sailed at 1 A. M. today on the White Star liner Olympic on his way to Moscow via Cherbourg and Paris. He said that he was going to Russia on a private theatrical mission for Mr. Gest, who was at the pier to see him away.

of the Polish Treasury, in taking the initiative in asking the United States Government for debt funding negotiations within five months of the stopping of currency inflation, and only six weeks after establishing a new currency on gold parity basis. It may be seen that Poland has refunded its American debt at the earliest practicable moment.

"Of course, the basically strong and healthy organism, which Poland is, deserves credit for its pace of recovery, which has broken all records. It was left at the end of 1918 without one ounce of gold, swamped with Russian rubles, German marks and Austrian crowns. Poland was not permitted to rest like other countries involved in the World War until two years later when it finally repelled, in the Fall of 1920, the Bolshevist menace from Poland and Europe.

"During the next three years it had to wrestle with domestic and economic troubles of all kinds. From these Poland has emerged in 1924 with a budget balanced by taxes, with State railways operating on a paying basis, and with a new currency which, from the beginning, has maintained its gold parity without a trace of weakening. Poland's new currency, the zloty, is quoted at par in the world's markets because it is covered up to 80 per cent. by gold and gold assets, chiefly American dollars.

"The public debt of Poland, of which its American debt constitutes a large part, when viewed in comparison with the public debts of other European States, is small. The total State debt amounts to the equivalent of but about $15 per capita, and the total sum is but slightly in excess of the Polish Government's revenues for 1925."

Vigoroux was considered by those who listened to the testimony, to have failed in his boast that he would expose a great number of fake works of art. A letter written by him to Joseph Breck, the Gothic art expert of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, was produced in court. This letter, in which Vigoroux wrote that "the statue which I sold you is of guaranteed authenticity," made a great impression upon the jury and served to cast doubt on the defendant's oft-repeated statements in the court that the statue in the Metropolitan Museum was spurious.

M. Feltrin, the sculptor, testified that in 1921 Vigoroux asked him to "produce some fourteenth century statues." The sculptor said his reply to this proposition was: "Put him out."

Vigoroux explained his delay in making an accounting to DeMotte was caused by negotiations for the sale of a Chinese statue to John D. Rockefeller for $100,000. He said that Mr. Rockefeller actually had the statue in his home for eight days.

MUSEUM RIDICULES CHARGES.

Metropolitan Denies It Was Victimized by De Motte and Vigoroux.

Henry W. de Forest, President of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, issued a statement yesterday ridiculing the declaration of John Vigoroux, convicted in Paris for breach of trust, that he sold the Metropolitan a faked Gothic statue of St. Paul on behalf of the late G. J. de Motte. Mr. Vigoroux, who managed M. DeMotte's New York business, had previously asserted that he had sold fakes to the Louvre, the Metropolitan, to John D. Rockefeller and other collectors and museums. M. Vigoroux repeated these charges at his trial in Paris yesterday. President de Forest's statement in part follows:

"Vigoroux was for some years DeMotte's agent in New York. I know it is claimed by M. DeMotte that Vigoroux did not account to him for the amounts received from sales. Vigoroux, the person through whom a sale was made to the Metropolitan Museum of Art for $3,000, now states, as I understand, that the object sold was a fake. It is a little surprising that such a charge should be made by the very person who sold the object in question.

"As respects the authenticity of any object purchased through Vigoroux from de Motte, the Museum bought not merely upon the guarantee of de Motte but after careful examination by its own experts. We have a highly expert staff, and no important object is bought merely on the recommendation of any members of our staff. It must have the approval of our Purchasing Committee, which includes such well-known expert collectors as George Blumenthal and Henry Walters.

"M. DeMotte is now, unfortunately, dead. We have always had confidence in him, and when this charge was made a year or more ago by Vigoroux, DeMotte cabled to the Museum confirming the fullest guarantee for anything he sold the Museum, and stating that he was ready to stand any demands, answer any questions and do anything to help truth.

"I recall that Vigoroux's charges relate quite as much to objects purchased by the Louvre as to objects purchased by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, or any other American collectors.

"Our Museum welcomes investigation of any object in its collections. We perfectly realize that even the highest expert judgment may sometimes be erroneous. We will be glad to investigate any charge relating to the authenticity of anything in our collections if made by a responsible person.

"I notice in the dispatches from Paris that Vigoroux explains his failure to account to his employer, de Motte, for more than $1,500 for an object which he stated he sold for $3,000 by saying that he had to pay the difference to intermediaries through whom he got in touch with the Museum, and that he refused to identify any of these intermediaries. Such a charge is absurd on its face. It is only if it were made definite by naming some intermediary that any consideration should be given to it. The Museum cannot be approached in any such way."

REGIMENT'S FLAGS GIVEN TO ENGINEERS

Colors of the Twenty-seventh Presented by State to the United Society.

WAR SERVICE REVIEWED

Colonel O. B. Perry, Its Commander, Tells of Its Achievements on Battlefront.

The colors of the Twenty-seventh Engineers, the only regiment in the A. E. F. composed exclusively of mining engineers and miners, were turned over to the United Engineering Society by the State of New York at a ceremony in the Engineering Societies Building at 29 West Thirty-ninth Street last night. Prominent engineers, army officers and representatives of the State attended.

The Twenty-seventh was organized as a special unit for mining operations during the deadlock stage of trench warfare. Its officers were drawn from the Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. But by the time the regiment arrived in France in 1918, the great German offensive was on and a war of movement continued until the armistice. In discussing the service of the regiment, Colonel O. B. Perry, who commanded it, said last night:

"Thus it was that the Twenty-seventh, which had been intended for mining work, was thrown into other forms of engineering. The only mining or dug-out work done was by A Company in the Toul sector, and by C Company on the Vesle.

"The service of the Twenty-seventh Engineers covered a wide range of engineering work and was fairly typical of the service of the American engineers in the great war. It seems proper and fitting that the colors of the regiment should be deposited with the United Engineering Society in this building, which is in itself a monument to the work of engineers.

"We of the Twenty-seventh are proud to have the colors so placed and hope that they will be looked on as symbolic of the splendid service rendered by all branches of the engineering profession in the country's great emergency."

CRAIG SAYS MAYOR SEEKS DICTATORSHIP

Accuses Him of Planning to Give Bus Franchises to Private Corporations.

HUFF REPLIES TO HYLAN

Defends Street Cars as a Transit Facility and Declares People Want Tracks to Stay.

Defending his Municipal Assembly bills designed to empower the city to own and operate municipal bus lines and ridiculing the adverse opinion of the Corporation Counsel, Controller Craig accused Mayor Hylan in the meeting of the upper house of the Municipal Assembly yesterday of attempting to establish a dictatorship over the city's new legislative body, so that bus franchises might be granted to private corporations.

"A desperate effort is being made to establish the belief that it is impossible for the City of New York to own and operate omnibuses," said the Controller. "The purpose of this attempt is to chloroform public opinion so that franchises may be granted to private corporations for the operation of buses with routes that will gridiron the streets of the City of New York. It has been repeatedly asserted that the city cannot undertake the operation of buses unless the Legislature at Albany will pass a special act authorizing it to do so.

"Those who are the loudest in these assertions know that the influence of the private bus corporations and other public utility corporations is sufficiently great to prevent any such action being taken by the State Legislature. Notwithstanding this, a propaganda for 'recapturable' franchises is being pushed under color of which it is represented that in order to obtain immediate relief it is necessary to grant franchises to the private bus companies, and it is pretended that the Legislature at Albany will pass a special act permitting the City of New York to recapture these franchises at some time in the future.

Cites Home Rule Amendment.

"Just as the ostrich sticks his head in the sand and sees nobody pursuing him, the persons who are interested in the granting of these 'recapturable' bus franchises have shut their eyes tight against the home rule amendment to the State Constitution—overwhelmingly approved by the people in the November, 1923, elections—in compliance with which a legislature has been created in the City of New York, known as the Municipal Assembly. The Municipal Assembly, which consists of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Board of Aldermen, has just as much power to pass laws in regard to the operation of municipal buses in the City of New York as the State Legislature at Albany had before the people adopted the home rule amendment a year ago.

"If measures submitted to the Municipal Assembly are first to be subjected to the censorship of a Corporation Counsel, no measure will ever come before it that does not meet the views of the veto power. It is to be remembered that the Mayor appoints the Corporation Counsel. The Mayor also has a limited power to veto any measure passed by the Municipal Assembly. But the Mayor's veto can be overridden by the Municipal Assembly. In this the Mayor is forbidden to have any vote to sustain his own veto.

"The Mayor is only one member out of eight in one branch of the Municipal Assembly. Nothing would be more destructive of home rule, and nothing would operate more to establish an absolute despotism in the City of New York, than to assent to the proposition that the Mayor can destroy all legislative action of the Municipal Assembly through a censorship of one of his appointees, the Corporation Counsel.

"The Municipal Assembly must either perform its own functions, or it must submit to being superseded by a dictatorship of the Mayor and his Corporation Counsel."

Huff Defends Use of Cars.

S. W. Huff, President of the Third Avenue Railway system, replied yesterday to Mayor Hylan's letter to him of Nov. 12 concerning the proposed "scrapping" of the surface trolley lines on Forty-second and 125th Streets. His letter said in part:

"Some of the more than 200 people who wrote personal letters opposing the removal of tracks on Forty-second Street and on 125th Street may have expressed themselves in favor of buses at other locations, but their letters undoubtedly expressed their wishes with regard to the street upon which their business is located, and they are emphatic against the removal of track from these streets.

"You are correct in your statement that I do not seem to realize that buses will replace these surface lines. It is hard to realize a mere theory when you are confronted with facts that contradict it. The fact is that buses have not supplanted trolley cars to any substantial extent where the travel is sufficient to justify trolley car operation and that where attempts have been made to so supplant car operation the business interests have suffered to such an extent that street car service had to be resumed. There may be developments in the future which may justify the substitution of buses for trolley cars. If so, it is purely an economic question and will solve itself. But there is nothing at the present time that would indicate that such substitution will take place."

Low Water Hurts Canadian Mills.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 14.—Low water conditions on the St. Croix River, said to be almost without parallel, are crippling industry. Canadian Cottons, Ltd., of Montreal, one of the largest plants of its kind in Canada, is already affected. It has become necessary to operate the machines alternately with the result that the employes have been divided into day and night shifts.

HYLAN BACKS DOWN, M'ANENY DECLARES

Chairman Says Charges Against Transit Commission Have Been Expurgated.

BOARD RESTS ON RECORD

Will Submit to Governor Its Achievements in Behalf of Better Transit Here.

In answer to the Board of Estimate's demand on Governor Alfred E. Smith for the removal of the Transit Commission, George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, declared yesterday that he and his associates would lay before the Governor the record of the commission and let it speak for itself to confute the charges of malfeasance and negligence brought on the initiative of Mayor Hylan.

Chairman McAneny said he had received from the Secretary of the Board of Estimate a copy of the revised charges as sent to the Governor and that they appeared in a wholly expurgated form. "A comparison of this with the original draft," he said, "discloses an almost complete back-down by the Mayor, following the warning I gave him that he would be held accountable for libelous statements. The amiable charge of homicide has disappeared." Mr. McAneny also called attention to the fact that the Mayor has not appended his signature to the charges as sent to the Governor.

Mr. McAneny's statement reads:

"I have received from the Secretary of the Board of Estimate, in response to my third request in the matter, a copy of the amended draft of the Mayor's 'charges' against the Transit Commission, referred to in a resolution of the board adopted Oct. 24. For some reason or other even the minutes that contain this action were suppressed, at the Mayor's instance, until 'after the election.'

"A comparison of this with the original draft now discloses an almost complete-back-down by the Mayor, following the warning I gave him that he would be held accountable for libelous statements. The interesting fact also appears that he failed to sign his name to his accusation. Until the text of this revised version was received I had some doubt as to whether his back-down has gone so far, as the 'charges' he introduced in the Board of Estimate on Oct. 17, 1924, started with the usual salutation of 'We, the undersigned.' They were presented, as drawn, in a printed pamphlet. The Mayor had them read aloud by the clerk, libels and all. He gave copies of his pamphlet to the press. What it appears now has been sent to the Governor in a severely expurgated edition of the original, communicated with no written authority beyond that contained in a letter of communication from the board's secretary.

"The amiable charge of homicide, which the Mayor first made against the members of the Transit Commission and which, until challenged, he seemed quite willing to employ as a part of his political campaigning, has disappeared, along with other libelous things. The statements that remain relate almost wholly to subjects that are matters of record, and that will be disposed of readily when the stage of formal inquiry is reached.

"The Transit Commission, as I have previously stated, will now lay before the Governor, without expurgation, the complete record of what has occurred in its three years' effort to give the people of the city transit relief. It believes that an impartial and comprehensive investigation will not only reveal the difficulties and the obstruction with which it has met, but prepare the way toward really getting something done.

"It believes also that some light may now be thrown upon the motives of the Mayor in obstructing every constructive measure advanced for the extension of the city's rapid transit facilities. It hopes, too, that the public may gain some more definite information about his motives in obstructing, until his recent conversion, every effort made to secure even the partial relief an adequate bus system would give, and in thus continuing the profitable operation of his illegal buses.

"All of these indications of a clearing of the transit atmosphere in the near future the commission notes with satisfaction."

FILM ACTORS ON STAGE IN LEGINSKA'S OPERA

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The Tetrazzinis, Destinns and Leo Slezaks will have to sit modestly in the orchestra pit, singing their parts as though they were solo flutes or bassoons, while the Pickfords, Talmadges and Valentinos will act on the stage, when the new opera by Ethel Leginska, New York pianist, composer and orchestra conductor, is produced.

Miss Leginska, who within the last two months has surprised prejudiced critics by conducting world-famed orchestras in Munich, London, Paris and Berlin, in a manner acknowledged to be superior to many males, insists that the fact that a prima donna is gifted with an unusual voice does not necessarily make her a good actress.

"Why should a big fat man be exhibited on the stage, throwing out his hands dramatically in the stilted fashion of bygone times, just because he sings well? I want good actors on the stage for my opera and good singers in the pit to make a perfect ensemble with the orchestra."

Miss Leginska's opera has for its libretto Thackeray's story, "The Rose and the Ring."

CITY PAID $3,000,000 TO EXPERTS---CRAIG

annual fees increasing from $287,269.39 in 1918 to $657,002.56 in 1923.

"One accountant, employed as an expert, who up to 1918 was employed by the city at $2,700 a year, received $105,100 for services during a period of twelve months. In an examination of the bills made in the Department of Finance it was disclosed that he paid about $37,000 to his assistants and retained for himself $67,000 for the year's work—more than the combined salaries of the Mayor, the Controller and the President of the Board of Aldermen.

"All of the experts were free from civil service examination, although in view of the comparative inactivity in the outside accounting field a staff of qualified accountants might have been organized by the city.

"Large numbers of out-of-town experts were employed. Many of them were from outside the State. Boston, Mass.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Jersey City, Montclair, N. J.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Paterson, N. J.; Memphis, Tenn.; Allentown, Pa.; Woodbridge, N. J.; Chicago, Ill.; Tom's River, N. J., and Springfield, Ill., are some of the cities that were drawn upon to furnish experts in matters affecting New York City.

"Fees to special counsel include unusually large sums paid, in many instances continuously over a long period and in excess of the city's salary rates for legal services.

1921	458,516.23
1922	686,915.12
	$2,937,185.61

"Total payments for investigations in connection with the gas rate cases to Oct. 15, 1924, have been $157,459. This does not include the compensation of three or more regular employes of the Law Department assigned to supervise and try the cases. The bulk of the expenses during 1923 were paid from a special revenue bond appropriation, and this year from the budget code now sought to be replenished. Of the amount, expenses from the special funds, $132,557 has been paid for the services of accountants, $16,892 to gas engineers, one of whom received $1,000 a month, and $6,523 to public stenographers.

"Twenty-one out-of-town experts received large fees last year. Among them were a gas engineer from Chicago, who has been paid $1,000 a month since 1920; a Chicago engineering firm that was paid $108,544 in 1921 and 1922 for services in a telephone rate case, and a 'financial expert' from Montclair, N. J., who has received $1,000 a month for three years past.

"Real estate experts, it appears, are also very expensive. One of these was paid $75,000 during the last six years. Others received as much as $50,000. Not a few real estate experts during 1923 and the more recent years have been paid sums ranging upward of $18,000.

"Attention is hereby directed to the fact that in 1923 liabilities have been incurred in excess of the sums available therefor, in violation of Section 1542 of the charter."

Upon the request of the Corporation Counsel for a transfer of funds Controller Craig reported adversely.

FLORENCE KELLEY GETS $15,000 CAKE

More than 700 persons attended a dinner last night at the Hotel Astor at which Mrs. Florence Kelley was honored as "a citizen distinguished for a lifetime of service in behalf of the child laborer, women in industry, the negro and the immigrant and for the cause of equal suffrage." The dinner was sponsored by the National Consumers' League.

A birthday cake with twenty-five candles in celebration of Mrs. Kelley's twenty-five years of social welfare service was presented to her by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Chairman of the Dinner Committee. The cake contained a check for $15,000 to be used in Mrs. Kelley's crusade for better conditions for working women.

"I have always felt that certain persons who are bringers of joy should be publicly endowed," said Mrs. Harriman, "so that they might be preserved from need, to enrich the world. I feel no less keenly that there is another kind of person woh also should be publicly endowed, who should be freed from financial burdens in carrying on the work of fighting for good causes. Of such brave crusaders none has a finer record than our guest of honor, Mrs. Florence Kelley.

"It is true that whatever gift may be offered to Mrs. Kelley we still remain her debtors. She has fought the fight for us. We need her for as long as she can serve; and for the benefit of the uture, which always has Mrs. Kelley's interest more than the past, we desire to show her honor in the only way in which it can conceivably be offered to her, by making it certain for her work to continue. Of the feeling underlying the gifth which I present in this birthday cake on the part of the many who have felt honored to participate, I cannot do better than quote some words from a friend who is unable to be present: 'No one who has had in any degree the privilege of association with her has faile dto be caught up by the infectious power and sweep of her intelligence, nor to be spurred to intenser purpose by the flame of her spirit.' "

Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War, said that the dinner in honor of Mrs. Kelley had come at a fitting time "when the glorification of business is on every tongue." He complained that in a country as rich as the United States there was a disposition to forget the emotional and spiritual values of life.

Miss Jane Addams reviewed Mrs. Kelley's work in connection with Hull House of Chicago and told of her efforts to renovate the tenement house districts there.

Governor Alfred E. Smith, who explained in a letter that a much-needed rest from a strenuous campaign prevented him from being present, wrote further:

"If factories are more sanitary, if the working hours of women and children are less; if great advances have been made in labor legislation and in raising the standards of the administration of Labor Departments, Mrs. Kelley's inspiring leadership has done much to make these possible.

"In twenty years of public life it has been my good fortune to help in furthering a social welfare program, and I can bear personal testimony to the effective cooperation which Florence Kelley has given me.

"For the past twenty-five years Mrs. Kelley has been the leader in the movement to convert the purchasing power of the public into a moral power. This is the chief aim of the Consumers' League, and only recently have I been able to further this aim through the public spirited men constituting the Mediation Commission which I appointed last Summer to settle the difference in the cloak industry."

Miss Julia C. Lathrop presided at the dinner. The speakers included John Graham Brooks, Lillian D. Wald, Dr. W. E. B. Du Bois and Grace Abbott.

Among those present were Dr. Josephine Baker, Judge Julian Mack, Mrs. Raymond Brown, Richard Childs, Ernest K. Coulter, Robert W. de Forest, Dr. Edward T. Devine, Edward A. Filene, Homer Folks, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hillquit, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Moskowitz, V. Everit Macy, Raymond Ingersoll, Owen Lovejoy, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, Miss Ida Tarbell, Gerard Swope and Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Warburg

NIGHT CHICAGO AIR MAIL WILL START IN APRIL

Scheduled to Leave New York at 10 P. M. and Arrive in Western City at 6 A. M.

Extension of the air mail service to include overnight trips between New York and Chicago with an eight-hour mail delivery was announced yesterday by Carl F. Egge, General Superintendent of the Post Office Department's Air Mail Division. The new service will begin early next April, but most of the arrangements are already completed. The four months of regular day and night flying between New York and San Francisco have been so satisfactory, according to Mr. Egge, that the Post Office Department feels confident that its air mailmen can fly on schedule by night over the Allegheny Mountains.

The fastest rail time between New York and Chicago is twenty hours. The mail planes will leave the New York terminal at 10 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, and arrive in Chicago at 6 A. M., Central Standard Time. Leaving Chicago at 9 P. M., Central Standard Time, they will arrive in New York at 6 A. M., Eastern Standard Time. Postage rates will remain the same as for the present day flying, 8 cents an ounce or fraction.

The new night flying service, in the opinion of aviation experts, will mark one of the most important developments in aerial navigation yet recorded. It means, they pointed out, that Second Assistant Postmaster General Henderson, who is in charge of all postal transportation, has demonstrated the economic usefulness of aircraft, and that what was a theoretical experiment in night flying in August, 1923, will have grown by April, 1925, into the establishment of the only lighted commercial airway in the world, extending from New York to Rock Springs, Wyo., a distance of 1,905 miles. The entire transcontinental route is 2,720 miles long, and the Post Office Department's intention is to fly at night over the entire stretch as soon as practicable. Special illuminated emergency landing fields will be placed at intervals across the Continent.

Superintendent Egge says that the first step has been taken. "While retaining our New York terminal at Garden City," he said, "we leased a new field five miles from New Brunswick. This is known as Hadley Field. We will erect radio masts and are now installing boundary lights every 150 feet in the centre of the field. Bellefonte, Pa., 220 miles from New York, will be made a main field and similarly lighted. Between Hadley Field and Cleveland we will lay out twenty-three emergency fields."

knolls near the grave. There was a rush for them. Cameras and plates were smashed. Photographers were hustled out of the cemetery.

This outbreak was partly intended as a tribute to O'Banion, for the photographers were looked on as a symbol of the hostile outside world. It was partly selfish on the part of the plate-smashers, as many of them could not afford to have their pictures printed because of the danger that somebody might recognize them.

Thousands of those at the cemetery hate the camera worse than the Bertillon system. When the photographic menace had been ended everything was quiet. From the twenty-six trucks an acre was covered with floral pieces with pious and sentimental inscriptions in violets and forget-me-knots. The biggest of them was a seven-foot wall of carnations bearing in gigantic letters the words: "To our pal—from the gang."

Mayor Dever, incensed by the great publicity given to the challenge of O'Banion's followers to "shoot you out" with the rival gangs which are believed responsible for the murder of O'Banion, directed today that every known gunman in the city be searched for arms.

"It is time," he said, "to determine whether organized outlaws shall continue to shoot and rob with impunity or whether decency and order will prevail."

The police at once began putting the order into effect.

speaking through Frederick H. Ecker, its President, is the latest ally in the tratcion propaganda camp. Mr. Ecker claims credit on behalf of the State Chamber of Commerce for the first subway. As a matter of fact, this Chamber of Commerce tried to obstruct the construction of the municipally owned subway for ten years, and no such subway would now be in existence if that chamber had been successful. It urged the people to reject a constitutional amendment to provide necessary funds for subway construction, but the amendment was carried by a popular vote of three to one. Very recently it urged the people to reject another proposed constitutional amendment providing $275,000,000 for additional subway construction.

Iniquitous Dual Contracts."

"It was a joint committee of this Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association that assisted in fastening the iniquitous dual subway contracts upon the people in 1913. The committee representing these two bodies was actually given a vote of thanks for their work, at the suggestion of George McAneny, who was then the President of the Borough of Manhattan and had much to do with the preparation of the contracts.

"The State Chamber of Commerce, through one of its committees, endorsed Governor Miller's bill which created the State Transit Commission, and Mr. McAneny was rewarded for his dual subway contract participation by appointment to the State Transit Commission, which commission, however, has not been able to secure for the transit companies the increased fare and the unloading of transportation junk at some $300,000,000 to $500,000,000 of cost upon the people, as was designed when the commission was created.

"The State Chamber of Commerce, which is a State body in name only, is disturbed by the rapid progress being made upon the city's independent subway system, which, when completed, will mean a lessening of the monopoly profits of the existing traction corporations, but an increase in service for the traveling public, with the profits of operation going into the pockets of the people instead of into the pockets of the traction corporations, where they go at present. Can Mr. Ecker deny that the policies of the State Chamber of Commerce are dictated by the Interborough and the B. M. T. financial groups? Does this not explain his inspired attack of last evening upon the city Administration?

Insurance Company Holdings.

"Mr. Ecker is Vice President of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The insurance companies of this city were for years large holders of traction securities.

"Will Mr. Ecker tell how much of the money of the policyholders of the Metropolitan Life is or was invested in traction securities not only in this city but throughout the country? Will he tell how much of it is invested in local public utility companies?

"The point to keep clearly in mind is that the State Chamber of Commerce, the traction corporations, controlled civic groups with high sounding names, and the subsidized newspapers do not want a single subway built by the city and operated by the city, with the profits going to the people.

"With one voice they raised a cry some ten years ago that the city did not have the money to finance new subway construction. They raised the same cry within the past few months. They will not tolerate any new subway construction which is not linked up with the present monopoly systems and they do not intend that the city shall recapture the links which it can shortly do. Their plan is to have public funds expended for the construction of rapid transit lines which the State Transit Commission has been trying to palm off on the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and which, if accepted, would have sold out the people of this city to the operating companies for many generations to come without a ray of transit relief in sight.

"The traction propaganda today is bursting forth on all sides just as it did ten years ago when the people were forced to accept the terms of the operating companies before any new subway construction could be undertaken. The people behind the propaganda care nothing for the traveling public. They care nothing about the Government of the City of New York. They are interested solely in getting every dollar of profit out of the people's rights and privileges, and they resort to the most mendacious statements and scandalous practices to accomplish their purpose.

Says Dahl Got Profits.

"It was the McAneny State Transit Commission which approved the B. M. T. reorganization that cost over $6,484,000. Nobody has explained where $4,500,000 of this reorganization cost went to. All we know is that $1,430,000 went into the pockets of Mr. Dahl, his friends and his partners in Hayden, Stone & Co. Mr. Dahl says his books are open for inspection by the Transit Commission but the Mayor's representative, the Commissioner of Accounts, will be given no opportunity to discover who were the gentlemen that divided the $4,500,000.

"Every manner of mouthpiece is being used to secure an increased carfare, to delay improvement in the service on the existing lines and to prevent the construction of an independent subway system. The City Administration is being blackguarded by a most despicable exhibition of duplicity in an effort to hound the Mayor out of office by discrediting him in the eyes of the people and to replace the City Administration with one which will work servilely with traction corporations in the furtherance of their plans to extort from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000 a year from the people in increased carfares and to perpetuate the monopoly control of the present rapid transit companies.

"Neither Mr. Dahl, the B. M. T., the I. R. T., the State Chamber of Commerce nor any traction subsidized newspaper has uttered a syllable of complaint against the State Transit Commission, whic hpermits the existence of conditions on the transit lines that are a reproach to the name of the City of New York."

RHINELANDERS FLEE GLARE OF PUBLICITY

BRIDE A FORMER NURSEMAID

Bridegroom's Father Issues Statement Saying That the Marriage Was Without His Knowledge.

Philip Rhinelander, father of Leonard Kip Rhinelander, who married Miss Alice Beatrice Jones, daughter of a former New Rochelle taxicab driver Oct. 14, issued a statement yesterday, following publication of news of the marriage, that the wedding had been performed without his knowledge and that his son was "more than 21 years of age."

Young Mr. Rhinelander and his bride gave up their quarters on the sixth floor of the Pintard Apartments, 650 Main Street, New Rochelle, and disappeared. Before leaving Mr. Rhinelander told reporters that he expected to be "disowned" as a result of his marriage.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, parents of the bride, at 763 Pelham Road, New Rochelle, it was said that the young couple had been so upset by the publicity which had resulted from their marriage that they had decided to "go away and stay away until it all blows over." The Jones home was deserted last night.

Mrs. Rhinelander was quoted as having spoken of a trip to Europe as being likely soon after she married. As her young husband has a fortune of approximately $400,000 in his own right at present, it was said at the Jones home that there was nothing to prevent them from going wherever they wished. Both of young Mr. Rhinelander's motor cars were in a New Rochelle garage last night.

The statement from the bridegroom's father was issued through Spotswood D. Bowers, his personal attorney, who is a member of the law firm of Laughlin, Gerard, Bowers & Halpin, 46 Cedar Street. It follows:

"Mr. Rhinelander states that his son, Leonard Kip Rhinelander, who is more than 21 years of age, was married on Oct. 14 without his knowledge.

"Mr. Rhinelander has never met the young lady whom his son has married but is informed that she is of English parentage.

"Mr. Rhinelander further states that he has authorized no other statement to be made, and that neither he nor his attorneys will make any further statement."

It was asserted in New Rochelle last night that a representative from a law firm retained by Mr. Rhinelander had been there for three days investigating the antecedents of his son's bride. It also was said that the marriage had been the subject of a conference at the Metropolitan Club in this city between Mr. Rhinelander, representatives of the law firm and James W. Gerard, former Ambassador to Germany, who is a member of the law firm with which Mr. Bowers is associated.

At the Travers Island clubhouse of the New York Athletic Club, which is not far from the modest, two-story frame houses belonging to Mr. Jones, Mrs. Jane Dunham, who has charge of the clubhouse laundry, said that six years ago Mrs. Rhinelander, who was then Alice Jones, came to work there as a laundry girl for $25 a month and her meals. She remained two years, Mrs. Dunham said, and then two years afterward returned and worked for two or three months more.

During the second period of her employment, Mrs. Dunham said, Miss Jones confided that she intended to marry young Mr. Rhinelander and that they expected to take a long trip to Europe as soon as they were married.

Mrs. Dunham said that Miss Jones was working in the laundry in 1918 when a list of all aliens was prepared by the Government because of the war. A number of Italians of swarthy complexion were employed in the laundry, Mrs. Dunham said, and the inspectors asked them whether they were "white" or "black." When the inspectors came to Miss Jones, according to Mrs. Dunham, they did not ask her color but put her down as a "mulatto." After they had gone Mrs. Dunham said that Miss Jones asked her what "mulatto" meant.

"When I told her it meant that she was colored," Mrs. Dunham said, "Alice began to sob and warmly denied that it was true."

After leaving the laundry Alice Jones was employed as a housemaid by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ward, in Sutton Manor. Part of her duties consisted of driving the Ward children to school in an auto each morning and bringing them back at night. Miss Christine Amatto, who worked with the girl in the laundry, said that Miss Jones met young Mr. Rhinelander more than three years ago, when he was a patient in a private sanitarium at Stamford where he was being treated for throat trouble. He first met Mrs. Albert (Footsy) Miller, Alice's sister.

"This whole thing about our being negroes is just jealousy," said Mrs. Miller yesterday. "My father isn't colored but is of West Indian descent. It was the same way when I got married. Women make me sick, anyway. There are a lot of girls around here who are sore because they didn't cop off a millionaire like my sister.

"My sister and her husband paid well to keep this out of the newspapers. They were married Oct. 14 and it's a dirty trick for this story to get out now."

RELEASE OF PIGEONS MAY RE-CHRISTEN ZR-3

Secretary Wilbur Announces That Mrs. Coolidge Will Be the Sponsor at Ceremony.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Secretary Wilbur today announced that Mrs. Coolidge will be the sponsor when the ZR-3 is christened the Los Angeles. The ceremony will take place at Bolling Field, D. C., toward the end of next week, and will be witnessed by President Coolidge, other high officials and a large contingent of airmen.

The customary launching bottle, without the customary contents, will not be broken on the bow of the big airship. It is not planned even to use water. Secretary Wilbur said today that probably Mrs. Coolidge would pull ribbons, releasing a number of pigeons.

The first trial flight of the ZR-3, originally scheduled for tomorrow, will occur next Wednesday and helium will be used henceforth.

CORONER REJECTS ROGERS FIGHT STORY

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 14.—The report of Coroner Eli Mix on his inquest into the death of Charles G. Rogers, nephew of Mrs. Ogden M. Reid, who met his death on the North Haven Turnpike in an automobile driven by Miss Marjorie Schneider, became publicly known in detail for the first time today.

The report disputes a story insisted on by self-styled witnesses and still rife here, that there was a fight at Long Hill Inn, preceding the start of the drive on which Rogers met death, between a former fiancé of Miss Schneider's and Rogers.

The report admits that Miss Schneider repulsed an attempt by Rogers to kiss her but states the coroner's belief that the push was not sufficient to have caused his injuries.

The story of the fight as reported by the alleged eyewitnesses is that while Rogers and Miss Schneider were at the inn she saw there a former Yale student to whom she had been engaged. She is said to have sent a note to him, asking him to meet her outside the inn for a few minutes.

In her absence, the story goes, Rogers, who had been drinking heavily, became unruly. The friend who carried the note to Miss Schneider's former fiancé is said to have informed her of Rogers's condition and asked her to return. When she did Rogers, the allegation is, became abusive, whereupon the former fiancé hurried to her defense and a fight ensued.

Coroner Mix's report insists this story is absurd. He says it has been thoroughly investigated and that while Miss Schneider did meet a friend at the inn, there was no unpleasantness and the friend left with another party for Meriden, Conn., nearly an hour before Miss Schneider and Rogers departed.

The inquest finding was that Miss Schneider and Rogers not only sat by themselves at a table where intoxicating drinks were served but had intoxicating drinks at two other tables occupied by friends and acquaintances.

"I find that about 10:15 P. M. the deceased and Miss Schneider left the inn to return to New Haven, Miss Schneider operating the motor vehicle, which was a left-hand drive, and the deceased being seated at her right upon the front seat," reads the inquest report.

"I find when they left the inn they were both more or less under the influence of intoxicants taken at the inn; that on account of the very dense fog prevailing the operator of the automobile experienced difficulty in observing objects upon the highway and was leaning over the side of the left front door to enable her to more closely observe the highway as she proceeded; and I find she was then operating said motor vehicle at a rate of speed estimated to be twenty miles per hour."

In summing up Coroner Mix stated his opinion that Rogers was leaning over the side of the car or possibly riding on the running board, peering through the fog, when his head struck a telephone pole.

In reference to contradictory evidence given at first by Miss Schneider, the Coroner says:

"While the testimony discloses that Miss Schneider told a friend shortly after said occurrence that the deceased had endeavored to kiss her and that in repulsing him she pushed him away from her, it is not believable that if she pushed him against the windshield such a push would have caused the extensive injuries found upon the right side and top of his head. While Miss Schneider admits that he attempted to kiss her, she later stated that she had no recollection of pushing the deceased."

State's Attorney Alling has not changed his decision that, so far as he is concerned, the case is closed. There is no evidence to warrant further investigation, he insists.

COUNTESS KAROLYI ON ITALIAN INCIDENT

Declares Expulsion Was a Mistake and That Premier Bonomi Sent an Apology.

The Countess Catherine Karolyi, whose alleged record as a Communist was drawn to the attention of the investigating authorities recently by S. Stanwood Menken, head of the National Security League, told in an address yesterday at the Town Hall, what she said were the true circumstances of the expulsion from Italy in 1921, of herself and her husband, Count Michael Karolyi, on account of their alleged Bolshevist activities.

The Countess said she had refrained from giving publicity to the details of the affair out of consideration for the Italian Government, which subsequent to their expulsion, had apologized for its mistake in accusing them of Red propaganda and had offered to permit them to return to Italy. The apology and permission to return, she said, came from Premier Bonomi, and it was only the advent of Mussolini shortly afterward that prevented their return.

"In view of the distorted account of this affair which has been published in America I feel free to tell the real truth of the matter," said the Countess. "After being forced to leave Hungary we were for a time in Austria, but on account of the children we decided to go to a warmer climate and left for Florence. At first we lived in a little pension which was patronized solely by Russian refugees and middle-class Italians. These were absolutely the only persons we knew in Italy at this time, and we were not acquainted with a single person active in politics. After our recent experiences it was a relief to be free from a political atmosphere, and, as I say, we were total strangers except for the people in the pension.

"After a time we decided it would be better, for the sake of the children, to take a little villa in the country, and accordingly we rented one outside Florence from an agent. It did not occur to us to ask who the owner was and least of all what his political sympathies might be.

"Shortly after our arrival we were surprised one morning to see two camions stop at our villa containing fifty carabineers, seven policemen, and a police official, who entered the house and placed us all under arrest. Then they proceeded to ransack the house, taking all papers and correspondence they could find. We were then handcuffed and taken to the police station in Florence and thrown into jail. Here we were kept for two days, when we were told that we must leave Italy at once. My husband at first demanded a trial, but was advised that this might lead to our imprisonment and that it would be better for us to leave. This we did and went to Ragusa.

"Soon after our arrival there we received word from Premier Bonomi that our correspondence had failed to reveal anything compromising, with an offer to visa our passports for our return to Italy.

"The whole affair, as we knew at the time, was due to the persecution of a Mme. Turri, a Hungarian woman, though an Italian citizen, who when my husband was President of Hungary, had come to Budapest on what she called a diplomatic mission. When Count Karolyi learned that she had no credentials from the Italian Government he had refused to receive her. She had sworn in revenge to have us expelled from Italy when months later she learned we were in Florence. The alleged communistic activities of the owner of the villa in which we lived had provided a pretext. I might add that our private papers which had been seized were turned over to this woman, who sold them to Hungarian papers, which published them in a distorted form."

At the conclusion of the address a woman in the audience asked the Countess if she could give the present address of Joseph Pogany, who she said, was wanted by the United States Government. "As I understand this man is a friend of yours," the woman said. "Perhaps you can tell me his present whereabouts." The Countess replied that Pogany's address was not known to her. The questioner later said that she was Mrs. M. McAllister Smith. Mrs. Smith was active in the work of the American Defense Society, and other organizations during the war. She referred to Pogany as a notorious Red.

Was skeptical of Kellogg's Bran until it gave him back his health

Naturally Mr. Carter—whose letter follows—was skeptical. He had tried practically everything for the relief of constipation. All had failed. But Kellogg's Bran brought him permanent relief, just as it has done for thousands of others. Read his letter:

Gentlemen:

I am 43 years old, and have been for years a great sufferer from constipation. I had to resign a clerical position because of rushes of blood to my head, some of which caused me to fall to the ground. I took an outdoor laboring job and tried for the first time, skeptically I admit, your Krumbled Bran. The result has been wonderful. I began to be normal after I had been on the Bran about three days. No more enemas, no more Old Dr. So-and-So's Pills, Epsom salts by the ton, etc., ad infinitum! You have the most wonderful product for constipation I have ever seen or tried. Yours very gratefully,
L. T. Carter, 294 Nineteenth St.,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, does not irritate the intestines like drugs and pills. It acts exactly as nature acts. Eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the exclusive, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Sold by all grocers. Made in Battle Creek.

"Yes, it was difficult to decide on our new piano—but I am so glad we finally chose a Weber—its tone is so perfectly exquisite!"

A BEAUTIFUL MELODY

The Weber

AFFECTIONATELY, she lingered on the last sweet note of her favorite song. Many times had she played it on the old "family" upright—yet never had she been conscious of its elusive and multi-colored inflections, which her new Weber Grand readily, and without any effort on her part, brought to the tips of her fingers.

Such round, full, shimmering tones! Velvety in quality—dramatic in power, with that beautiful "legato" of which she was so fond, and which was such an eloquent accompaniment to her own voice.

ORDER CLERK ON STAND

Joseph Romm Tells How Brokerage Firm Now Defunct Bucketed 90% of Customers' Orders.

Whatever doubt may have existed as to the attitude of DeWitt C. Raynor, head of the bankrupt firm of Raynor, Nicholas & Truesdell, in the trial of William S. Silkworth, the members of the Raynor firm and others for fraudulent use of the mails, now going on before Federal Judge A. N. Hand and a jury, was removed yesterday. It became certain that Raynor would testify for the Government against his codefendants. Raynor, who early in the proceedings removed himself from interest in the outcome of the trial by a plea of guilty, had been edging closer and closer to the Government prosecutors in the courtroom. Yesterday he consulted openly with the prosecutors, and it became known that when the trial is resumed next week Raynor would testify for the prosecution.

On Monday the chief witness probably will be J. E. Lynch, who was Secretary of the Consolidated Stock Exchange when Silkworth was its President, and it is expected that his evidence will be used mainly in tying Silkworth up with the Raynor and McQuade brokerage concerns, the members of which, along with Louis Gilbough, formerly of the Ways and Means Committee of the Exchange, are among the nine named in the indictment. The testimony of Raynor is expected to mark the high tide in the flood of evidence that is being presented against the defendants.

Yesterday's proceedings were confined mainly to the cross-examination of Joseph Romm, who was order clerk for the Raynor firm and occupied the cage in the firm's office along with Raynor, who directed action in the matter of buying or selling stocks. On Thursday Romm, on direct examination, testified that when the order cards reached him they bore in the upper right hand corner the letter "A" or "B." The first meant that when an order came to buy or sell for a customer the same order was to be reversed and the stocks bought or sold in opposition to the customer would be for the "house account" of the firm. These transactions, it was explained, constituted what was called "bucketing."

Before the direct examination of Romm was concluded the witness, in answer to questions by Prosecutor Peter J. McCoy, testified that when the Raynor firm first started in business about 30 per cent. of the customers were traded against, but that later this percentage was increased until about six months before the firm became bankrupt, when it was bucketing about 90 per cent. of the orders. Romm said that one day he heard Raynor tell his partner Truesdell that things were in bad shape, that people were calling for their money, and suggested that in order to get funds a lot of stock should be unloaded on the floor of the Exchange. On another occasion, the witness said, he heard Raynor say that the specialists on the floor were demanding a quarter of a point for the use of their names and that the depression was growing too great to be borne.

Romm explained that the quarter point demand was for the use of the names of brokers on the confirmation slips which had been nullified, and for reporting transactions on the tickers without stating that they had been nullified. In this way it was possible to report on the tickers orders that had been bucketed. The witness admitted that McQuade Brothers and Gilbough paid him a commission on all business he gave to them. Gilbough, he said, paid him $20 a month.

KILLS CHUM BY ACCIDENT.

One Youth Shoots Another in Play on a Hunting Trip.

Louis Schaefer, 17 years old, of 1,120 Intervale Avenue, the Bronx, was accidentally shot and killed yesterday by a companion on a hunting expedition in a wooded section along the Bronx River, near Westchester Avenue. Carmine Buoninto, 17, of 880 East 165th Street, who did the shooting, was locked up in the Simpson Street Police Station charged with homicide, as was also William Kearney, aged 16, another member of the party, who is being held as a material witness.

According to the police the youths had purchased together a .22 calibre rifle and were hunting for small game. They found little of the latter and took turns shooting at bottles. Buoninto, according to the authorities, thought that Schaefer had fired more than his share of the shots and wrested the gun from him. Suddenly Buoninto turned toward Schaefer and jokingly said: "You poor simp, you brought me here when there was a job waiting for me downtown. There isn't anything to shoot here." With these remarks he leveled the gun at Schaefer and by accident pulled the trigger.

LAST DABISSY SALE TODAY.

Total Receipts for Three Sessions Amount to $51,927.

Receipts from the third of the Dabissy sales, yesterday afternoon, at the American Art Galleries, amounted to $21,610. The sales to date total $51,927.

W. B. Crowell bought No. 446 for $510, a lovely seventeenth century Florentine gold-embroidered ruby crimson velvet baldachino. Mrs. B. Guinness purchased Nos. 574, 575 and 576, sold together, six eighteenth century Venetian decorated doors with medallion crowning panels, the lower portions being scrolled panels with basketed borders, for $500. Chapin, Harper & Dutch paid $340 for No. 570, two seventeenth century, Florentine, parcel-gilded, forged iron standing candelabra.

W. L. Clark purchased No. 554, a sixteenth century Venetian carved walnut cassone in the manner of Sansovino, and Schultz & Weaver bought No. 447, a seventeenth century Florentine carved walnut cassone mounted in forged iron, for $310. A Arnold, agent, purchased Nos. 419 and 420 for $370 and $360 respectively, two seventeenth century, Spanish brass and forged iron braziers. Mrs. E. Murphy acquired Nos. 438 and 439 for $325 and $300 respectively, both seventeenth century Italian throne hangings, the first in deep crimson-red and the second in purple shimmering into amethyst tones. The last sale will be held this afternoon.

Sues City for $100,000 in Auto Case

A suit for $100,000 against the City of New York was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Jacques Wolff, retired art dealer, of 226 West 109th Street, because he was run down by a Street Cleaning Department motor truck on Jan. 30 last. Mr. Wolff, who is 65 years old, alleged that the truck was driven negligently and that he sustained many broken bones and was injured permanently.

OIL DEFENSE COUNSEL ASSAILS BRIBE CHARGE

Declares Claim That Doheny's $100,000 Loan to Fall Was Bribery Is 'Inconceivable.'

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 14.—The Government charge that E. L. Doheny's loan of $100,000 to Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, late in 1922 was a bribe through which the oil magnate's company, the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, obtained naval oil leases and contracts valued at $100,000,000 was described in Federal court here today as "the most unbelievable and inconceivable thing that has ever been charged at the bar."

The attack upon the Government's allegation was made by Frank J. Hogan, arguing questions of fact for the defense at the trial of the Government's suit for cancellation of the leases and contracts with the Pan-American Company.

"Does a bribed official give or send to a briber a promissory note for the bribe?" the attorney questioned, after having pictured a friendship of thirty years between Doheny and Fall and after having described the motives underlying Doheny's offer to help Fall.

The $100,000 loan was the anchor of the Government's case, which had collapsed because the charge was both unfounded and unproved, Mr. Hogan asserted.

Particular emphasis by Government counsel in yesterday's arguments upon the fact that E. L. Doheny Jr. delivered the loan to Fall also was attacked in the defense arguments.

"Is there any normal father in all the land who was going to bribe a public official and imperil his reputation and character who would select his only son to carry the bribe?" the Attorney asked. "The selection of that only son was the very indicia that the man who sent the money had nothing in his mind which was evil or corrupt."

COURT RULING A BLOW TO ALIMONY SEEKERS

Wife May Not Have Receiver Named for Husband's Property in Order to Collect Award.

By a decision of the Appellate Division yesterday, a wife may not have a receiver appointed for the property of her husband in order to collect alimony awarded to her without serving papers upon him in advance of taking such action, because the section of the law which has permitted it is unconstitutional in that it takes his property without due process of law. The section has been applied frequently in cases where the husband was out of the State and could not be served with papers.

The ruling was made in a suit of Anna M. Matthews against William Thorne Matthews, insurance broker, of Glen Wild Lake, N. J., in which the wife asserted that her husband had failed to provide for her although he had an income of more than $9,000 a year. She asked $100 a week alimony.

In appealing from an order appointing a receiver for his property Matthews asserted that the papers failed to show that he resided in New York when the suit was filed, that he had evaded service or that any effort was made to serve the papers on him in this State.

EDUCATION SHOW OPENS.

First Exposition of Its Kind Is at Ninth Regiment Armory.

The Education Exposition, the first of its kind here, opened last night at the Ninth Regiment Armory, Sixth Avenue and Fourteenth Street, to continue until Nov. 22. The tercentenary exhibit commemorates American Education Week, which will be recognized in educational circles throughout the country commencing Monday.

Nearly every way and means of learning everything from automobile repairing to basket making is on view, and is demonstrated in a most comprehensive manner. The three "R's" take up but a very small part of the exposition. The various art schools and centres have colorful displays of the work done during the year by their embryonic artists. There is a miniature printing shop for those interested in learning to set type; a bonnet shop for those who would be milliners, and dress displays for designers.

One exhibit shows the vast construction program that has been carried out by the Department of Construction and Maintenance of the New York Board of Education. This exhibit, together with exhibits on how to stay well and what to do when ill, will invite architects, engineers and doctors as well as the butcher, baker and candlestick maker. Among those having booths are the Y. W. C. A., United Parents Association, Vocational Service for Juniors, National Character Education Institute and Knights of Columbus schools.

During the exposition the committee will award twenty-five scholarships to youngsters who have excelled in different branches of study. The awards include courses in the New York School of Fine and Applied Art, the Grand Central School of Art, the K. of C. schools, the Candy Institute, Brown School of Commerce, Vestoff Service School, Grand Opera Society, Miller School of Millinery, Palmer Institute of Authorship and others.

Mayor Hylan designated Arthur W. Hilly, Assistant Corporation Counsel in charge of school building contracts, to represent him and to open the exposition. He said that the city was heartily in accord with the new exhibit and told of the educational activities of the city during the past year.

A different program has been arranged for each evening. Tonight the feature will be the girl students from the physical education classes of Teachers College. Columbia also will present a dance demonstration under the supervision of Agnes Marsh, author of "The Dance in Education."

NEW ARMY RESERVE RULE.

Commissions Will Be Given Only After Professional Examinations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Changes in the requirements for appointment into the Officers' Reserve Corps were announced today by the War Department, in view of the expiration of the time limit set for the conditions under which World War army officers could be recommissioned.

If eligible for reappointment, former officers could get in by presenting their military service record, passing physical examinations and being approved by a board, but hereafter they must take professional as well as physical examinations.

Thec hange became effective on Nov. 11.

The old privilege was also accorded to enlisted men who had been recommended for commissions prior to discharge.

Luncheon for Dr. R. B. Teusler.

A luncheon in honor of Dr. R. B. Teusler, director of St. Luke's International Hospital, Tokio, Japan, will be given by the Japanese Society at the Hotel Astor, Tuesday, Nov. 25. Dr. Teusler, who has spent twenty-five years in Japan, was American Red Cross Commissioner in Siberia during the American occupation. He will speak on Japanese-American relations, past and present.

WITNESS SHOT HIM, SAYS POLICEMAN

PREVIOUS CRIME RECALLED

Policeman George D. Maher of the Traffic Division, an unexpected witness yesterday at the trial in General Sessions of Policeman Robert F. McAllister on a first degree murder indictment for shooting and killing Vincent Fighera on the night of Aug. 13 last at Manhattan Avenue and 115th Street, identified Joseph Dandio, principal witness for the prosecution, as the man who in April last shot him from an automobile in Pleasant Avenue.

Maher was requested not to arrest Dandio during the progress of the trial lest a technicality arise which might interfere with the prosecution of McAllister.

Dandio the day before had told the jury that he was walking with Fighera at 3:30 A. M. when McAllister, a former champion runner, and known as the "flying cop," fired a shot at them, the bullet passing through Dandio's coat and mortally wounding Fighera. Dandio declared that the shooting was without justification, but at the time of his arrest McAllister, say that he suspected the men were trying to steal an automobile there and he fired when they ran.

Dandio in his testimony in the Homicide Court denied that there was an automobile in the vicinity at the time Fighera was shot, but yesterday, under cross-examination of Sidney Lash, counsel for the policeman, he admitted that there was an automobile standing near where Fighera was shot, but neither he nor Fighera had touched it.

Mr. Lash also got him to admit that he had been convicted in 1917 for carrying a pistol, but he denied that he had ever shot anybody. This statement led to the introduction of Policeman Maher as a witness, although much of his testimony was stricken from the record by Judge Rosalsky on the protest of Assistant District Attorney McDonald.

Maher testified that Dandio was seated beside the chauffeur of a car which drove through a block set aside in Pleasant Avenue as a playground. He raised his hand to the chauffeur to turn back the car, but Dandio leaned over with a pistol and shot him through the hip. He lay in a hospital for weeks, and when he came out his right leg was a quarter of an inch shorter than the other. He had never seen Dandio before that shooting, but he was certain he was his assailant.

Pancoast Estate Is Insolvent.

Archer Vance Pancoast, who died Nov. 16, 1921, left an estate of $22,227, but he was insolvent because the Surrogate's Court had held him responsible for a shrinkage of $31,091 in a trust fund left in his charge as trustee by his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Pancoast, for the benefit of her nephew, George P. Bliss, and the latter's son, Ronald. The report shows that Mr. Pancoast accounted for the fund in 1895 and then had $48,695 in his possession, but when the last accounting was made after his death the fund amounted to only $17,001.

PRINCETON AND YALE PRIMED FOR BATTLE

BETTING AT EVEN MONEY

TEAMS IN FINAL PRACTICES

Blue Has Session in Stadium, While Tigers Drill on University Field—Clear Day Predicted.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 14.—Two fast, powerful, well-matched teams are ready and waiting for the whistle which will send them into action in the forty-ninth game Yale and Princeton have fought since they began the oldest college football series in America, and 60,000 will see the battle. Bulldog and Tiger are both straining at the leash, confidently looking forward to a victory in what promises to be one of the closest and hardest fought games in their ancient rivalry. For once the experts and those who back their teams with money are evenly split in their choices, and the teams will run out on the field looked upon as even money bets by the general public.

The sensational showing of the Tigers in their overwhelming victory over Harvard last week has served to send the confidence of every Princeton man sky-high, while Yale has unlimited faith in the team which has gone through one of the hardest schedules in the country undefeated and which all Fall has played high-class football. Princeton pulled itself together after a somewhat disappointing preliminary season, which was marred by a tie with Lehigh and a defeat at the hands of Notre Dame, and startled the football world by the power, speed and dash which it flashed against the Crimson.

The experts are divided in their opinions as to how much of the showing was Tiger strength and how much weakness on the part of Harvard, and the game tomorrow will be the criterion by which Princeton will be judged for its season's rating. Yale has played steady, determined football against such powerful elevens as Dartmouth, Brown and the Army, and the consistent improvement of the Blue has been evident in every game.

Yale Unbeaten Since 1922.

Unbeaten since the close of the 1922 season, the Blue-clad players are well acquainted with the taste of victory, and with one of the greatest back fields in the game, a remarkable secondary defense made up of Captain Win Lovejoy and Dan Allen, and a sturdy set of forwards, the invaders can see nothing but victory.

Already the little village is crowded with throngs of people, many of them anxiously searching for tickets. Never in the history of Princeton football has the Athletic Association known such a rush as in the last week, and while temporary stands have been put in every available place, increasing the seating capacity to 58,124, the demand has been at least three times the supply. In spite of the rush for seats, ticket speculators have not appeared in any numbers, and apparently the effort to keep seat out of their hands has been more successful than ever before. Hotels and restaurants are crowded far beyond their capacity, and the student clubs and dormitories are swamped by the influx of old grads.

Tad Jones brought his men over from Trenton for a light workout in the stadium this afternoon behind tightly barred gates. Nothing was attempted beyond a short signal drill and a punting workout for Cottle and Failing, who will do the kicking for the Blue tomorrow. Harry Scott tried a few drop kicks and then the men were called back to the dressing rooms. They motored back to Trenton, where they are staying tonight at the Stacy Trent. While the smiling Yale coach refused to make any prophecies he seemed highly pleased with his team and declared it was fit and ready to go. The loss of Shep Bingham, veteran end, is a disappointment to Yale but there is plenty of confidence in Ted Hart, who has replaced him.

Princeton did not go down to the stadium this afternoon, leaving the field to their guests for the entire afternoon, but the Tigers warmed up gently on University Field, trying out their plays in the final signal drill. The linemen played volley ball, while the backs kicked and passed, but Keene Fitzpatrick refused to allow the men to stay on the field for more than forty-five minutes. Later in the afternoon the players motored out into the country for a round of golf at a near-by country club, and did not return until bedtime. They slept at Charter Club last night in order to get out of the noise and bustle of the campus.

Yale Has Won Twenty-five Times.

Although Yale has a great margin in victories over the Tigers in the forty-eight games which have been played, having won twenty-five to thirteen Princeton triumphs and nine ties, Princeton has a slight edge since the war, with three wins to Yale's two. In 1919 Hack McGraw's Orange and Black eleven swept to victory in the Yale Bowl when Joe Scheerer made his famous run, and since that encounter each team has regularly won its home game. Last year Bill Mallory's great outfit crushed Princeton, 27 to 0, in the worst defeat in thirty years, while two years ago the Princeton team of destiny closed its season by a 3-to-0 victory against a powerful Blue eleven. Yale has not had an opportunity to snake-dance in Palmer Stadium since 1916, when Cupid Black led Tad Jones's first Yale team to a championship.

With the possible exception of the ends and centre, Princeton seems to have the advantage along the rush line. From tackle to tackle her stalwarts average 197 pounds, six more to the man than Yale, and the entire forward wall of the Tigers averages 191 against the 187 of the sons of Eli. The back fields are evenly matched, each averaging 168 pounds per man. Princeton has the greater experience, with five seniors and two juniors along the forward wall, while only Captain Lovejoy and Luman of the Blue were regulars last year. The smashing work of the Tiger linemen against Harvard revealed them to be far above the average in their charging ability, while Tad Jones has been dissatisfied all Fall with the work of his line and has made frequent changes.

Star Ends to Play.

Three of the finest ends in the East, with Hart of Yale not far behind the others, will stage a stirring battle. Captain Buzz Stout and Ted Drews of the Tigers and Dick Luman of Yale are all among the stars of the year. Beattie and Joss stand out at the tackles as the strongest linemen of their respective teams, with Gates and Butterworth well matched at the other tackles. Princeton has a slight edge at the guards, where Bruno Hill and Red Howard oppose Sturhahn and Root. The Princeton huskies are playing their third year of varsity football, while the Elis are both new to Big Three competition. Captain Lovejoy of Yale gives his team an advantage at centre, for while McMillan is an excellent snapper-back, the Blue leader ranks as one of the greatest in the country.

Yale has the more experienced backs, and, until the sudden brilliance of the Princeton ball-carriers last Saturday, threatened to outclass Princeton in this respect. But now the rival backfields seem to be on a par. At the No. 1 back Dan Allen of Yale stacks up against a veteran star in Charley Caldwell, but the Blue followers are confident that their man will play the position according to the standard set by Bill Mallory. "Ducky" Pond of Yale, the only survivor of the great constellation of stars of last year, has an edge on Tom Dignan. They do the bulk of the line bucking for their teams, but both are versatile players who are dangerous in a broken field. Ed Cottle is up against little Jake Slagle, one of the best all-around running backs Princeton has boasted since Don Lourie, and, in spite of the fine play of the Yale star, he hardly ranks with Princeton's find.

Both teams are rich in reserves, with Gill and Osborne understudying the Yale ends and Tillson and Legendre doing the same for Princeton. Duke Richards and Benton will be called in if anything happens to the Yale tackles, while Dick Baldwin and Rosengarten are the Tiger subs. Davis and England are the second string Princeton guards, with Bartell completing the centre trio as the snapper back. Eckert, Stewart and Burt complete the Eli rush line reserves.

Princeton Backs Fast.

Princeton has a complete second string backfield practically equal to its first one, with less weight but even more speed. As a matter of fact, Bill Roper has consistently refused to assert that his heavy back field would start, although all the indications have been that way. Ted Williams, a brilliant broken field runner, will go in for Dinsmore at quarter, with Gilligan as the defensive back. Charley Weekes, a fine, slashing line bucker, and Joe Prendergast are the Tiger second choices. Yale has a fine line bucker and forward passer available in Bill Kline, a flash of speed in Dan Lindley, and a veteran back who has been converted into a quarter in Eddie Bench. Failing will go in if Slagle outkicks Cottle by any great margain, as he is a punter of parts.

In order to accommodate the crowds the Pennsylvania Railroad will run special trains leaving New York at frequent intervals all morning from 8:45 to 11:12, and other trains will be made up at various points along the line. After the game the trains will leave the lower yard as fast as they can be dispatched. The best auto routes from New York are either via the Forty-second Street ferry and Newark or via Staten Island and the Carteret ferry. Parking facilities about the stadium have been arranged, sufficient to accommodate 20,000 cars.

Although the sky was overcast and cloudy at sunset, the weather forecast is for a clear, cold day. The field in Palmer Stadium is in excellent shape and will give the teams firm, fast footing, unless an unexpected rain falls during the night.

YALE SQUAD CHEERED AS IT LEAVES HOME

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 14.—Yale's football exit from this city today to meet Princeton tomorrow was made amid a lusty send-off. The squad of forty-five players was cheered to the echo as it took the 9:45 morning train for New York City.

The possibility of final line-up changes was admitted by the coaches. It is likely, however, that Ted Hart will be started at left end and Phil Bunnell at quarterback, although how the coaches will decide to manipulate the Bunnell-Bench combination is no more certain than the Princeton disposition of the similar Dinsmore-Williams quarterback pair.

Bingham will be unable to play. The left end selection lies between Hart and Stanley Gill, son of Charley Gill, Yale's captain thirty-five years ago.

The undergraduate exodus from the campus toward New York City this afternoon left the Yale buildings almost deserted. Although recitations will be held tomorrow the attendance will be cut to practically nothing.

The Yale Faculty has notified the football players that they must return to this city by 6 o'clock Sunday night. Two years ago the squad went to Atlantic City following the game at Princeton for a two-day rest.

Special sections on the late afternoon expresses took the Yale degelation to New York City today and other special trains will transport the remainder tomorrow morning.

SILZER TO ATTEND GAME.

Air Service Commanders Also to See Princeton-Yale Contest.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 14.—Governor Silzer and a party of guests will be spectators at the Princeton-Yale football game at Princeton tomorrow. The guests will include Commander J. H. Klein Jr. and Commanders Pierce and Deem, all of whom are conspicuous members of the United States Air Service.

Commander Klein accompanied the ZR-3 on its recent trip to America from Germany and Commander Pierce was in charge of the Shenandoah the night it broke from the mooring mast at Lakehurst during a storm.

DARTMOUTH PICKED TO DEFEAT CORNELL

COACH DOBIE IS DUBIOUS

But He Says Team From Ithaca Is Going In to Fight, Not Surrender—Tickets in Demand.

This afternoon at the Polo Grounds Gilmour Dobie will send his rejuvenated Cornell eleven against the powerful unbeaten Dartmouth team in a game that ranks as one of the important gridiron games of the day. The stage is set and the players from Ithaca and Hanover and their supporters are ready and waiting for the opening kick-off, which is scheduled for 2 P. M.

For the past three seasons Cornell has ruled a strong favorite in this annual encounter and has justified this favoritism by routing its rivals in decisive fashion, but this year conditions are reversed. Odds ranging from 7 to 5 to 2 to 1 were being quoted against Cornell's chances of victory in the financial district and in and around the hotel lobbies they hovered around 3 to 2, with hardly any Cornell money in sight.

Dobie took his men up to the Polo Grounds at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and after the players had slipped into their uniforms they engaged in a very light limbering-up session in which the backs practiced punting and passing. The workout was held in order to give the men a chance to study the air currents and accustom themselves to the playing field. In the afternoon the Dartmouth squad took the field at the Giants' ball park and went through practically the same routine, topped off with a four-minute signal drill.

Dobie Is Dubious.

"Although the outlook appears somewhat dubious, as this year's Cornell team is not up to the standard of former teams, my men are not going into the game with shaking knees," said Dobie after the final workout. "We realize that Dartmouth has a formidable team this year, but we are not going into the game to surrender. We are going in to fight."

Coach Jesse Hawley stressed the fact that the Dartmouth team was not overconfident. "The team has played through a grueling schedule this season and consequently is not at top form," said the Hanover coach. "I expect a close, hard game."

For Dartmouth it will be the season's final game and will determine whether Hawley's eleven will complete the season without meeting defeat. Today's contest is looked upon by the Dartmouth cohorts as a golden opportunity to avenge the three consecutive defeats chalked up against them by Dobie's elevens. Cornell and Dartmouth, since their first meeting in 1900, have faced each other seven times. Cornell has four victories to its credit, against Dartmouth's three, and has rolled up a total of 141 points to 67 for the Hanover teams. Cornell was the winner of the first meeting in 1900 and then there was a lapse of twelve years before the next contest, which was won by Dartmouth.

Year.	Winner.	Score.
1912	Dartmouth	24-0
1921	Cornell	59-7
1922	Cornell	23-0

Ticket Sale Brisk.

The advance sale of seats for the game has been brisk both at the Giant offices and at the various Broadway agencies which handle football tickets. Cornell has taken 15,000 seats in the north stand and Dartmouth 12,000 on the opposite side of the field. Several thousands remain for public disposal. Tickets will be on sale at the Giants' offices from 9:30 to 12 and at the Polo Grounds from 12:30 to game time.

Each team has been a heavy scorer to date and few points have been scored against either. Yale alone has been able to cross the Dartmouth goal line, the other points scored against Coach Hawley's charges being made on a field goal by Brown. Yale scored 14 points in the tie game with Dartmouth. Williams scored 14 and Rutgers 10 points in their victories over the Ithacans.

The probable line-up of the teams:

DARTMOUTH.		CORNELL.
Tully	L.E.	Kneen
Parker	L.T.	Kearney
Diehl	L.G.	Morris
Whittaker	C.	Affeld
Smith	R.G.	Carey

DARTMOUTH FRESHMEN WIN

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 14.—In the last game of the season for both teams the Dartmouth freshmen scored a 14 to 0 victory over the Princeton yearlings here today.

Captain McPhail and McAvoy played the leading rôles, both demonstrating that they are of varsity calibre as they tore through the Princeton line. Starting on its 35-yard line the Green marched 65 yards for a touchdown early in the second period. Another march took the ball to the 4-yard line, where Princeton held for downs and then made its only scoring threat of the game, advancing to the Dartmouth 19-yard mark before losing the ball on downs. Late in the game a brilliant broken field run by McAvoy again worked the ball up and Malcolm made the touchdown through centre.

COLUMBIA INVADES WEST POINT TODAY

4,000 TO ACCOMPANY TEAM

Band Also Will Make Trip After Squad Departs at 10 o'Clock—Empringham May Start as Back.

Columbia's varsity squad finished off its preparations for the Army game with a long session of line drills, signal practice and punting at Baker Field yesterday afternoon. At the end Coach Paul Withington pronounced his squad to be in first-rate shape, with every regular and second-string man ready to jump in at a moment's notice.

Ray Kirchmeyer, the back-field star who was hurt in the Cornell game, was in the thick of yesterday's workout and showed little evidence of his shoulder injury, but it seemed probable that Cy Empringham, last year's freshman captain, would have the call over the veteran back for the honor of starting the game against the Cadets. Empringham and Kirchmeyer have been staging a spirited battle all season for the fourth place in the back field, and in the last few weeks the former freshman star has come along so fast that he has taken the position away from Kirchmeyer. Empringham's line plunging and punting may play an important part in today's game.

The substitution of Empringham in the back field will be the only change in the Blue and White line-up. Pease, Koppisch and Sesit will round out the back field, and from end to end Withington will have his full strength available—Manning and Wagner at ends, Smullen and Price at tackles, Wiberg and Raphael at guards and Schimititsch at centre.

Columbia will pin its hopes on a strong defense against the Army. With the assistance of Dr. Arthur Brides, the former Yale coach, Withington has made valliant efforts to whip the Blue and White line into shape to meet the heavy attack of the Army forwards and backs. It is likely that the Morningside team will play a defensive game, hoping to hold the Cadets safe while Koppisch, Pease and Empringham attempt to get loose for a long run. In punting the Army will have a big advantage with Bill Woods in the kicking rôle, but Columbia expects to offset this with good covering of punts by Wagner and Manning.

The varsity squad, forty-five strong will leave for West Point at 10 o'clock this morning in charge of Coach Withington, arriving in time for lunch before the game. Assistant coaches, managers and trainers will be in the detachment, bringing it up to about sixty.

Four thousand Columbia rooters, the largest cheering section ever to attend an out-of-town game, will follow in the wake of the team today. Most of the New Yorkers will leave on a special train over the West Shore Railroad which leaves at noon from Weehawken, returning to New York after the game. Many of the Columbia folk will motor to the scene of the battle. The university band will make the trip.

ARMY SQUAD IS IDLE ON EVE OF CONTEST

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 14.—There was no practice at all for the Army football squad today. Because of other duties the Cadets were unable to get out for football until so late that the light workout planned as final preparations for the contest with Columbia was called off and instead Head Coach Captain McEwan took his charges into the Gym and lectured at length to them, taking chiefly as his subject the Columbia style of attack. Several last minute changes have been made in the Army team as it will face the Lions tomorrow.

Gilbreath will replace Davidson at left end. Westphalinger, who played as substitute centre for Garbisch last year, will be in Griffith's place at left tackle, and Hewitt will start the game at left halfback in place of Wilson. Born is slated to play right end, where Fraser has been playing in all of Army's important contests this year. Coach McEwan announced these changes when he gave out his official line-up for the game this afternoon.

Although the largest crowd of the local season is expected to witness the game, the athletic authorities tonight announced that plenty of good seats would be available for those who are contemplating coming here tomorrow.

Special dedicatory ceremonies, in which the Cadets will participate, will precede the beginning of the game, as the new stadium is to be formally dedicated on the occasion of Columbia's first visit here for a football contest with the Army in twenty-five years.

The probable line-up:

ARMY.		COLUMBIA.
Gilbreath	L.E.	Manning
Westphalinger	L.T.	Smullen
Ellinger	L.G.	Raphael
Garbisch	C.	Schimititsch
Farwick	R.G.	Wiberg

STEVENS TO MEET R. P. I.

Hoboken Eleven in Good Shape for Rensselaer Game Today.

The Stevens Institute eleven is said to be in good form for its big game of the season, that with Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute which will be played this afternoon at Castle Point, Hoboken. The only one of the regular Stevens team who will be out of the game tomorrow will be Captain O'Callaghan, who was injured two weeks ago.

Coach Stallings gave out the probable Stevens line-up last night as follows: Ends, Surbeck and De Hart; tackles, Lewis and De Maso; guards, Myiting and Hourigan; centre, Miller; quarterback, Allen; halfbacks, Le Rose and Hannon; fullback, Egert.

Records of Yale-Princeton On Gridiron for This Season

Yale and Princeton have each scored four victories thus far this season, but the Tiger record includes a defeat while that of the New Haven team does not. Yale, however, has played two tie games, as against one for Princeton. North Carolina, Georgia, Brown and Maryland were the teams to bow to the New Haven eleven, while Dartmouth and the Army held it even. Princeton's defeat was at the hands of Notre Dame and the victories were scored over Amherst, Navy, Swarthmore and Harvard. The tie game was played with Lehigh.

The records of the two teams for the season follow:

Yale.

HARVARD ON EDGE FOR BROWN GAME

Crimson to Muster Full Strength for Crucial Contest This Afternoon.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 14.—Harvard's poor showing against the Tigers last week has not interfered with the tremendous interest in tomorrow's match between the Crimson and Brown. More than 45,000 seats for the game have been sold, and a fair day tomorrow will mean that the stadium once again will be crowded with football fans.

Brown beat Harvard 20 to 7 last year and won by a field goal the season before. However, these games were played against Harvard teams made up more or less of substitutes, while tomorrow the Cambridge coaches will send out the strongest rush line they can get together and will have a back field which possibly may prove speedier than that which is comprised of the heavier carriers, Hammond, Gehrke and Miller, none of whom is likely to be in the game tomorrow afternoon.

All week the team here has been driven hard. This has not been in scrimmage play, but in the dummy drills, which, except for the absence of hard tackling, have approximated the real thing. The line will be shifted from that one used in the Princeton game because of the placing of Captain Greenough at centre, where he played last year; the return of Dunker, one of last year's regulars to guard, and the use of Coady at tackle again. Robb won't be able to play at all, but during the week Dyan has made a lot of real progress and he and Gamache are looked to to take good care of the wings.

It is the intention of the coaches to have every available man ready for play, and, if needed, Hammond may be used. No member of the team who is at all in shape to play will be sent down to watch Yale and the Tigers tomorrow and Fisher's entire squad of field coaches will remain on the job for what is considered an all important game.

N. Y. U. WILL OPPOSE RUTGERS TEAM HERE

The Rutgers football machine, which has rolled on unbeaten through the season so far, will meet New York University's eleven this afternoon on Ohio Field and Coach Wallace and his scarlet-clad warriors are expecting another victory to be added to their impressive record before the sun sets. The game will start at 2 o'clock and several thousands are expected to be on hand to see the flashy Benkert and the powerful Hazel in action. Benkert is leading the scorers of the East and with only two more games in which to add to his total he will make every effort to clinch the title this afternoon. Hazel's toe has been a scoring factor throughout the season and he is heavily counted on today.

The Lavender team, after being buried under a huge score rolled up by Columbia last week, faces another hard game and victory is hardly expected of the New York eleven by neutral followers of the game.

Hanf	L.E.	Howley
Gibson	L.T.	Milan
Lincoln	L.G.	Treacy
Brennan	C.	Kearney
Fuchs	R.G.	Skudin

PENN STATE READY FOR PENN ELEVEN

54,000 TO SEE CONTEST

Every Seat Sold, With Thousands Unable to Get Tickets—Quakers' Record at Stake.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—A game of major importance in the East will be played on Franklin Field tomorrow afternoon between the University of Pennsylvania and Pennsylvania State College. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Hugh Bezdek's rejuvenated team which last Saturday defeated Carnegie Tech 22 to 6, an eleven that had previously humbled the Pittsburgh Panthers 6 to 0, may put an end to Pennsylvania's streak of victories. Penn State, after defeating Lebanon Valley, North Carolina State and Gettysburg, ran into snags on successive Saturdays, losing to Georgia Tech and Syracuse. Then came a victory over the Naval Academy, followed by the defeat of Carnegie Tech. Pennsylvania has defeated in succession Ursinus, Drexel, Franklin and Marshall, Swarthmore, Columbia, Virginia, Lafayette and Georgetown, and ranks as the only undefeated and untied team in the East.

As a result of the poor showing of the team against Georgetown, Coach Young altered his plans during the early part of this week. The regulars were forced to work out on Monday and go through a strenuous scrimmage drill on Tuesday. Wednesday the squad left for Absecon, a day in advance of the regular plans. The team will come up from the shore in the morning. The Penn State team arrived this morning.

The exact line-up of the Penn team probably will not be known until a few minutes before game time. There is a possibility that Frank Dewhirst, the Massachusetts lineman, will take Willson's place at right tackle, and that Leth will start in place of Fields, who is suffering from an injured arm.

The remainder of the Red and Blue team will be the same as started every game since the Swarthmore contest. Robinson, at centre; Craig and Fairchild, ends; McGinley, tackle, and Papworth and Coleman at guards, will compose the line, with McGraw and Kruez completing the backfield.

Every seat for the game has been sold. It has been estimated that close to 75,000 persons sought tickets for the game, with 54,000 being supplied.

Penn State and Pennsylvania date their rivalry on the gridiron back to 1890. Since that time twenty-six games have been played, with Pennsylvania holding the edge in victories with 19. One game resulted in a tie. Pennsylvania has been the winner of only one game out of the last four played. That was in 1922, when Captain Ross Miller's team won 7 to 6.

Craig	L.E.	Weston
McGinley	L.T.	Filack
Coleman	L.G.	House
Robinson	C.	Gray
Papworth	R.G.	McCann
Willson	R.T.	Prevost
Fairchild	R.E.	Wilson
Laird	Q.B.	Lafferty
Fields	L.H.B.	Watson
McGraw	R.H.B.	Helbig
Kruez	F.B.	Bergman

Referee—Wilmer Crowell, Swarthmore. Umpire—Charles J. McCarty, Germantown Academy. Field judge—Michael J. Thompson, Mount St. Mary's. Linesman—C. J. Eckles, Washington and Jefferson. Time of periods—15 minutes.

FORDHAM FAVORED TO DEFEAT C. C. N. Y.

Fordham and C. C. N. Y. will meet today in their annual battle at 2:30 in the Lewisohn Stadium. Today's game will close the season for the Lavender and their full strength will be put into this game in an attempt to stop the Maroon attack, which proved to be so powerful against N. Y. U. two weeks ago. Fordham is favored to come out of the fray the winner, but Frank Gargan, Fordham coach, although confident of winning is not banking on an easy time with Coach Parker's outfit. The Maroon mentor will start all of his regulars who are available and is not willing to take a chance with the second string men. Captain Phildius of the Lavender will start the game, but there is a question as to whether he will play it through, due to a bad leg injured in the first game of the season. Captain Brennan of Fordham is definitely out of the contest as a result of an injury in the N. Y. U. game.

Both teams concluded the week's work yesterday with light drills and it was the last practice of the season for the City College team. Fordham held the lightest drill so far this season, consisting of a punting practice and a brief signal drill.

Both teams will be represented on the field today with much stronger teams than they had a year ago. Hal Parker has worked wonders with this aggregation and has changed it to a winning combination after years of poor football at C. C. N. Y. Frank Gargan has also put out a team that shows more than they have had in late years. Little hope is entertained at the Lewisohn Stadium of beating Fordham, but the City collegians are determined to extend their time honored rivals.

Woerner, Fordham halfback, will be kept out of the game today because of an injury. Dreiband, C. C. N. Y. pivot man, who has been forced to miss the entire week's practice because of illness, will play at centre. Malone will start in Woerner's place for Fordham with Slane or Delaney to fall back on. A gathering of 5,000 is expected to view the contest.

The probable line-up:

FORDHAM.		C. C. N. Y.
Stanford	L.E.	Phildius

ADELPHI ELEVEN WINS.

Muir's 70-Yard Run Brings Defeat to Horace Mann, 6-0.

The Adelphi Academy football team scored a hard earned victory yesterday at Horace Mann Field when Muir raced seventy yards around end for the touchdown which defeated Horace Mann High School by the score of 6 to 0. This was the last game of the season for Horace Mann.

The line-up:

SINGLE FOOT FIRST IN $10,000 WALDEN

McATEE RIDES 2 WINNERS

Special to The New York Times.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 14.—J. E. Griffith's speedy Single Foot this afternoon won the $10,000 Walden, the last of the rich Autumn stakes for two-year-olds, beating a dozen of the best of the youngsters still in training. He shouldered 117 pounds and ran the mile in the excellent time of 1:39 4-5, Fairbrother bringing him home more than a length in front of E. Byers's Young Martin. The winner was second choice in the wagering to the H. P. Whitney pair of Courageous and Candy Kid, neither of which finished in the money. He paid $9.10 for a $2 ticket. The race was worth $11,100 to the owner of the winner.

Pony McAtee took the day's riding honors with two winning mounts, landing Miss Whisk in the third race and Revoke in the sixth. Johnny Maiben continued his excellent riding, winning the fifth with Ten Eyck and being second and third, respectively, with his other two mounts.

Single Foot and Candy Kid were figured the class of the Walden field and they ran according to expectations for most of the journey. The Whitney colt, however, raced himself out to finish seventh. Single Foot, on the other hand, was held under wraps for the first part of the race and was still strong when the final test came.

Candy Kid in Front.

Candy Kid broke into the lead from No. 2 post position when the barrier rose on a first-class start. By Hisself was on the rail at the post, and when the break came he stumbled and went to his knees. Coltiletti hung on, but whatever chances the son of Man o' War might have had were destroyed by his mishap.

The Whitney colt was not interfered with and shot to the front, quickly opening two lengths on S. Ross's On Top, which was followed by Young Martin and Single Foot. On Top soon fell back as the Whitney colt cut out a fast pace. There followed a bitter duel between Candy Kid and Young Martin which lasted well into the stretch, where the former finally succumbed to Young Martin's continued challenge.

Fairbrother had held Single Foot under slight restraint while the two leaders were racing themselves out, but he was never more than a length away from the leaders. After going a half mile Fairbrother let the son of Wrack and Virginia L. have his head, and he worked his way up on the outside to challenge Young Martin. Candy Kid was through now, and Young Martin had also used himself up and could not withstand Single Foot's closing challenge.

Young Martin held on long enough to take the place by a decisive margin from Walter J. Salmon's Ultimus filly, Primrose, which the winner had beaten in the National Stakes at Laurel Park. The filly finished full of courage to take third money by a neck from Gifford A. Cochran's Battlefield. Fisher rode a weak finish on the Cochran colt, which might easily have been third. Senalado and Campfire Tales broke slowly and were forced to go wide all the way.

The fractional times of the race were as follows: 0:23 2-5, 0:47 4-5, 1:12 4-5, 1:39 4-5.

E. F. Whitney's Mainmast accounted for the Patapsco Handicap, over the six furlong course, for three-year-olds and upward, carrying top weight of 120 pounds, and running the distance in 1:12 1-5. The six-year-old son of Superman and Masthead, with Chick Lang up, was held under wraps closely following the pace, and went to the fore when called upon, to win easily by a couple of lengths from Leonard G. D. Buchanan's Dimmesdale, the favorite, tired slightly near the finish and took third money. Dr. Hickman led the field of nine for half a mile, but found the company too fast.

Miss Whisk Shows Speed.

Miss Whisk, Harry Payne Whitney's three-year-old filly, by Whisk Broom II.—Wonder, was a handy victor in the Govans Purse, a sprint of six furlongs, for all ages, in which eight went to the post. The filly was the favorite, and she beat the second choice, Mrs. W. M. Jefford's two-year-old Goldpiece, by a length, running the distance in 1:12 2-5 under 105 pounds.

Goldpiece got the break at the barrier and showed high speed, but quit in the stretch battle. Miss Whisk followed the pace closest, challenged Goldpiece in the stretch and wore him down in a long drive to draw away in the last hundred yards. Cyclops held the rest of the field safely, finished with good speed, but was unable to get to the leaders.

The Junior Steeplechase, restricted to the three-year-olds, brought out five for the journey of two miles. Only three got the course. L. E. Keiffer's Owen Tudor, landing badly over the eleventh fence, came down, while W. J. Clothier's San Dimas fell at the fourth obstacle while trailing the field. The former was the public choice and was leading the lot when he fell.

J. E. Davis's Relentless earned brackets for the first time since the Aqueduct meeting. The brown son of Vulcain and Himation made all the pace and won with ease and with speed in reserve. The Raritan Stable's Rip was running strongly at the eleventh fence, where he was compelled to lose ground to avoid the fallen Owen Tudor. But for this he might have made it more interesting for the winner, as he held on well. J. S. Cosden's Warrenton trailed in to take third money.

The Earl of Derby's Horses Run One, Two in Derby Cup

DERBY, Eng., Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—The Earl of Derby took first and second places in the Derby Cup race of £1,200, run here today. The winner was his Spindrift, by Chaucer, out of Rothesay Bay, while Highbrow took second money. Cloudbank, owned by James White, was third. Twelve horses ran. Spindrift won by a short head and Highbrow finished a length and a half in front of Cloudbank. The betting was: Spindrift, 10 to 1 against; Highbrow, 9 to 4, and Cloudbank, 10 to 1 against.

FIVE IN $10,000 PIMLICO.

Small Field Named to Start in Getaway Feature Today.

Special to The New York Times.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 14.—A small field of five has been named to go to the post tomorrow in the $10,000 Pimlico Cup, the stake feature of the final day of the Pimlico meeting, which will be decided over the course of two miles and a quarter. J. E. Widener's newly-acquired Altawood and the Salubria Stable's My Own are in under top weight of 114 pounds. The Belair Stud's hardy campaigner Aga Khan has one pound less and probably will go to the post as the second choice to Altawood.

It is expected that Altawood, with Parke up, will be the favorite at probable odds of 7 to 5, with Aga Kahn, to be ridden by Maiben, second choice, at 2 to 1. Barnes and Connelly are to ride My Own and Sunsini, respectively, at probable odds of 5 to 1 each. Suburban, with 90 pounds up, was quoted tonight at 50 to 1.

CORDIER IS BEATEN BY WOLF AT SQUASH

Former Champion Bows to Montclair Star in National Play, 15-12, 18-16.

Eliminates Mixsell After Three Hard-Fought Games—Rand Is Victor Over Brackenridge.

Harry Wolf of the Montclair A. C. added another outstanding performance to his work for the season on the squash tennis courts yesterday. In the fourth round of the national Fall scratch tournament at the Yale Club he followed up his victory over Morris Phinney of the Harvard Club on Thursday by defeating Auguste J. Cordier of Yale, former national champion, in two bitterly contested games at 15-12, 18-16. This triumph of the youthful New Jersey player, together with his fine showing against Thomas R. Coward in the Class A League, stamps him definitely as one of the leading players in the amateur ranks. It also places him in the semi-final round of the tournament.

Two other players reached the semi-finals. They were R. B. Haines of the Columbia University Club and William Rand Jr. of the Harvard Club. Haines, whose work in the tournament has been better than anything he has shown before and distinctly of championship calibre, gained a victory that was equally commendable with Wolf's. Dr. Harold R. Mixsell of the Princeton Club, No. 1 on the Orange and Black Class A team, bowed to the speed and power of the Columbian's game in a hard-fought three-game match at 17-16, 15-17, 15-11. Rand defeated Gavin Brackenridge of the Princeton Club at 15-12, 15-13.

Fink's Illness Causes Postponement.

The fourth match that was to have been played yesterday, between R. Earl Fink of the Crescent A. C., former national champion, and Basil Harris of Princeton, was postponed until Monday owing to the illness of Fink. There will be no matches played today. Wolf will meet Rand in the lower semi-final on Monday and the other semi-final will be contested Tuesday. The final will probably be played Thursday.

From the first rally until the last point was won the match between Wolf and Cordier furnished squash of the most sensational character. Throughout the two games the play was at a furious pace, both men traveling around the court at top speed and driving the ball around the walls so fast that at times it was difficult to follow its flight. Gets of spectacular character were the common thing in this struggle, and in spite of the terrific pace of the stroking the rallies were of lengthy duration. At times from six to twelve hands were played without either of the contestants adding to his score.

It was not only a battle of speed and hard smashing, but also a matching of court craft. In this department of the game Wolf more than held his own with his more experienced opponent. He was quick to anticipate his opponent's next shot and always seemed to know where to expect the ball. He was compelled to do a lot of running, but invariably he got the ball in time to take a healthy swing at it. Cordier changed his tactics frequently, softening his pace and then increasing it, using a front-to-back wall shot and then playing the angles, but he could not shake off his younger opponent.

Plays Strong Game When Behind.

Haines's ability to play his finest squash when he was behind enabled him to come through the winner over Dr. Mixsell. In the first game he was trailing at 11—14. The Princeton man needed to get only one more point for his 15, but so impenetrable a defense did the other put up that he was unable to tally again until Haines had set a game of 3. Dr. Mixsell was again within a point of winning the game when he led at 2—1, but Haines took 2 while holding him scoreless for the match.

In the second game the Princeton star forged ahead to lead at 14—11. Again Haines squared the score at 14—all. But after the game of 3 had been set Dr. Mixsell held his opponent to one point while getting 3 himself and tied the score at 1—1. Haines gained a commanding lead at 13—6 in the final game and easily won it at 15—11.

OSBORN ON NAVY SQUAD.

Restrictions Lifted on Centre, Who Will Face Bucknell Today.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 14.—Intense interest is being taken in the football game between the Navy and Bucknell here tomorrow inasmuch as it is the last home game for the Midshipmen, and the Navy contingent looks for its team to show much better football than previously.

The Navy contingent was further cheered this afternoon by the announcement of the restoration of Osborn, regular centre, to the full graces of the officials. However, Zuber is likely to start in the position tomorrow, Osborn getting in the game at a later period.

$50,000 2-YEAR-OLD DIES.

Special to The New York Times.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 14.—Pas Seul, by Light Brigade, out of One Step, died this morning at the Lexington race track of pneumonia. The colt, which was one of the cracks among the Western juveniles, was bred and owned by J. N. Camden.

Pas Seul ran last Friday in the Pimlico Futurity at the Pimlico track in Maryland, finishing eighth. Following the race he was shipped home, being taken ill on the way and arriving here on Monday in a critical condition. He was valued at more than $50,000.

KYW, Chicago, will have its microphone in the stadium at Stagg Field, to pick up the Chicago-Northwestern game while WGN, Chicago, will tell listeners of the game between Nebraska and Notre Dame. WCCO, Minneapolis, will give a detailed account of the Minnesota-Illinois plays and on the coast, KLX, Oakland, will give a play-by-play description of the Nevada-California game.

COLUMBIA IN LEAD IN CLASS B SQUASH

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

	W.	L.		W.	L.
Columbia	3	0	Harvard	1	2
Princeton	2	0	Crescent	1	2
D. K. E.	1	1	Montclair	0	3

By defeating the Montclair A. C., 5 to 2, on the Blue and White courts, while the Yale Club was losing to the New York A. C., 4 to 3, at the New York A. C., and Princeton and D. K. E. were playing a 3-3 tie at the Shelton Apartments, the Columbia University Club took the lead in the metropolitan Class B squash tennis championship. The Blue and White alumni now have won three matches and lost none, while Yale has won two and lost one. Princeton has not been defeated and will play off the tie with D. K. E. on Monday, when Tevis Huhn of the Orange and Black will face Eliot Ward of D. K. E. in the seventh contest.

The Crescent A. C. won its first match in the tournament, defeating Harvard on its own courts in Brooklyn, 4 to 3. It was the second setback that the Crimson players have received in the league. Superior strength in the lower part of the line-up enabled Columbia to win by a good margin, in spite of the fact that its No. 1 and 2 men were defeated. B. H. O'Connor, who furnished a big upset in the national Fall scratch tournament this week by defeating Charles M. Bull Jr., gained a decisive victory over N. N. Alexander of Columbia at 15—8, 15—7, and Felix Jenkins, No. 2 on the Jersey team, won from J. W. Pulleyn Jr. at 3—15, 15—13, 15—6. A. S. Moses, R. H. Reutter, J. D. Kennedy, J. N. Cole and W. B. Brown won for Columbia.

The top four men on the New York A. C. team defeated their opponents from the Yale Club, while the last three men in the Eli line-up came through the winners. Every match but one was closely contested. In the feature match Frank Loughman defeated Arthur Goldburg of Yale at 15—9, 9—15, 15—9. The Crescents won the first two matches and the last two. J. W. Ivins of the home club and Bernhart Knollenberg met in the deciding contest, with the score 3-3, and the former won after losing the opening game. The score was 13—15, 15—11, 15—11. J. C. Tredwell, No. 1 on the Crescents, defeated Gerald Henderson, 15—11, 15—12.

The summaries:

Crescent A. C. 5, Harvard Club 3.

J. C. Tredwell, Crescent A. C., defeated Gerald Henderson, 15—11, 15—12; Donald Bellows, Crescent A. C., defeated J. A. Milholland, 12—15, 15—9, 15—12; E. R. Brumley, Harvard Club, defeated N. F. Torrance, 15—9, 15—2; G. Taylor, Harvard, defeated E. P. Cyplot, 9—15, 15—8, 15—7; F. W. Dort, Harvard Club, defeated C. W. Fyfe, 15—7, 15—5; E. R. Larigan, Crescent A. C., defeated P. E. Stevenson, 15—12, 12—15, 15—11; J. W. Ivins, Crescent A. C., defeated Bernhardt Knollenberg, 13—15, 15—11, 15—11.

Columbia Club 5, Montclair A. C. 2.

B. H. O'Connor, Montclair A. C., defeated N. N. Alexander, 15—8, 15—7; Felix Jenkins, Montclair A. C., defeated J. W. Pulleyn Jr., 3—15, 15—13, 15—6; S. Moses, Columbia Club, defeated R. B. Luchars, 15—6, 15—1; R. H. Reutter, Columbia Club, defeated J. G. Waldron, 14—17, 15—13, 15—7; J. D. Kennedy, Columbia Club, won from C. C. Halsey by default; J. N. Cole, Columbia Club, defeated H. B. Van Cleave, 15—6, 15—8; W. B. Brown, Columbia Club, defeated C. S. Moora, 15—9, 15—2.

Princeton Club 3, D. K. E. 3.

Ziegler Sargent, D. K. E., defeated Edwin Muller, 15—13, 15—7; match between Tevis Huhn, Princeton, and Eliot Ward, D. K. E., postponed; Ellery C. Huntington, D. K. E., defeated C. Haas, 8—15, 15—10, 15—10; S. Green, D. K. E., defeated L. T. Doyle, Princeton, 10—15, 15—4, 15—4; S. M. Sperry, Princeton, defeated G. M. Weed, 15—7, 18—17; Arthur Woods, Princeton, defeated D. B. BRITISH TAKE HEED OF TENNIS CHARGE

Officials Investigate Statement That Some Players Show Bad Manners on Court.

SWEARING ONE GRIEVANCE

Referees Point to Contestants' Finding Fault With Rulings as a Detriment to the Sport.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—A committee of the British Lawn Tennis Association and the Referees' Association met yesterday to investigate charges of bad manners against certain first-class players competing in open tournaments. It was the first time in the history of the game in this country that such an inquiry has been held.

The charges included the use of profanity on the courts loud enough to be heard even by the spectators, disagreement with the umpires' rulings and laxity in complying with the regulations, all of which offenses, it is declared, were tending to bring the game into disrepute.

The great majority of players are not affected by the charges, which concern only a few "black sheep," who, it is alleged, show bad temper when they disagree with decisions and sometimes use disgraceful language.

"I have known a famous woman player to leave the court in tears because of the way her mixed doubles partner addressed her," one umpire told The Daily Mail, and other instances of like nature were cited. At the meeting it was agreed that disciplinary measures must be taken against the offenders in the interests of clean sport, and it is expected the question will be brought up before the coming general meeting of the Lawn Tennis Association.

FORDHAM YEARLINGS SCORE

The Fordham freshman football team defeated the freshmen of N. Y. U. yesterday at Fordham Field by a 21 to 7 score. Liebl, fullback of the Maroon yearlings, scored all three touchdowns for his team. The Fordham players scored early in the first quarter when they made a safety after a poor pass from centre to O'Heir, the N. Y. U. right halfback. Shortly after, Kelly intercepted a forward pass on the Maroon's 30-yard line and Leihl scored the first touchdown. In the second period he again tallied the same way. After a long march down the field via the aerial route Leihl took a pass from O'Connor and scored his third touchdown. The only N. Y. U. score came in the last quarter when O'Heir intercepted a forward pass on his own 5-yard line and raced fifty yards before being tackled. Richmond carried the ball over for the Violet.

Casey	L.E.	Murphy
Gallager	L.T.	Tydon
Waters	L.G.	Monaghan
Schwenk	C.	Hargraves

WESTERN SCHEDULE FOR TODAY IS HEAVY

Notre Dame to Face Nebraska and Four Conference Games Are to Be Played.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—Notre Dame, after crushing every team played this season, meets its annual Nebraska jinx at South Bend tomorrow in the outstanding game of the West, although Illinois and Chicago, in games with conference rivals, will attract considerable attention.

Illinois, ranking favorite to capture the 1924 Big Ten title, will meet Minnesota at Minneapolis, while Chicago will have Northwestern as its opponent at Stagg Field. Since the Gophers' tie with Ames a week ago they are not regarded as formidable contenders against the Illinois eleven. Coach Zuppke of Illinois, however, is not taking any chances as a result of the surprising 21-21 tie with Chicago.

The Chicago-Northwestern game, the experts believe, probably will result in an easy victory for Stagg's warriors, who are looking forward to the important game with Wisconsin at the close of the season a week later. Northwestern has been crippled as a result of injuries, but the team is always dangerous, due to the intense rivalry with the Chicago eleven.

Michigan will play Ohio State in their annual battle at Columbus before a probable attendance of 75,000.

Iowa and Wisconsin, both out of the Conference race as a result of defeats, will collide at Madison in a home-coming game. The contest promises to be a battle royal, with the heavier Hawkeyes as a favorite.

Indiana will meet Wabash at Bloomington, while Purdue will take a day off in preparation for the final game of the season next Saturday.

MARULLO DEFEATS SIKI IN THE GARDEN

HICKS VICTOR OVER RATNER

The Former Allentown Joe Gans Easily Scores Over Bronx Boxer in Twelve Rounds.

Antonio (Young) Marullo, New Orleans light heavyweight, won the decision from Battling Siki, Senegalese Boxer, last night in an uninteresting twelve-round bout which was the feature of an uninteresting card at Madison Square Garden. A crowd of 4,704 fans, one of the smallest of the season for the Garden, paid $12,809 to see the bout.

The crowd was not a unit in supporting the decision, and many jeered the verdict when it was announced, but this was attributed by ringside critics to the fact that Siki's good nature had won him the sympathy of the slim gathering. Certainly no other decision could have been justified. Marullo, outboxing the negro at every turn, won by a margin which left no room for doubt as to the winner at the final bell.

Siki fought in sporadic outbursts throughout, lashing out wildly with vicious rights and lefts for the head, which invariably went wild. In the third round, again in the fourth and fifth and in the last two rounds, Siki landed some hard lefts and rights to the head, and had the crowd cheering him. But the steady offensive and accurate hitting of Marullo could not be offset by this unsustained work of Siki.

Marullo was something of a disappointment despite his victory. He did not box up to the standard of the Marullo who beat Billy Britton a few weeks ago. The New Orleans lad was particularly considerate of his weak right hand, or it so seemed, for Marullo seldom hit with the knuckles of this fist, but rather with the side of the hand.

Billie Vidabeck received the decision from Lew Chester in the second six-round bout. In the first six-round battle Vic Brog, Pittsburgh boxer, won the decision from Jimmy Canero, a graduate of the local amateur ring. The four-round preliminary brought together Chief Halbran and Carl Johnson, with Halbran winning the decision.

Joe Hicks of Allentown, negro middleweight who formerly fought under the name of Allentown Joe Gans, pounded his way to a decision over Augie Ratner of the Bronx, in the twelve-round semi-final. This was an uninteresting bout, made so by Ratner's refusal at any stage of the match to do any fighting. Hicks did all the fighting, forcing Ratner around the ring in every one of the twelve rounds.

Several times Hicks had his rival shaken and staggering, notably in the tenth round, but Ratner survived each trying situation by holding. Hicks's blows had Ratner's eyes swollen and his nose and mouth bleeding at the final bell.

A. A. U. OFFICIALS TO DEPART

Leave Today for Three-Day Convention in Atlantic City.

The exodus of Amateur Athletic Union dignitaries will get under way today when the athletic officials of the local district and those from outlying points who made the metropolis a stopping off place depart for Atlantic City and the three-day national convention of the A. A. U., which starts tomorrow. Louis di Benedatto, New Orleans delegate, and Ed Ferris of Seattle were arrivals who visited local A. A. U. headquarters yesterday. They plan to attend the Yale-Princeton game at Princeton this afternoon in company with Harold Dibblee, local delegate, and proceed from Princeton to the convention.

The 1:15 train leaving here for Atlantic City this afternoon will carry Herman Obertubbesing, local President; Joseph F. Reilly, Brooklyn College Club; William H. Giblin, Bloomfield Catholic Lyceum; Miss Charlotte Epstein, Women's Swimming Association, and Daniel J. Ferris, secretary to Frederick W. Rubien, as the local contingent. John T. Taylor of the Allegheny Mountain A. A. U., also will make the trip on this train, it was announced yesterday. On the 3:10 train will be Colonel A. G. Mills, delegate-at-large from the local A. A. U.; Secretary Frederick W. Rubien of the national body and Sam Goodman, San Francisco delegate. Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney, another local delegate, plans to motor to Atlantic City.

PENN DATES RATIFIED.

Athletic Council Approves Games With Chicago and Illinois.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 14.—The Athletic Council of the University of Pennsylvania late today formally announced that Pennsylvania will play the University of Illinois football team here on Oct. 31, next year, and the University of Chicago here, Oct. 24. Pennsylvania will play a return game with Illinois in the West in 1926, and with Chicago in 1927. Pennsylvania will also meet the University of Pittsburgh next year.

Brown University will be played at Providence Oct. 10, 1925, the council's announcement stated, and will meet Pennsylvania on Franklin Field at a corresponding date in 1926. No definite date has been set for the return game between Pennsylvania and the University of California after the one to be played on New Year's Day at Berkeley, Cal.

Georgetown University and Lafayette College have been dropped from the 1925 schedule, which is still incomplete, it was stated.

EXTRA DRILL FOR WILLIAMS.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 14.—Coach Wendell of the Williams football team changed the original plans for the Amherst trip today, the departure being set for tomorrow. The change made it possible for the Purple eleven to profit by another long signal drill today. Practically the entire student body at Williams will follow the team to Amherst. Williams expects to win, but is looking forward to a much harder battle than was provided by Wesleyan last week. The Williams line-up will be as follows:

Ide, L. E.; Surabian, L. T.; Hackett, L. G.; Clark, C.; Frost, R. G.; Nott, R. T.; Fisher, A. E.; Popham, Q.; Beckwith, L. H.; Howe, R. H.; Bourne, F.

Ridgewood Grove S. C., Brooklyn—Ray Miller vs. Mick McAdam; Johnny Vestri vs. Charlie Kohler; Johnny Vinney vs. Harry Wallach; Paul Gulotta vs. Frankie Maxwell; Archie Bell vs. Bobby Green. Five six-round bouts.

British Golf Magazine Picks Holderness to Top List of 16

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The magazine Golf Illustrated has made an interesting ranking of sixteen amateurs whom it considers the best in Great Britain. They are put down in this order: Sir Ernest Holderness, the champion; C. J. H. Tolley, R. H. Wethered, Robert Harris, C. O. Hezlet, E. F. Storey, W. A. Murray, J. Wilson, Michael Scott, T. A. Torrance, J. G. MacCormack, J. Savan, W. L. Hope, Carl Bretherton, W. W. MacKenzie, W. L. Hartley. Three of the men chosen for the Walker Cup team that went to America this year were left out of the list. They are O. C. Bristowe, D. H. Kyle and Robert Scott Jr.

SANCTION HELD UP FOR CHARITY BOUT

DEC. 9 IS NEW DATE SET

Rickard Tells Commission Tunney Refused Offer to Meet the St. Paul Boxer.

Whether the State Athletic Commission will sanction the scheduled bout between Tom Gibbons, St. Paul's veteran light-heavyweight, and Kid Norfolk, Baltimore negro, will not be known until the next meeting of the board, to be held Tuesday afternoon. This decision was announced yesterday by the commission, at its regular meeting, following a discussion of the bout among the members of the commission and Promoter Tex Rickard, who has signed the match as an attraction for Madison Square Garden, to serve as the feature of an all-star card of bouts to be held for the American's Christmas Fund.

The commission, however, sanctioned Dec. 9 as the date for the charity bouts, instead of Dec. 8, the date originally announced when the Gibbons-Norfolk match was signed. This date conflicts with the regular weekly date of the Pioneer A. C., but the Commission has received word from ahe East Twenty-fourth Street club at its residence to waive the date in favor of the charity boxing bill.

In explaining the commission's action in withholding sanction from the Gibbons-Norfolk match, Chairman George E. Brower declared that the board was actuated solely by a desire to guarantee that the best possible match available is arranged as the feature for the Yuletide charity fund show. In the meantime it is the plan of the commission to consider the matter carefully and determine if there is a bout available which would insure greater returns for the Christmas fund.

Reports have been current in boxing circles that the commission contemplated prohibiting a Gibbons-Norfolk match on the ground that Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, who is recognized as the foremost contender for the world's title, should have been signed to box Gibbons, but Chairman Brower flatly denied this. Promoter Rickard declared as he left the meeting that he had been interrogated on the matter of opponents he sought for Gibbons, and said he informed the commission of his inability to arrange a match between Gibbons and Tunney. Rickard also explained, he said, that he had been unable to arrange several other matches which appealed to him as likely to attract a capacity crowd to the Garden. Rickard added that he felt satisfied he has signed one of the best indoor matches available and expressed confidence in the commission's granting its sanction for the match.

The commission has notified the principals in the featherweight championship elimination tournament, scheduled for Friday night in Madison Square Garden, to be in this vicinity by Monday prepared to complete their training under commission supervision. Chairman Brower announced that deputies would be assigned to visit the training quarters of the boxers and certify to the progress the featherweights are making in their preparation, and to their physical condition. It was announced that if any of the featherweights are overweight at the time of weighing in they will be denied permission to compete and alternates will be selected in their places. In this connection Chairman Brower disclosed that the commission is considering the advisability of ordering extra rounds up to the limit of fifteen permitted by law, in the event that draw decisions are rendered in the ten-round eliminations or the twelve-round semi-finals.

BILLIARD RESULTS.

Eddie McGill defeated Joseph Honsch, the defending champion, in the play-off of the tie for the Brooklyn straight-rail championship at Lawler's Brooklyn Academy last night by a score of 125 to 70. McGill averaged 3 17-36 and had a high run of 18, while Honsch's best run was 21. Two matches in the State professional pocket billiard championship tournament also were played. In the afternoon Walter Townsend defeated Frank Quinn 100 to 78 in twenty-nine innings. Each had a high run of 23. In the evening James Maturo defeated James Aldeen 100 to 45 in twenty-three innings. Hammer won in nineteen innings, and had high runs of 50, 30, 25 and 24, while Lewis's best runs were 37 and 35.

Willie Hoppe, world's balkline champion, defeated Albert G. Cutler, junior title holder, in an 18.2 exhibition match at the Crescent A. C. last night by a score of 300 to 145. Hoppe completed his string in six innings, getting a high run of 116, while Cutler's best effort was an 86. At three-cushions, Hoppe defeated Cutler, 25 to 22, the latter having a high run of 7 and Hoppe one of 4.

K. Suzuki, champion of Japan, won two exhibition matches played yesterday at the Brooklyn Billiard Academy. In the afternoon Suzuki defeated William Parker, 200 points to 4 in three innings, making a high run of 176. In the evening Suzuki beat Charles Rannie, 200 to 34 in five innings, with a high run of 61.

Phil Hughes won the final game in the third section of the annual three-cushion tournament at Doyle's Academy last night, defeating Fred Reynolds 30 to 28 in fifty-one innings.

Tadao Suganuma defeated W. Cohn in an exhibition game at 18.2 at Julian's Fourteenth Street Academy last night, 200 to 29. Suganuma made his total [illegible] ten innings and had a high run of 78.

CANNEFAX RECEIVES NEW HOPPE OFFER

Following a one hour's conference yesterday afternoon at the Hoppe Academy, Willie Hoppe, balkline champion, and Robert Cannefax, the three-cushion champion, failed to come to terms for the proposed three-cushion match between the billiard champions. Cannefax came prepared to post his $2,500 forfeit, but his insistence that the match be played on the basis of the best six out of eleven blocks proved to be the point at issue and on which the champions could not agree. Hoppe, however, submitted new terms and on these there is a chance that the match will yet be clinched.

Hoppe, when he saw that Cannefax would make no concession, said he would play Cannefax on the block system if Cannefax would agree to meet him in a second match at 600 points, with the point total to decide the winner. Hoppe added that he would demand a forfeit of $2,500 be posted for each match and that Cannefax agree to play the second match ten days after the completion of the first. Hoppe gave Cannefax thirty days in which to accept the new proposal.

The fact that it would be necessary for Cannefax to post $5,000 in forfeit money proved too much of a drawback. The three-cushion champion, however, said he was not averse to conceding a little ground, but it would be necessary for him to consult the league officials, as well as Charles S. Kline of the Strand Academy, who holds his contract in the league, before he could reply. It would mean that the matches would have to be played at a time when Cannefax would have two long breaks in the schedule.

No definite time was set for the playing of these matches, but Hoppe suggested that January would be the best month for him. He explained that he would be called upon to defend his world's balkline title in the international tournament, which most likely will be played in Chicago the latter part of February, and that he would want at least thirty days to devote exclusively to balkline. Hoppe will leave for Los Angeles this afternoon, where he meets Young Jake Schaefer in the opening of a 3,200-point balkline match on Nov. 25.

Cannefax also announced yesterday that he had arranged to meet Mundito, the Cuban three-cushion champion, in a 300-point match at the Strand next week, starting on Thursday afternoon and ending one week from tonight.

PENN CREW DEFEATS PRINCETON VARSITY

VICTOR BY TWO LENGTHS

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 14.—Two lengths separated the victorious Penn eight from the Princeton varsity boat this afternoon at the finish of the first intercollegiate race ever held here in the Fall on Lake Carnegie. The cold weather and choppy water made conditions bad for both crews, and the time for the mile and a half course was slow, with Penn taking 8 minutes 14 seconds, while Princeton trailed the Red and Blue by 8 seconds.

The race was even for the first three-quarters of a mile, but as the crews passed the halfway mark Irminger dropped the Penn stroke from 32 to 28, and when Princeton followed suit Penn quickly returned to the original beat, spurting ahead for a lead which was never overcome. Penn finished strong, rowing a 37 stroke, while Princeton hit it up to 34, but was exhausted by its efforts to catch the victors.

In the 150-pound crew race between two Princeton crews, which was held over the Henley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths, the crew piloted by C. Kabayama won easily with a lead of a length and a half. Whitey Thorne stroked the Black varsity crew to a victory over the third varsity in the final race.

The boatings:

Pennsylvania—Bow, Swan; 2, Hensel; 3, Redway; 4, McDonald; 5, Goetz; 6, Reeves; 7, Jordan; stroke, Irminger; coxswain, Plugfelder.

Princeton—Bow, Clark; 2, Street; 3, Williams; 4, Vangytenbeek; 5, Magee; 6, Ballard; 7, Goodman; stroke, Aitken; coxswain, Pirie.

A. A. U. TITLE RUN TODAY.

The list of prospective starters in the Amateur Athletic Union's national junior cross-country championship race to be held this afternoon over the six-mile course at Van Cortlandt Park was augmented yesterday by the addition of a team from the Cygnet A. C. of Port Chester. Receipt of the entry from the Cygnet organization increased the list of prospective team title contenders to six. The other clubs represented are the Glencoe A. C., Mohawk A. C., Finnish-American A. C. of this city, and the Shannahan Catholic Club and the Enterprise Catholic Young Men's Athletic Union of Philadelphia.

A CHEERFUL POST-MORTEM.

Among the heterogeneous following of Senator La Follette there has been no little divergence of view, not to say wrangling, since the election. The intellectual fringe of the movement has pointed out the sad mistakes which were made, but which it was a little late in discovering. As between the Socialists and the Communists, no love has been lost. The Worker, which supported Foster, jeers at the Socialist Party for having abandoned its principles and gone off into the La Follette wilderness for nothing. In reply, The New Leader points with scorn to the contemptible vote of 25,000 or so cast for Foster, and contrasts that with the 5,000,000 votes which it claims that the Socialist Party obtained on Nov. 4. This is some claim! But the indomitable optimist who emerges from the La Follette wreck with an air of great good cheer is Mr. Samuel Gompers. He agrees with those who think it wise not to discuss the Presidential campaign at the conventions of the American Federation of Labor, but he insists on having it understood that Labor "did not fare badly" in the Presidential election.

What he means is that a number of Representatives in Congress endorsed by organized labor were elected. It might be hard to show that they would not have been without such endorsement. But Mr. Gompers is easily pleased if he can take much comfort in that limited and dubious success. What he and other leaders of the Federation of Labor set out to do was, not to elect a few Congressmen, but to determine the choice of a President. Departing from their policy fixed for years not to take a partisan stand, they put all their eggs in the La Follette basket, only to have them generally smashed. This result may, indeed, go to prove that Labor did not fare badly, provided that it learned the lesson that officers of trade unions cannot deliver the votes of its members, that they are foolish to attempt doing it, and that organized labor, after its disastrous venture this year, will be wise to go back to its old plan of refusing to cast its lot with any political party.

A MASSACHUSETTS JOKE.

In the recent campaign neither Senator Walsh nor Mayor Curley, Democratic candidate for Governor, paid the slightest attention to the Democratic State Committee, or would have anything to do with it. But statesmanship is irrepressible. Now the gods at Democratic headquarters are going to attack as unconstitutional the statute under which Governor Cox appointed Mr. Butler Senator. It is hard to believe that anybody takes this demonstration seriously. In 1921 the death of Senator Knox and Senator Penrose led the Massachusetts Secretary of State to look into the State laws. He discovered that immediate succession in case of a Senator's death was not provided for. In 1922 this act was passed:

> Upon failure to choose a Senator in Congress or upon a vacancy in that office, the vacancy shall be filled for the unexpired term at the following biennial State election, provided such vacancy occurs not less than sixty days prior to the date of the primaries for nominating candidates to be voted for at such election, otherwise at the biennial State election following.

These provisions are not peculiar to Massachusetts. They are copied from those of other States. The Democrats in the Legislature opposed the act. Apparently they thought that it would be "popular" to put the State to the expense, $300,000 or so, of a special election. Mr. Lodge's death came too late to allow his successor to be chosen this year. Therefore Governor Cox appointed Mr. Butler and the election of a Senator was postponed until 1926. Section 2 of the Seventeenth Amendment provides "that the Legislature "of any State may empower the Executive thereof to make temporary "appointment until the people fill the "vacancies by election as the Legislature may direct." Governor Cox has filled the vacancy by temporary appointment. It will be filled by election, at the next State election, as the Legislature has directed. The great constitutional lawyers of the Democratic State Committee pin their powerful case to the word "temporary." An appointment for two years is not temporary, they say. The Constitution is being violated, and by some undisclosed means they are going to take the question into the courts.

They want the Massachusetts act repealed and an election held between Jan. 1 and March 4. It doesn't make any difference what they want, but it is noticeable that Senator Walsh has no hand in their little diversions, and their scheme, if successful, would prevent him from being a candidate. It would be interesting to know how these rescuers of the Constitution are going to get the matter into the courts. Do they see the Supreme Court enjoining the Clerk of the United States Senate or his Excellency of Massachusetts? The Senate is "the judge of the elections, re"turns and qualifications of its own "members." The Supreme Court will never think of assuming jurisdiction in such cases. The Senate will never think of questioning or interfering with the methods of filling vacancies in the Senate adopted by the several States.

Senator Couzens, appointed to fill a vacancy on Nov. 29, 1922, is a case in point for the Bay State ergotists. The present Massachusetts Democratic State Committee seems to be a joke, and therefore the natural begetter of this constitutional joke. The courts, as a matter of fact, won't even help a Legislature to decide upon a member's right to his seat.

WHEAT SURPLUSES AND PRICES.

From different quarters the American farmer is being invited to contemplate the golden age when his sales will be restricted to the "home market" and his vicissitudes will be at an end. President Coolidge declared on Thursday that men now living may see the time when this country will be importing food instead of exporting it; "and in this lies the assurance to "the American farmer that his own "future is secure enough." It was in the President's mind that the price of American wheat will cease to be fixed at Liverpool when no American wheat is landed on the shores of the Mersey. And a "fair" price for wheat in the home market will be assured presumably by the same tariff method that now keeps our industries safeguarded against foreign competition. The President's belief in an impending revolutionary change in our agriculture is held by other public men, notably Secretary Hoover, and by not a few economists. But until the change comes and our wheat surplus disappears Mr. Coolidge correctly stresses the need of such nearer remedies as improved marketing and sounder economics on the farm. By improved marketing the President probably means in part the development of agricultural credit facilities along the lines already pursued for a good many years.

Much more impatient is the National Grange now meeting at Atlantic City. That "home market" which President Coolidge sees arriving in its own good time, through the inevitable play of economic forces, the Grange would create at once by the simple method of restricting crop production. The argument makes its plausible appeal to the law of supply and demand; the less wheat thrown on the market, the higher the prices for the farmer. The Grange is thorough. It calls for the abandonment of the irrigation and reclamation program into which Theodore Roosevelt put so much heart and energy. How far the limitation of crops should be carried the Grange does not state, but it must be very drastic indeed if the desired results are to be attained. At present the size of the American farmer's wheat crop bears no relation whatsoever to the prices he obtains. In 1921 he raised 815,000,000 bushels and the Chicago price was $1.09 per bushel. In 1922 he raised 867,000,000 bushels and the price was $1.15. In 1923 he raised 785,000,000 bushels and the price was $1.08. This year the estimated wheat crop is 856,000,000 bushels and May wheat today is about $1.65.

To usher in the Grange solution, therefore, a half-hearted policy of crop limitation will not do. For the country as a whole there must be a cut of at least 25 per cent, in order to eliminate that potential surplus of a quarter billion bushels. This is the idea which the Grange must "sell" to the American farmer. But we fear that this year the Grange will encounter a great deal of "customer-resistance." With wheat at something like a dollar in Chicago the idea might be put across. But that additional 65 cents makes an enormous difference in rural psychology, as Senator La Follette, among others, recently found out. To be sure, it was mere chance that Canada's wheat crop should have failed and that famine should be descending upon Russia. It is conceivable that wheat may be down to a dollar next year. But that contingency will be hard to impress in November, 1924, on the farmer who five years ago proceeded to buy acreage at inflated prices on the apparent assumption that the World War would go on forever.

BELGIUM PROPOSES AN ENTENTE.

There is every reason why Belgium should seek once more to revive in enduring form the wartime alliance with France and Britain. Not only is she vitally concerned in removing the menace of a new war, but her present interests are closely identified with those of both nations. Like France, she wishes to see Germany pay, and yet desires that that country be kept militarily impotent. Like England, she is anxious to see Germany's trade and economic prosperity restored, as much of Belgium's trade is with Germany. During the past five years she has repeatedly sought to harmonize the conflicting views of France and England, but has been unable to effect a permanent understanding. When she went into the Ruhr with the French in January, 1923, she aligned herself for the moment whole-heartedly with a policy which to the English was in the highest degree distasteful. During the last year, however, she has done what she could to convince the French of the reasonableness of England's desire to see German trade restored.

Paris dispatches indicate that the French Government is favorably inclined toward the proposal of the Belgian Foreign Minister, M. Hymans, that a new Entente be formed. France has long sought a special understanding with England of such a nature as to deter Germany from future efforts to cause trouble, but all her efforts to obtain such an agreement have been in vain. The nimble Lloyd George evaded direct commitments so long as he could, and when he finally proposed his famous treaty of assistance at Cannes the French found its terms unacceptable. Neither of his two immediate successors, saddled as they were with the irascible Curzon, looked favorably upon close Anglo-French cooperation, and Mr. MacDonald, whose earnest desire to remove old quarrels and to restore active friendship between France and England was so much in evidence, never felt quite strong enough to offer a definite agreement. Like Agag, he was forced to walk delicately.

It is conceivable that the Belgian proposal will meet with a better reception today than at any time during the last few years. England's policy toward France and Germany has always been guided by a due regard for her own interests. To her well-wishers this has sometimes seemed a little short-sighted. In particular was this true when she gave tacit encouragement to the German policy of passive resistance. But her future course will undoubtedly be determined by the results of the revival of Germany under the Dawes plan. If these show that German trade is a serious menace to Britain, she may be the more ready to work closely with France. So long, however, as the French seek close commercial cooperation with Germany at the expense of Great Britain, it is not likely that British sentiment will be favorable to any special agreement with France. In spite of these obstacles in the way of M. Hymans's proposal, the mere fact that they are made may help to bring England and France closer together. Anything which does this will aid European recovery.

FLOUTING THE GOVERNOR GENERAL.

The refusal of the Philippine Senate to act before adjournment on the appointments of Governor General Wood is only an incident in the political war upon him by Manuel Quezon, the leader of the separatist group of native politicians. It was a strategic blunder. The appointees will serve during the recess of the Philippine Legislature. Particularly was the letter of Quezon about the nomination of Mr. Williams to be Director of the Bureau of Public Works maladroit, for it was not only an admission of his qualifications for the office but a flouting of the Governor General as an executive officer. Senator Quezon arrogantly gives notice to General Wood of the policy of Filipinization of the Government service. "Mr. Williams," says the President of the Senate, "has "treated the people of the islands in "a just manner"—but he is not a Filipino.

Even Manuel Quezon would not contend that the Jones law makes the selection of natives for office compulsory on the Governor General. Already has been forgotten the pronouncement of the War Department upon the controversy at Manila that "the Congress, after full considera"tion, vested the authority of control "and supervision over all depart"ments and bureaus in the Governor "General, which makes these officers "directly responsible to him and not "to the Legislature as in a parlia"mentary form of government." The War Department had sought advice from judicial officers of the Government before coming to this decision.

When the case against General Wood was submitted to Washington Senator Quezon made this announcement:

> The Legislature, or at least the coalition majority, will disregard entirely all recommendations Governor General Wood may make in his message to that body. We will not pass any measure he recommends, because he has disregarded the Council of State and has not asked the advice of the department secretaries in preparing his message.

Later, addressing 4,000 students of the University of the Philippines, Quezon said: "It is unpatriotic for "any Filipino to stand by Governor "Wood in his policies." Speaker Roxas delivered this defiance: "Filipino "members of the Cabinet and our "other representatives in the Govern"ment have encroached on the powers "and prerogatives of the Governor "General. That is true. We have "encroached upon the rights of the "Governor General, because in that "guise liberties are won." At the time the Filipinos were enjoying not only an autonomous government of the most liberal character, but benefits which they owed to the masterly constructive work of American administrators and their expert subordinates.

General Wood's unforgivable offense is that he has endeavored to neutralize, with as little friction as possible, the harm done by the illegal Council of State and its progeny, and to bring the administration of the Philippines back to the conceptions of the framers of the Jones law. The Senate, under the leadership of Manuel Quezon, has by its latest rebuff of Governor General Wood brought the Philippine controversy again to the notice of President Coolidge. He has already pronounced judgment against the agitators. They are likely to hear something to their disadvantage in the message that he will send to Congress in December.

OFFICIAL COTTON REPORTS.

Protests against the Government cotton crop reports have been so numerous and weighty that the Department of Agriculture has issued a formal defense. Among the critics are the Dallas and New Orleans Exchanges and the President of the American Cotton Association. The idea of the actual traders is that fortnightly reports are too frequent, as they keep business constantly in a state of anxious anticipation or excitement. This objection seems ungracious, since the reports were increased in number after a hearing of the trade at a conference summoned by the late Secretary of Agriculture. The department holds that the reports are necessary guides to both buyers and sellers, and that the market fluctuations are not due to the number of the reports.

Complaints of errors in the reports are more serious. Mr. J. S. Wannamaker, for the American Cotton Association, calls attention to the fact that the official estimates have exceeded the ginnings in seven of the last nine years. In 1922 the excess of the August estimate was 1,687,000 bales and in 1923 1,388,000 bales. In 1921 the department underestimated the crop in October by 1,417,000 bales and in December revised its acreage and reduced the overestimate to 386,500 bales. Mr. Wannamaker urges that the matter demands the attention of Congress. Meanwhile, the department omits the current "pars"—an arbitrary method of estimating yields.

The department would silence many critics if it confined itself to facts and expressed fewer opinions. A count of acres planted and abandoned could be a close approximation, whereas yields vary with seasons to such an extent that estimates are only guesses. The count of bales ginned is the real test of the season's picking. This year's increasing estimates of the crop are due in considerable part to the excellence of the picking season, which could not have been foreseen by anybody. There have been three short crop years, and this year's yield should be ample to prevent scarcity prices. Foreigners are buying while the buying is good.

READING IN COLLEGE.

Does the modern undergraduate do less voluntary reading than his forebears? The charge has doubtless been made by praisers of the past in every generation; but, while admitting this, the American Association of University Professors is of opinion that it at least is true today. No better evidence could be adduced than the report of one of the association's committees as to steps that have been taken by our leading universities toward "increas"ing the intellectual interests and "raising the intellectual standards of "undergraduates."

It is no thing of yesterday, this effort to inoculate the freshman with the virus of addiction to books. Almost half a century ago the Department of History at Harvard began requiring "special reports," the avowed purpose of which was to familiarize the student with the library catalogue. At Princeton President Wilson introduced a modification of the Oxford tutorial system—"preceptors" whose duty it is to conduct personally undergraduate reading. Many universities now offer "tutorial" instruction so far as their means permit; and many, notably Harvard, are developing "honor examinations" on the English plan, which test, not the student's memory of certain books and lectures, but his reading and his intelligence as to his chosen subject as a whole. Columbia has made a two-year course of general reading the basis for an honor examination at graduation. The forty-one authors selected range from Homer and Aristophanes to Tolstoy and Nietzsche. Students who elect "General Honors" spend an evening every week with a group of instructors discussing, for example, "The Divine Comedy," "The Wealth of Nations," "The Origin of Species." At several universities condensed libraries have been set apart and, at the same time, the general stacks have been thrown open. Undergraduates are "frequently seen "wandering through the stacks, ex"amining the books." At the request of members of the Princeton Faculty, the Brick Row Book Shop has opened a branch near the campus, and the Harvard Cooperative Society distributes descriptive catalogues of second-hand books and remainders.

The inference to be drawn from all this is that the modern undergraduate requires effort, systematic and sustained, to render him appreciably literate. In the palmy days of which one still may hear—as we heard just now—young Stevenson resented young Barrie's stare with a quotation from Shakespeare; and then, having drunk brotherhood, the two fell afoul again over the reputation of Mary Queen of Scots. Today the chances are that they would be spending much of their leisure in out-of-door sport, presumably to the improvement of their physique. If circumstances permitted, they would probably give many hours to scouring the country in automobiles. It is not impossible that they would keep in touch with current magazines, even with the movies. However studiously they were inclined, they would find that laboratory manipulation is disputing culture on quite even terms, and that in literature itself nine out of ten instructors are still dominated by the German mania for scientific methods, centring in the abstruse hobbies of research that lead to Doctors' theses.

All the more one welcomes the report of the Association of Professors. There is a point beyond which the sound body may be developed at the expense of the mind; and, whatever the case in Germany, people of English stock have found that sturdy character, the fine flower of both mind and body, is best nurtured on the humanities.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Assassinations Kindly Are Postponed.

Perhaps the most surprising phenomenon to be observed at this time and place is presented by the officials of the two Chinese tongs in their dealings with the head of our Police Department. Under something between compulsion and persuasion, and under how much of either is not for knowledge out of very narrow circles, these eminent and powerful Oriental personages go or are carried to Police Headquarters to discuss a rather long series of murders that has caused much excitement among the Chinese in several parts of the country. At the close of the conversation it is announced that the tong leaders have agreed to a prolongation for a fortnight of an "armistice," which word, being interpreted, means, or at least seems to mean, that the five Oriental personages will give orders to their subordinates, among them a corps of efficient and experienced hatchet and gun men, to commit no more assassinations for two weeks or until they receive further orders.

That, to an unitiate observer, amounts to a confession that the men making this pleasant promise were responsible for the murders already committed.

To say the least of it, this is an unusual situation. Our authorities apparently are treating with the representatives of the tongs as if they were sovereign powers, with no responsibilities except to those whom they represent. If the five officials can postpone or prevent the activities of their well-disciplined bravos in the future, they could have done it in the past, and one would suppose that it would have occurred to somebody to ask them—very gently, of course—how they expect to escape responsibility for what has happened.

Assurances are given that the probabilities are for peace. It takes the most advanced sort of pacifist, however, really to enjoy a peace so secured.

Our Cars Invade the East.

A report issued by the Automotive Division of the Department of Commerce presents some interesting statistics about the Far East as a market for American automobiles, trucks and motorcycles. Exports in that direction, though they seem small in comparison with the trade done here at home, are far from inconsiderable, and the department thinks that there is an opportunity for almost limitless development. At present the use of such vehicles in China, the Philippines, Japan, the Dutch East Indies and India is largely, though by no means exclusively, confined to the large coast cities and their neighborhood. That is because elsewhere in those countries good roads are chiefly to be found in such localities, but conditions are changing in that respect—indeed, they already are much changed with regard to India and Japan.

Huge China, with its almost innumerable population, as yet has only 8,524 passenger cars, 1,150 trucks and 942 motorcycles, and, of course, the vast majority of China's population are too poor to buy things so expensive. Yet imports there are steadily, though slowly, increasing. Japan has 26,000 passenger cars and trucks and 4,594 motorcycles, and is buying more rapidly, especially since the great earthquake disorganized other means of transportation so seriously. The Philippine Islands now have 9,694 automobiles, 2,241 trucks and 1,601 motorcycles.

The American manufacturers have the greater part of this business in their hands, but the Canadians are ambitious rivals and are getting a share of it. The European makers seem to be paying little attention to the Eastern market, the reasons for that being various and including an apparent failure to realize future possibilities as roads improve.

American automobiles are going to the Near as well as to the Far East. Palestine and Syria, though small customers as yet, are buying them, and already have 3,013 cars, 260 trucks and 161 motorcycles. But they are sighing for more, and will buy them as soon as they have the money.

Some Hope Seems Justified.

A new addition has been made to the long list of "consumption cures." Hitherto none of them has proved to be the eagerly awaited victor over the bacillus of tuberculosis in direct battle, and as yet most or almost all dependence has to be placed, first, on prevention, and, second, on general treatment, such as diet and outdoor life, as means of stopping the progress of the disease in the individuals attacked. That the malady can be prevented, and in this sense cured, fairly can be claimed, but only dubious success has been attained by any of the many specific remedial agents hitherto exploited.

The latest promise comes from Denmark. It has been brought here by Dr. Allen W. Freeman of the Johns Hopkins University Hospital, and his hopefulness that it will prove of high value will receive serious consideration. The inventor or discoverer of the supposed remedy, curiously enough, is a professor, not in a medical school, but in the National Veterinary School of Copenhagen, and there, it is stated, "hundreds of patients" in advanced stages of tuberculosis have been treated, with seemingly real cures in many cases and improvement in almost all.

Dr. Freeman is properly cautious in his statements as to the efficacy of the new drug, which he describes as a double salt of gold and sodium, with thio-sulphuric acid. He says that it still must be subjected to many prolonged tests. That is in reassuring contrast with what has been heard in the past of "sure cures" that in the end turned out to be not sure at all, but just the reverse.

This Decision Should Be Reversed.

Those hotels of this city which, under "orders" from their own association, have refused, this year, to allow the Red Cross solicitors to use their lobbies for conducting the annual drive, have assumed a responsibility that seems highly unwise.

On general principles it is right to protect hotel patrons from requests for money, even for good causes. The Red Cross, however, is an exception to all rules. It is national in its scope, and its appeal, like its services, knows none of the ordinary restrictions and limitations. Refusal to give it any possible help needs more explaining and excusing than it has received in this case, for it cannot be believed that guests at our hotels would object to being asked to "enlist" under a banner that means so much to the whole world.

NOT A KLAN VICTORY.

Oklahoman's Explanation of the Election of Pine as Senator.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I write to dispute the conclusions concerning the Nov. 4 election in Oklahoma, contained in a news story on page 1 of THE NEW YORK TIMES of Thursday, Nov. 6.

The story erroneously credits the Ku Klux Klan with the election of W. B. Pine as United States Senator and the defeat of J. C. Walton.

Mr. Pine was elected by men and women who previously voted the Democratic ticket because of their resentment of the fact that J. C. Walton, who was impeached and removed from the office of Governor, had secured the Democratic nomination.

The election was in no sense a Republican or a Klan victory. It was a victory for the common sense and intelligence of the electorate of this State.

Mr. Walton tried hard to make it appear that Pine, the Republican nominee and Senator-elect, was the Klan candidate. It is true that Mr. Pine was endorsed by several local Klans, but purely because of the fact that he seemed to be a clean man morally and a much better candidate for the Senate.

Save for the political purposes of J. C. Walton the Klan was, and is, dead in Oklahoma as far as State-wide prestige is concerned.

The new Senator-elect, W. B. Pine, is no tower of intelligence, but he is free from Klan domination. He has a record for decency and honesty as a business man, and it was on this understanding that the people of the State chose him over the Democratic nominee.

My protest is over the unfairness of branding as a Klan victory the intelligent voting of Oklahoma.

I think you will agree with me that one of the most amazing results of the election of Nov. 4 is the carrying of Oklahoma's electoral vote by John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee, by 30,000 votes, while the Democratic nominee for United States Senator, J. C. Walton, was swept to an ignominious defeat under an avalanche of 137,000 plurality. The Klan does not control 137,000 votes in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Indiana combined.

Intelligence was talking in Oklahoma on Nov. 4.

ADOPTION.

But the peace that comes with the wistful sound of a lonely child's first laughter;
Never that moment of breathless thrill when a baby's hands go groping,
But the calm that comes to a tired soul when there is an end to hoping!

Never the rapture of saying, soft, "This is flesh of my flesh I'm bearing!"
But the quiet charm of a home complete —and a love the heart is sharing.
Never the gleam of a girlhood dream in a little face uplifted,
But a hand to touch when the shadows creep, and the yearning years have drifted.

Never the pain of birth, perhaps, nor the rapture coming later;
Never the fear that is past belief—nor the splendor, which is greater!
Just an aching lack, to be satisfied, that some tiny life is feeling;
Just the sight of a little cozy bed—and a child beside it kneeling!

Never the waiting, anguish torn, for a spirit to be lighted,
Only the knowledge of work to do, of a wrong that may be righted;
Never the best, perhaps, of life—its wonderful, age-old story—
But who shall say that the second best is lacking its share of glory!

NATIONAL ACADEMY EXHIBIT

The Prize-Winning Paintings of the Winter Show.

In awarding the prizes for its "Winter Exhibition," an exhibition that will close this year before Winter astronomically opens, the National Academy of Design has been true to its own form. Portly and discreet, it avoids eccentricities and departures from existing order and makes its awards wisely, with admirable and conservative taste.

"Miss Ingram," by Childe Hassam, winning the liberal Altman prize, is one of Mr. Hassam's conspicuous successes in placing a figure within a room and providing it with air and light in which to breathe and bloom. A lovely picture that emphasizes the part played by light in the sum of human happiness, emphasis calling for a peculiar culture in which the mind of this artist is rich and which justifies classing him with the Greek as a boy at play in the sun.

"The Captain's Wife," taking the Carnegie Prize for C. W. Hawthorne, is in the sombre vein of his Provincetown themes, but shows none of the forced mysticism marring his earlier characterizations. A rugose and weather-worn figure, standing somewhat too low on the canvas for a satisfying geometry of space. Study of the physiognomy plays the most important rôle, and the head claims concentrated attention.

Back to light and youth and cheerful color in Lilian Westcott Hale's "Nancy" (Shaw Memorial Prize), a young girl comfortably slouched in a willow chair, reading, Winter outside the window and red flowers on the sill—a pleasant picture with refinement of type and handling; nothing said in it about volume or simplification; designed for a domestic environment, not for the far ranges of the "fauves."

In "The Wood Engraver, G. W. Watt, A. N. A.," by Nicolai Fechin (Thomas R. Proctor Prize), a cleverness almost demoded and too difficult of achievement ever to become a popular fashion, a camouflage of glittering technique by which the close research and serious characterization are concealed from the enemy. The subject, whose memorial group of engravings is in the Academy room, merits the serious characterization. Not only an interpreter of art but a whole-seeing artist, in these beautiful reproductions of paintings he kept the artistic intention continually before his eyes and in no instance intruded upon it a false value or misplaced accent.

Eugene F. Savage takes the Isidor Medal with his "Fame and Fortune," a piece of obvious symbolism in a metallic color scheme that chinks of gold and clanks of brass. It is saved from banality by the extraordinary justness of the draftsmanship, a draftsmanship in which, however, line has not yet quite escaped the leading string of the schools. It neither wanders at its will, as of course it should not in so limited a decorative plan, nor does it march under military discipline, as it should, with the decorative plan so clearly determined. Predestined to the winning of prizes in this appreciative country, Mr. Savage also is predestined to the covering of large mural space.

One could wish the same future for Robert K. Ryland, whose "Classic Toilet" takes the second Altman Prize. Not only the costume in his picture is classic, the composition throughout has the authentic stamp of a classic taste, and the very fine disposition of the forms keeps them well back within the frame in spite of an emphatic third dimensional quality.

In the section of sculpture, Malvina Hoffman's mask of Anna Pavlowa is awarded the Elizabeth Watrous Gold Medal. The austerity of the features is kept with integrity of modelling and is pushed to the point of a death-like pause in the ceaseless activity of the human organism. The addition of color strengthens this impression, and in the example shown falls short of enhancing the beauty of the mask. A more reticent application of the stain and a more restricted palette might produce the desired effect.

The "Persephone," by Caetano Cecere, which takes the Helen Foster Barnett Prize, is broad and simple in treatment, a handsome piece of marble, free from embroidery of surface and elaboration of detail, no suggestion of bric-à-brac, and under the strain of this noble breadth revealing a slightly dull interrelation of features, a failure to animate by a personal reading of personality the blank mass of the stone.

Among the exhibits that take no prizes are many that have won applause in other galleries. Well-known talents owing their popularity to genuine gifts are on every wall. Nowhere is the prick of freshly discovered ability, but it well may be that none was offered for discovery. The ensemble is that of a typical good Academy exhibition. For something better than good we must wait until next year and the centennial show. Unless signs fail, this will fulfill its opportunity.

The present exhibition will be further reviewed in a later notice.

RARE FURNITURE SOLD.

The sale of Italian furniture, wrought iron, marble and textiles from the Guidotte collection, yesterday afternoon, at the Clarke Art Galleries, brought $9,210. The total to date is $17,926.50. The final sale will be held today.

No. 200 of the catalogue, a five-piece oak library suite, went to S. Carvalho for $557.50. No. 218, a seventeenth century Italian walnut centre table, sold for $260, and No. 222, a decorated Venetian high chest of drawers, for $120. No. 237, a decorated Venetian secretaire bookcase, was bought by B. F. Davis for $370. No. 245 went for $135, it being a set of six decorated Venetian side chairs, and No. 263, a brilliant yellow seventeenth century Italian brocatelle panel, was sold for $220.

$5,000 PRIZE FOR TREATISE.

Professor J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago announced yesterday a prize of $5,000 for the best original treatise on "The Theory of Wages." The prize is to be paid by Hart Schaffner & Marx. Associates of Professor Laughlin on the committee are Professor John Bates Clark of Columbia University, Dr. Edwin F. Gay, Congressman Theodore E. Burton and Professor Wesley C. Mitchell of Columbia.

The contest is open to foreign economists, provided they write in English. Manuscripts may be submitted up to Oct. 1, 1926. This prize, it was said, is the possible forerunner of an annual prize for distinguished work in the field of economics.

COOLIDGE ENDORSES EDUCATION WEEK

He Proclaims the Need for Vocational Training to Teach Men to Earn Living.

CULTURAL STUDIES URGED

Educated Must Know How to Work and the Rich How to Think, the President Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—In a proclamation issued at the White House today, designating next week as "American Education Week," President Coolidge emphasized the opportunities for cultural training now offered to the youth of the United States. He paid a tribute to the pioneers who espoused the cause of popular education, and declared that "education for the children of all the people" constitutes "America's noblest contribution to civilization."

The President stressed the need for vocational training, declaring that it was necessary for men to know the practical side of life in order that they may earn a living. After the problem of earning a living has been solved, the President suggested, men should have a broad and liberal culture that would enable them to think.

"An educated fool is a sorry spectacle, but he is not nearly so dangerous as a rich fool," said the President. "We want the educated to know how to work and the rich to know how to think."

The President's Proclamation.

The President's proclamation is as follows:

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.
A PROCLAMATION.

Education for the children of all the people, extending from the primary grades through the university, constitutes America's noblest contribution to civilization. No child or youth in the United States need be deprived of the benefits of education suited to his age and degree of advancement.

Nevertheless, either through negligence or because of unfortunate circumstances which might be controlled with sufficient effort, large numbers of children do not receive the full preparation for their life's work to which they are justly entitled. Many have reached maturity without even the rudiments of education.

This condition demands the solicitude of all patriotic citizens. It involves not only the persons immediately concerned and the community in which they live, but the nation itself, for the welfare of the country depends upon the character and the intelligence of those who cast the ballots.

Education has come to be nearer to the hearts of the American people than any other single public interest. The plan of maintaining educational institutions from public funds did not originally prevail in most of the States, and even where it was in use it was but feebly developed in the early days of the Republic. That plan did not arise spontaneously in the minds of all citizens. It was only when the suggestion came forcefully, convincingly and repeatedly from a few pioneers that popular interest was fully aroused. Vigorous campaigns were required not only to establish the idea of public education, but also for its maintenance and for its important extensions.

Campaigns of national scope in behalf of education have been conducted annually since 1920 and they have been increasingly effective with each succeeding year. They have concentrated attention upon the needs of education, and the cumulative impetus of mass action has been peculiarly beneficial. It is clearly in the interest of popular education, and consequently of the country, that these campaigns be continued with vigor.

Urges All Citizens to Aid.

In the last few years we have placed much emphasis on vocational training. It is necessary for men to know the practical side of life and be able to earn a living. We want to have masters of our material resources. But it is also necessary to have a broad and liberal culture that will enable men to think and know how to live after they have earned a living. An educated fool is a sorry spectacle, but he is not nearly so dangerous to society as a rich fool. We want neither in this country. We want the educated to know how to work and the rich how to think.

Now, therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States of America, do designate Nov. 17 to 23, inclusive, as American Education Week. I urge that the citizens do all they can to advance the interests of education. It is especially recommended that the Governors of the States issue proclamations emphasizing the services rendered by their educational institutions, and calling upon their people to observe the occasion by appropriate action.

Further, I urge that all civil officers whose duties relate to education, and all persons connected with the profession of teaching, exert themselves to diffuse information concerning the conditions and needs of the schools and to enhance appreciation of the value of education.

Patriotic, civic, religious, social and other organizations could contribute by conducting meetings and demonstrations to promote the desire for knowledge. Ministers of religion and members of the press are asked to exercise the means within their power to increase the enthusiasm for educational advancement and to stimulate zeal for enlightened citizenship.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done in the City of Washington on this fourteenth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-four and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and forty-ninth.

(Signed) CALVIN COOLIDGE.
By the President:
CHARLES E. HUGHES,
Secretary of State.

YALE GETS PRINCETON GIFT.

$15,000 Fund for Scholarship Received From Club.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 14.—Yale University announced today the receipt of a fund of $15,000 from Walter A. Hope, President of the Princeton Club of New York, for the Princeton Club of New York scholarship, established by that club in honor of the Yale Club of New York in commemoration of their association during the World War.

In accepting the scholarship the President and Fellows of Yale University assured the officers and council of the Princeton Club "of the gratitude of the university for this gift, which testifies anew and so strikingly to the friendship and mutual esteem of the two universities and their alumni."

FAVOR PULPWOOD EMBARGO.

Canadian Interests Seek to Keep Americans Out of Quebec.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 14.—Although the Embargo Commission has not made a conclusive report, efforts will be made by the Canadian pulp and paper interests to obtain an embargo which would preserve the forests of this Province from American companies.

Whether legislation will be introduced at the next session of the Legislature is not certain yet, but it is expected that debates affecting forests will be general.

Premier Taschereau, when asked today what was the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature in the matter of an embargo, stated that it was a much contested subject and that he was not ready to state what authority the Province would have to interfere.

GREET DEBUTANTES AT MANY PARTIES

DINNER FOR MISS EMMET

Misses Morris, Pease, Roosevelt, Colby, Garrison and Barry Entertained.

There was much entertaining for débutantes last night and yesterday afternoon with receptions, dinners and dances. The first private dance of a busy season was given last night in the ballroom of the Park Lane by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler to introduce the latter's daughter, Miss Elsie Benkard, who in advance of it was a guest at the small dinner which Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Hooker gave at their home, 1,067 Fifth Avenue, for Mrs. Hooker's débutante daughter, Miss Madeleine Burke, who returned recently from Florence, Italy, where she had been at school for two years.

Another dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Temple Emmet at their home, 3 East Ninety-fourth Street, for their daughter, Miss Pauline Emmet, also a débutante. Among the guests were the Misses Edith Woodward, Fanny Haven Wickes, Mary Elliot Nicholson and Anna Roosevelt and Robert E. Strawbridge Jr., Henry Munroe, Maurice Fatio, Edward Merrill, John Beach and Henry Seton. Mr. and Mrs. Emmet went later with their guests to the Benkard dance.

One of the hosts last night was James M. Waterbury of Spencer House, Westchester, who gave a dinner at Pierre's for his débutante granddaughter, Miss Bay Morris, the guests later going to the dance for Miss Benkard. Mrs. Waterbury Morris, mother of the débutante, assisted Mr. Waterbury. The guests included the Misses Edith Hope Iselin, Helen Potter, Consuelo Vanderbilt, Catharine Potter, Natica Nast, Marion Wilson, Josefa Hofman, Lillian Bostwick, Mildred Helen Fahnestock and Mary Rawlings. The men were Hugh and Terence J. Keogh, William Butler Duncan Jr., Leslie Kountze, Earl Smith, John B. Shaw, Gerard and Edward J. Smith Jr., Eugene H. Rosenquest Jr., Philip Robinson, Wolcott Warner, Thomas Wister Kendall, John Schiff, Louis Faugères Bishop Jr. and Edgar W. Leonard.

Another preliminary to the dance for Miss Benkard was the small dinner with dancing that was given in the ballroom of the Junior League, in its new house at 133 East Sixty-first Street, by Robert K. Rodgers for his débutante cousin, Miss Patty Carroll Pease. The guests included débutantes of this season and last.

The list of guests at the Benkard dance included the names of most of the débutantes of the season.

Mrs. Henry Parish gave a luncheon yesterday for four débutantes, including her young relative, Miss Anna Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Miss Edith Hyde Colby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colby; Miss Katherine Garrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip McKim Garrison and Miss Eleanor Barry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Barry. The luncheon preceded a reception held by Mrs. James Roosevelt and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at 47 East Sixty-fifth Street to introduce the latter's daughter, Miss Anna Eleanor Roosevelt.

Receiving with Miss Roosevelt were her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, who on Dec. 12 will give a dance for Miss Roosevelt at the Colony Club. Miss Roosevelt is the granddaughter of the late Elliott Roosevelt, only brother of the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. There were several hundred guests at the reception, representatives of leading families in society.

Miss Marjorie Oelrichs gave a luncheon yesterday at the Lido-Venice for some of the season's débutantes. In the party were the Misses Maude and Michelle Bouvier, Miss Henriette Erhart, Miss Doris M. Brixey, and Miss Katherine van Heukelom.

GIFT OF $2,500,000 MADE BY EASTMAN

Rockefeller Education Board Donates $1,000,000 to Greater University of Rochester.

ALUMNI RAISING MILLION

Drive for $10,000,000 Launched to Enlarge and Move College for Men.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 14.—At the opening dinner tonight of 600 workers in the $10,000,000 campaign for the greater University of Rochester, gifts were announced of $2,500,000 from George Eastman and $1,000,000 from the General Education Board of New York, a Rockefeller philanthropy. It was also made known that the alumni of the university, who began their campaign on Oct. 15, have already nearly reached their goal of $1,000,000, which they accepted as their share of the enterprise.

More than 1,200 alumni out of 1,600 graduates have subscribed $839,000. Among the largest subscriptions from graduates are those of Joseph T. Alling, President of the Alling & Cory Company of this city, $100,000; Dr. John P. Munn of New York, President of the United States Life Insurance Company, $50,000; Lemuel W. Bowen of Detroit, Treasurer of D. M. Ferry & Co., $50,000; Charles A. Brown, attorney, of Chicago, $50,000, and Albert H. Harris of New York, Vice President of the New York Central Railroad, $25,000.

This campaign was instituted by a group of influential Rochester citizens. While considerable preliminary work has been done, it is now proposed to complete raising the $10,000,000 in ten days. The purpose is to enlarge and remove the college for men to the 87-acre site now occupied by the Oak Hill Country Club on the Genesee River, to rededicate the present campus and buildings to the college for women and to add $5,000,000 to the endowment of the College of Arts and Sciences.

This development of the college, which was founded in 1850 and has long been overcrowded, was decided upon in order to raise it to the level, in equipment and endowment, of the richly endowed Schools of Medicine and of Music, which have recently been given to the University of Rochester. The School of Medicine, which will admit its first class next September, is now building on land adjacent to the Oak Hill site, and the successful outcome of the present campaign will make it possible to establish the college for men and the School of Medicine in close proximity.

SCHOLAR TAKES LIFE IN A SOVIET PRISON

Was Condemned to Die as an 'Economic Spy,' Edinburgh Professor Says in Letter.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Professor Charles Sarolea of Edinburgh University tells a remarkable story in a letter to The London Times headed "The Soviet terror." Sarolea writes, "I received yesterday the following item of news from an absolutely reliable source, 'Did you hear that our mutual friend, Raffalovitch, committed suicide in his cell in Spalernaya Prison after being condemned to death on a charge of economic espionage?' This tragedy, which occurred only a few weeks ago in Leningrad, where the dictatorship of Zinovieff is even more ruthless than that which prevails in Moscow, is characteristic of thousands of similar tragedies which are still happening every day. Raffalovitch was not a politician. He was a quiet and inoffensive scholar. He was one of the most distinguished economists in the University of Leningrad. Under present conditions, however, a professor of economics is not allowed to prosecute his economic studies just as a business man is not allowed to make his investigation into the condition of the Russian market.

"The crime of economic espionage has taken the place in the Soviet vocabulary of the crime of counter-revolution. It is very doubtful whether this new horror of economic espionage is likely to attract foreign traders or to encourage the revival of Russian trade, but it is quite certain that it is efficiently helping to destroy what still remains of brain and technical knowledge in the Russian people. Bolshevism is today what it was from the beginning and what it will remain until the end, except that hideous corruption and immorality has now been added to the original fanaticism and to aboriginal Asiatic cruelty. Being a hopeless minority and having the sword of Damocles suspended over their heads, Soviet rulers can only maintain themselves by continually striking terror into their opponents. From the moment they cease to apply their policy of frightfulness they are doomed and the system must inevitably collapse."

GOV. SMITH LOSES FIRST GOLF MATCH

Special to The New York Times.

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Nov. 14.—The biggest item out of the supposed political powwows here today was the fact that Governor Smith of New York lost his first golf match. The Governor and his companions, eight in number, have organized on a tournament basis for their ten days' stay. Elimination will decide the best player.

When the Governor came in today he admitted he had lost, but waved aside questions as to the score.

Beyond personal greetings, there have been no exchanges between Governor Smith, George E. Brennan, Illinois Democratic leader, and Tom Taggart, Indiana boss.

"Talk politics with him?" Brennan asked. "Why should I? There is no politics just now. National politics are four years away, and even Chicago and Cook County politics are almost two years away."

MRS. ROGERS IN PARIS.

Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Mrs. H. H. Rogers, who arrived in Paris last night, declined to receive visitors today. Her son-in-law, Count Ludwig Salm von Hoogstraten, remained at the Continental Hotel, while his wife's mother was at the Ritz around the corner.

He likewise refused to discuss the reasons for postponing his scheduled departure for the United States this week.

Although they have not been seen together, it is understood that they have been in communication and that he may sail on the same boat with Mrs. Rogers when she rejoins her daughter and Count Salm's little son, whom he has never seen.

CITY BREVITIES.

A luncheon to Congressmen recently elected will be given at the Hotel Astor on Nov. 20 by the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association.

The American Merchant Marine Library Association, 82 Beaver Street, issued an appeal yesterday for additional funds to continue its service to sailors. The crews of 1,300 ships are benefited thereby and it is proposed to equip 900 more. Mrs. Henry Howard is President of the association and Albert H. Wiggin, President of the Chase National Bank, is Treasurer.

Charles K. Edmunds, provost of Johns Hopkins University, will deliver a lecture, "Thirty Thousand Miles in China," in the McMillin Academic Theatre, Columbia University, next Wednesday evening at 8:15 o'clock in connection with the exhibition of Chinese achievement in art and culture.

Fifth Avenue—New York's famed street—has reached the century mark. Its birthday next week will be fittingly celebrated. John Finley contributes a poem entitled "The 'Via Gloriosa'" which will be published, together with a drawing by Theodore de Postels. Two articles, one by Diana Rice, recording the annals of the Avenue, which show its transformation in Manhattan life since its leisurely days; the other recalling the great parades which have passed along this historic thoroughfare.

Who are the President's neighbors? Carson C. Hathaway, who lives almost on the doorstep of the White House, discusses Mr. Coolidge's surroundings, presided over by a silent company, including Andrew Jackson, Lafayette, and others equally distinguished.

Atlantis, a submerged continent! Alma Reed tells of the attempts being made by archaeologists, under the direction of Count de Prorok, to locate definitely the birthplace of civilization in mid-Sahara.

Something Is the Matter with the Mainspring of the life of a man or woman, old or young, if there is no ambition in the mind or heart.

They are like plants that will not grow in the cold; and if they are put under glass with other vegetables, still there is no sign of growth.

Silks, Brocades, Velvets

3,300 yards in exquisite designs and colorings

$6.50 and $8.50 yd.

For the $13.50 to $28.50 grades

These are the silks, brocades and velvets used by the finest dressmakers in the world and seen in the smartest gatherings in both Europe and America. We couldn't believe our ears when the Bianchini representative offered them to us. We named our price. Cables flashed back and forth from France for final and official arrangement. And now we are able to offer them in Stewart Week at the sensationally low prices quoted above.

A Brilliant Spectacle

Bianchini fabrics are recognized the world over as masterpieces of design, coloring and texture. This collection includes scintillating gold, silver, copper and bronze brocades, gold and silver embroideries on vivid colorings, luxuriously supple velvets—printed in exquisite designs or in solid colorings shot with gold. Matelasses that will last more than a lifetime. Crushed velvets in two-tone effects. Crepes with metal and embroidered borders.

PSYCHIATRIC CENTRE WILL BE BUILT HERE

State to Erect Research Institute on Land of Columbia and Presbyterian Hospital.

WILL TRAIN PHYSICIANS

The Cooperating Agencies Hope to Develop Better Ways for Treating Mentally Infirm.

CAN REACH INCIPIENT CASES

Location of the Project in Great Medical Centre Will Broaden Scope of Its Work.

New York is to have a great new centre of research into the care and cure of mental disease analogous in its position in the scientific world to that held by the Rockefeller Institute in general medical research. Announcement was made yesterday that such a State psychiatric institute would be built through an agreement just signed by the State Hospital Commission and the Joint Administrative Board of Columbia University and the Presbyterian Hospital.

Under the terms of the agreement the new institute will be built at 165th Street and Broadway and will become a part of the great medical centre which Columbia University and the Presbyterian Hospital are creating in that region. The announcement was made by Dr. C. Floyd Haviland, Chairman of the State Hospital Commission, with the concurrence of General William Barclay Parsons, who is Chairman of the Joint Administrative Board under which Columbia and Presbyterian are cooperating.

The agreement signed yesterday brings to culmination a movement which has been under way in New York State for the last twenty years. The institution will be unique, and, according to the announcement, "will mark a distinct development in the effort of the medical profession to bring about a more thorough understanding of and better treatment of mental diseases." Its direct objects will be the investigation of mental disease and the training of doctors in the treatment of mental disorders.

Permanent Cures to Be Sought.

The hospital will have from 150 to 200 beds for patients under observation. Victims of mental disease whose cases do not present special interest will be taken care of in other State hospitals for the insane, of which there are now fourteen.

In the new research hospital these selected patients will be studied by the staff of psychiatrists which the State Hospital Commission plans to enlist. Methods of effecting permanent cures will be studied and the information gathered here passed along to the other State hospitals.

The State Hospital Commission plans to expend at least $1,500,000 on the new hospital and will make such recommendation to the Legislature when it convenes in January. That sum is available under the $ 0,000,000 bond issue for State hospitals already approved by the voters.

Columbia University and Presbyterian Hospital own twenty acres extending from 165th to 168th Streets and from Broadway to the Hudson River. The ground was formerly the American Baseball League park. The Joint Administrative Board of these two institutions has agreed to give property for the State psychiatric hospital, and this has made the hospital possible. The State had desired for some time to build such an institution, but no suitable site had been available.

Under a law passed in 1920 the Legislature approved the construction of a State psychiatric hospital which would have as its object "the study of the causes, nature and treatment of diseases affecting the mind, brain and nervous system; to discover and apply more efficient measures of prevention, treatment and cure of such disorders in order that their numbers shall be decreased, conducting courses of instruction for physicians and others in order to improve the methods of treatment and care of patients; and for the development of the care and cure of patients through an out-patient department to be provided."

There are now approximately 42,500 patients in the State hospitals for the insane. Approximately 25 per cent. of those admitted each year are discharged recovered and an additional 25 to 30 per cent. of the victims become so improved that they are able to return to their homes. With the operation of the psychiatric hospital the State hopes to increase the number of cures, the announcement said.

Facilities Now Limited.

The Psychiatric Institute was organized in 1902 as a department of the State Hospital Commission. It is now located on Ward's Island. Facilities for research there are limited. With its removal to the new site and establishment in a new building the research and teaching facilities will be greatly extended. A decided advantage will be the bringing of psychiatric workers into contact with general medicine.

"The out-patient department of the Medical Centre will furnish a large field for the psychiatric hospital, since there will be found many victims of mental disorder in the incipient stage, a field difficult for scientists to reach. Psychiatrists rarely come in contact with mental derangement until the trouble is well advanced," the announcement continued.

"Although the State Psychiatric Hospital will be located in the Medical Centre and thus be physically associated with Presbyterian Hospital and the Columbia University Medical School, its facilities and discoveries will be available to all medical educational institutions of the State."

The following statement was issued jointly yesterday by Dr. Haviland and Dr. C. C. Burlingame, executive officer of the Columbia-Presbyterian Board:

"Columbia University and the Presbyterian Hospital hold approximately twenty acres of land at 165th and Broadway for the development of a Medical Centre. The first buildings to be constructed on one of the parcels of land will be the new Presbyterian Hospital and the College of Physicians and Surgeons. Consistent with the adopted policy, the remaining land is being made available for other institutions associating themselves in the development of the Medical Centre."

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University, commenting on the project yesterday, said:

"The results to follow from this new association ought to be and doubtless will be of very great value both to the public health and to science."

Opens Way to Progress.

Dean Sage, President of Presbyterian Hospital, made the following comment on the association of the State Psychiatric Hospital with the Medical Centre:

"The Presbyterian Hospital welcomes the advent of the State Institute, fully believing that it will open the way to distinct progress in the solution of the ills of the human race and in service to mankind."

The addition of the State Psychiatric Hospital contributes greatly to the importance of the Medical Centre, plans for which were recently announced. Presbyterian Hospital, now located at Seventieth Street and Madison Avenue, and the Columbia University Medical School will form the nucleus of this centre. They will erect jointly a combination building which will house classrooms and laboratories for the students as well as wards and a private patient pavilion. This structure will cost $10,000,000. Presbyterian's share of the cost will be $7,000,000 of which $4,500,000 is now being raised. Columbia has its share or $3,000,000 ready. Several specialized hospitals and schools are considering a move to the Medical Centre, which completed will represent an investment of $30,000,000.

Ducks, Seeking Water, Die In Louisiana Oil Tanks

SHREVEPORT, La., Nov. 14.—The drought in this State is causing the death of thousands of wild ducks in a most unusual manner.

North Louisiana is dotted with large earthen tanks for storing crude oil from the Arkansas and Louisiana fields. With most of the small lakes and marshes dry and minor streams little more than brooks, ducks arriving from the North are mistaking the oil tanks for water and alighting in them.

They never rise again, for the thick oil permeates their feathers, making it impossible for them to fly. Thousands are succumbing in the tanks, while others, after struggling to the edges, flop to the ground and die.

HELPS STUDENTS SOLVE EMOTIONAL PROBLEMS

Psychiatrist at Dartmouth Has Given Marked Service, Says President Hopkins.

The services of the psychiatrist attached to the Faculty of Dartmouth College for the past three years in the adjustment of the mental and emotional problems of students have been of incalculable value; and, contrary to the expectation of the Faculty, students have not hesitated to ask his help, according to Dr. Ernest M. Hopkins, President of Dartmouth. Dr. Hopkins spoke here yesterday at the fifteenth annual meeting of the National Committee for Mental Hygiene. He added that "intellectualism cannot be safely developed unless mental health is preserved at the same time."

Dr. William H. Welch of Johns Hopkins University, President of the committee, and Dr. Frankwood E. Williams, its medical director, described the great need of personnel trained in psychiatry. Only a small number of such persons could be found to man enterprises waiting to be undertaken in different parts of the country in connection with the mental hygiene of education. Dr. Welch stressed the importance of looking to the schools, high school and colleges for the beginnings of the mental hygiene problems that culminate in the mental diseases criminality and dependency of later life. A big help in this direction has been the recent appropriation of funds, about $50 000 to start with, by the Rockefeller Foundation and the Commonwealth Fund, to be used in [illegible] scholarships to pick phy- [illegible] social workers who must receive special training in the technique of mental hygiene.

Dr. Williams outlined activities of the National Committee during the past year, made possible by funds of the [illegible] Foundation, mentioning particularly a survey of the hospitals for the insane, the penal and correctional institutions and the rural schools of Texas; a survey of the mental hygiene needs of the schools and courts of Staten Island, and the work of the committee's child guidance clinics, financed by the Commonwealth Fund, in Los Angeles, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Memphis and Macon. Demonstrations were made by staffs of experts of the value of the psychiatric study and treatment of problem children sent to them by the courts, the schools and the social agencies. Upon the completion of these demonstrations permanent child guidance clinics, supported by community funds, have been established in each city.

Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Church, spoke of the value of mental hygiene from the standpoint of the work of the churches, but decried the attempt of some ministers to set up "body and soul" clinics as cure-alls for the physical, mental and moral ills of mankind without regard to the scientific knowledge necessary for the treatment of their patients.

LIBERAL M. P. WARS UPON LLOYD GEORGE

Captain Benn Declares He Will Not Recognize Ex-Premier as a Leader in Commons.

LONDON, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—An incipient revolt against former Premier Lloyd George's holding joint leadership of the Liberal Party with H. H. Asquith was today's development in the plain speaking which has surrounded that party since its poor showing in the recent elections.

Mr. Lloyd George was rejected by the Conservative Party in the famous caucus in October, 1922, which put an end to the coalition Government and brought Bonar Law and then Stanley Baldwin into leadership of the Conservatives. The Labor Party never would have anything to do with Mr. Lloyd George. Now, while Mr. Asquith "is journeying to Egypt to consult the Sphinx on the Liberal riddle," as Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, facetiously remarked in a speech yesterday, Captain William Wedgwood Benn, an influential member of the Liberal Party, has written a letter to a prominent Liberal organ declaring he cannot in anyway, directly or indirectly, acknowledge Mr. Lloyd George as his leader in the House of Commons.

Captain Benn declares it was not defective party organization that brought about the Liberal disaster.

"The vital fault," he says, "is want of trust. The people have no confidence, and rightly so, in Mr. Lloyd George."

It is pointed out in political circles that of the few Liberals elected to the Commons, most are strong adherents of Mr. Lloyd George, and that if the movement against the former Premier should grow it would be not among the Liberal parliamentarians but among the Liberals outside.

Thus far no other important Liberal has come out in support of the protest of Captain Benn, who was re-elected to Parliament in the elections, but it is known that strong differences exist in what remains of the Liberal Party and that there is some division respecting allegiance to Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Asquith.

5TH AV. CELEBRATES ITS 100TH BIRTHDAY

TOMORROW "CHURCH DAY"

Business Men of the Thoroughfare to Gather Thursday Night at Dinner at the Waldorf.

One hundred years ago three Commissioners appointed by the Common Council, Gouverneur Morris, Simon De Witt and John Rutherford, prepared a map which represented New York's first official plan for its growth. On that map there was recorded for the first time the name "Fifth Avenue."

Pursuant to that plan, the Common Council on Sept. 27, 1824, officially approved the opening of Fifth Avenue.

By Nov. 15, 1824, Fifth Avenue was a fact, a rather insignificant fact, so that no man perhaps dreamed that it was to become one of the noted streets of the world. It is the thoroughfare's development through a hundred years until it has become the common possession of the nation rather than a mere street in New York, that is to be celebrated with a week of festivities starting today under the auspices of the Fifth Avenue Association. The avenue was aglow with golden lights last night on the eve of the opening of the celebration.

To emphasize the national character of the centennial, President Coolidge has accepted the honorary chairmanship of the advisory body, while both Governor Smith and Mayor Hylan are honorary chairmen of the Centennial Committee.

The Features of the Week.

The features of Centennial Week, starting today, are divided into civic activities, artistic exhibits and commercial displays.

Civic activities include the cooperation of the public and parochial schools, which will hold exercises commemorative of the anniversary, with patriotic songs and reading of poems. Pupils in every school have been invited to write compositions on "Fifth Avenue," and the winner in each school will receive as a prize a copy of the Centennial History published by the Fifth Avenue Association. There also will be cash prizes up to $100 each for the best essays in all the boroughs. Similar prizes will be awarded for the best poems on "Fifth Avenue." These prizes are given by Michael Friedsam.

Tomorrow has been designated as "Church Day" by Cardinal Hayes and Bishop Manning and the churches will participate through sermons on the relationship between religion and civics in the upbuilding of a great commercial and agricultural centre like Fifth Avenue.

Dr. John H. Finley has written a centennial ode, dedicated to Fifth Avenue, which will be read widely during Centennial Week.

The New York Historical Society has arranged a special exhibition of its most valuable prints, etchings and lithographs of old Fifth Avenue, constituting one of the finest collections of its kind. This will be open to visitors. Another interesting exhibition of old Fifth Avenue pictures and prints will be held at the Museum of the City of New York, Gracie Mansion, Carl Schurz Park. The Fifth Avenue Bank, 530 Fifth Avenue, will exhibit prints and pictures of old Fifth Avenue next Monday to Saturday.

The Public Library will hold a special Fifth Avenue exhibition in Room 316. The collection includes old woodcuts, lithographs, etchings and engravings by Mietlatz, Shope, F. S. King and Treidler, and paintings by Childe Hassam and Colin Campbell Cooper. Art galleries throughout the Fifth Avenue section will unite in a showing of famous paintings and etchings which reproduce scenes from the old and the new Fifth Avenue.

Dinner at the Waldorf.

On Thursday at 7 P. M., in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf, there will be the annual dinner of the Fifth Avenue Association which will be transformed for the occasion into a gala centennial dinner with a great birthday cake and a historical design on the menu card. The nation, the State and the city will be represented and the centennial orators will speak for the National Administration, the State Government and the city.

During Centennial Week the window displays in the Fifth Avenue shops will seek to demonstrate the close relationship between art and industry through Fifth Avenue standards. The best displays will be selected by an art jury and will receive awards of certificates of artistic merit, and the one display considered the finest in this special group will receive a silver cup presented by Arthur Williams.

FAR-RANGING DEBATE IN ITALIAN CHAMBER

ROME, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—Today's sitting of the Chamber of Deputies was taken up largely with speeches on various subjects, ranging from minor internal affairs to discussions of the political effects of the elections in Great Britain and the United States and the war in China. Many proposed interrogations of the Government were dropped.

A vote of confidence on the Fascisti Government's general policy is to be taken tomorrow.

The principal address at today's session was made by Signor Volpe, who advocated the creation of special schools abroad for Italian emigrants. The education of many Italians far from the motherland was sadly neglected, he said. Also, it was his belief that the Government was losing a great opportunity to spread Italian ideas to other countries through these thousands of "potential diplomats."

When Signor Volpe suggested that the Government should provide funds for this purpose, Signor de Stefani, the Finance Minister, smiled, but did not indicate whether or not he approved the Deputy's suggestion. The Deputy was warmly applauded when he finished his speech.

The Committee of the Parliamentary Opposition to the Government has issued an order forbidding the Opposition members to be present at the sittings of the Chamber of Deputies, even as spectators.

DUEL GOES TO HONOR COURT

Garibaldi-Balbo Challenge Unlikely to Be Accepted.

ROME, Nov. 14.—It was announced today that General Italo Balbo, Commander-in-Chief of the Fascist National Militia, "owing to the impossibility of a duel" with General Peppino Garibaldi, had submitted the case involved in his challenge to General Garibaldi to the Permanent Court of Honor in Florence.

TURIN, Italy, Nov. 14.—A duel was fought today at Vercelli between the Fascist Deputy Belloni and the Liberal Deputy Rossini, in which the former was wounded six times. Deputy Rossini was untouched. The combatants remained unreconciled after the meeting, which was due to alleged insulting epithets applied by the Liberal Deputy to Deputy Belloni.

The challenge issued by General Balbo last week was an outgrowth of a protest made by Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian patriot, against the alleged attack by Fascist militia upon unarmed former soldiers during the celebration of the Austrian armistice anniversary in Rome.

Java Earthquate Was Predicted by Italian; Land Rose in Billows During the Tremors

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 14.—The Nieuwe Rotterdamsche Courant today published further details of the earthquake which shook Java Wednesday. The newspaper states that the shock occurred at 1:10 P. M. and was most severe at Wonosobo.

The tremor appeared to run from north to south and the ground was said to have billowed like the sea. The houses of several local Dutch officials collapsed and stone buildings like the Post Office and railroad station were badly cracked but remained standing.

At a Wonosobo hotel the ceiling is said to have collapsed while the patrons were at luncheon. Only one European woman was injured, but there were numerous casualties among the natives. Many families were said to be sleeping on the roadsides following the destruction of their homes. The Seraju River was declared to be choked with thousands of dead fish.

Javanese authorities have gone to inspect the damage. The district where the earthquake occurred is highly volcanic. A surmise is that neighboring volcanos, Sindoro and Sumding, have erupted.

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 14.—Advices from Java, bearing Thursday's date, say that the earth was still quaking slightly, threatening to ruin many of the houses which escaped damage in the shocks of Wednesday. The damage to Government buildings at Wonosobo is estimated at 1,000,000 florins.

Seismologist Predicted Shocks.

Reports from Batavia that the island of Java had been severely shaken by earthquakes and that 300 persons had been killed with many missing, recalled that Rafael Bandandi, the famous Italian seismologist, on Nov. 8, predicted earthquakes for Nov. 11, "in the extreme East, probably in the Philippines." Java is southwest of the Philippines in the Malay Archipelago.

The seismologist's prediction, which was made at his observatory at Bologna, Italy, also forecast earthquakes in the Far East between Nov. 16 and 17.

GUNMEN RAID STORE WITHIN DEADLINE

A SILK ROBBERY FAILS

The chronicle of yesterday's crime events in this city contains a hold-up of a store below the new police dead-line; a tragedy of the underworld in which six inexperienced bandits were forced to abandon $30,000 worth of silks in a downtown street because they could not get the engine of the truck to start; the robbery of the Harlem office of the New York American and the burglary of a 125th Street tailor shop with a loss of $4,700 in men's clothing.

The abandonment of the truck containing the silk at Twenty-fifth Street and Madison Avenue was discovered when Policeman John Wood found K. Hollenbad of 1,050 Poplar Street, Secaucus, N. J., blowing a police whistle at Madison Avenue and Thirtieth Street. Edward Rasmus of 538 Seventh Street, Carlstadt, N. J., was on the sidewalk recovering from a blow over the head. The two men were taken to the station house, where, after Dr. Klein of Bellevue Hospital had dressed Rasmus's lacerated scalp, Hollenbad, the head of the Paterson and New York Express Company, told the police that he had brought the silk from Paterson for delivery to a firm in this city. About 8:2[illegible] o'clock, he said, he was passing through Twenty-fifth Street when he was halted by a sedan that forced the truck to the curb. There were six men in the car. Two of them drew revolvers and, pointing them at Hollenbad and his helper, made them get off the truck and then forced them to get into the sedan. Then four of the robbers took possession of the load of silk and Hollenbad and Rasmus were driven off under guard of one man, who kept them covered with his revolver while his companion drove the car.

Stunned by Robber's Blow.

The sedan stopped in front of an apartment house in East Thirtieth Street and the two prisoners were ordered to enter the building and start climbing the stairs to the fourth floor. Rasmus grappled with the gunman. A blow on the head with the butt of a revolver ended his activity and the two men fled in the sedan, leaving Hollenbad blowing for help.

The latest invasion of the new deadline was made yesterday morning when two young men walked into the men's furnishing store of Samuel Goldman, on the northeast corner of Fifty-seventh Street and Seventh Avenue and asked to see some ties. Edwin Goldman, son of the proprietor, and Dick Jones, a negro porter, were preparing for the business of the day. As Goldman approached one of the strangers covered him with a revolver and ordered him to the back of the store. Dick was already being urged toward the basement stairs by the other robber.

When Goldman and the porter reached the basement they were trussed up with heavy twine. One man searched Goldman, while the other two went upstairs and rifled the cash register. The pair walked out into crowded Seventh Avenue and escaped, taking with them Goldman's $40 watch and $7 in cash.

Early yesterday morning while the employes were counting the night's receipts in the Harlem distribution office of The New York American and The Daily Mirror at 1,901 Lexington Avenue, three armed robbers entered the place and enforced their order "hands up" with a display of revolvers. The occupants were ordered to the back of the station and there, concealed behind piles of newspapers, one of the men searched the victims while the other one kept them covered.

Those present at the time and the amount taken from each were Soloman Landman, foreman, of 124 Convention Avenue, $250; Thomas Rice, chauffeur, 136 West Sixty-third Street, $85; Charles Goldberg, driver, Coney Island, $300; John Zevoli, a driver, 1,995 Marmion Avenue, the Bronx, $36, and John Walker of 77 West 181st Street, the Bronx, a chauffeur for The World, who was visting Landman, $10.

Burglars Get $4,700 Clothing.

When Herbert Stern of Stern Brothers went to the firm's tailor shop at 460 West 125th Street on Wednesday morning he found that sometime on the preceding night burglars had entered the store and carried off about $4,700 in suits being made for customers and ready made clothing.

On Thursday afternoon Isador Personick, a manufacturing jeweler at 25 Maiden Lane, went into a John Street restaurant for lunch. He carried a bag containing $5,000 in gold jewelry destined to various customers. He put the bag on the floor alongside his chair. After lunch he found the bag had disappeared. Mr. Personick said he remembered a dark, stout man following him and yesterday he went to police headquarters to look over the rogues gallery.

Six "two gun" robbers held up and bound two employes of the Macon Garage, 911 Macon Street, Brooklyn, early yesterday morning, and escaped with two automobiles belonging to customers. The gunmen made no attempt to steal $1,800 that was in the safe or $125 from the cash register. Apparently all they wanted was automobiles.

Edward Rudinger of 356 Sumner Street, Brooklyn, and Charles Pudich of 25 Eldert Street, Brooklyn, were on duty when the men entered. Each robber displayed two revolvers. They bound Rudinger and Pudich in a small touring car at the rear of the garage.

While one negro in the Ninety-sixth Street station of the Interborough subway engaged the attention of Edward Conrad, ticket booth agent, early yesterday morning by complaining that the turnstile would not work a confederate took $68.60 from the booth and escaped.

LEAGUE TO MAP OUT BIG PEACE PROGRAM

Council Meeting at Rome on Dec. 8 Will Take Up Long List of Important Subjects.

ARMS CONFERENCE IS FIRST

American Cooperation Is Expected in the Task of Codification of International Law.

GENEVA, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—A long official communication issued by the League of Nations tonight calls attention to the importance of the program for the thirty-second session of the council of the League, which will open on Dec. 8 in Rome under the chairmanship of Afranio Mello Franco of Brazil.

The program contains a number of questions concerning the main activities of the League—political, legal, administrative and humanitarian.

First place is given in the communiqué to reduction in armaments. It says the council will begin preparations for an international conference on this question. The council also will study a system of sanctions and economic assistance under the terms of the protocol for the pacific settlement of international disputes.

The communiqué explains that the council will lay down general lines for the League committee and will follow these in studying security plans, using for this purpose whatever data may have been gathered since the last Assembly of the League by the Secretariat, as well as official documents and suggestions transmitted by various Governments.

The Council will determine the exact composition of the new Committee on Coordination, which is to prepare for the disarmament conference. Emphasis is laid on the fact that this committee will have no power to make final decisions, but will assure coordination and cooperation among the various League bodies so that they will be able to present generally harmonious reports.

The date for the meeting of the Committee of Jurists to draft texts of the amendment to the Covenant of the League, required by the protocol, also will be fixed by the Council. It will convoke an international conference for the adoption of a convention to control international traffic in arms, and, according to the communiqué, probably will appoint an American on a special committee, which will draft a convention for control of the private manufacture of arms.

Another matter of special interest to Americans to be dealt with in Rome is a general codification of international law. It is assumed in Geneva that the United States will desire to participate in this activity of the League.

Tonight's communiqué sketches what has been accomplished by the League of Nations in the way of codification. It says the League has helped in adjustment and international regulation by bringing into existence a number of conventions on communications, transit formalities, the arbitral idea in commercial contracts, international labor legislation and the protection of minorities.

The Council of the League will appoint a committee of experts to study the general question of codification of international law. These experts will represent the chief forms of civilization and the principal legal systems of the world. They will draft lists of points on international law for regulation by international agreement.

The right of the League of Nations to conduct investigations into the armaments of Germany and the other Central Powers also will be discussed.

So heavy is the program for the Rome meetings that the greater part of the machinery of the League of Nations will go there temporarily. Efforts will be made here to conclude the sessions of the opium conference before the date for the Rome gathering, but it is doubtful if this can be done.

MORE FUNDS URGED FOR CITY HOSPITALS

Homer Folks Announces Formation of a Citizens' Committee.

Homer Folks, President of the New York City Visiting Committee of the State Charities Aid Association, said yesterday that an auxiliary committee of citizens had been appointed to bring to public and official attention the needs of city institutions and hospitals. He said that requests of city departments for funds total approximately $29,000,000, which include immediate and important projects which would cost about $14,000,000. Since 1916 funds for enlargements and replacements of city institutions have been entirely inadequate, he asserted.

"For many years it was the practice to meet the costs of new public institutions from the sale of corporate stock or the issue of bonds," he said. "In 1916, by act of the State Legislature, a pay-as-you-go policy was enforced upon New York City under which buildings could be constructed only from current revenues. The pressure, however, of annually recurring needs has been so great that, in practice, the pay-as-you-go policy has meant no new construction, not even to keep pace with the growth in population. In actual practice, 'pay as you go' has meant you don't go! The need of relief has grown more urgent each year since 1916.

"From time to time exceptions have been made by the Legislature to the pay-as-you-go policy, permitting schoolhouses and buildings for various other specified purposes to be erected from the proceeds of the sale of corporate stock. In 1923 the erection of additional wings, buildings and dormitories to city-owned hospitals already erected was authorized from the sale of corporate stock.

"The only corporate stock which has been thus far authorized under the amendment of 1923 is the sum of $4,246,666 for the building of pavilions F and G and an addition to the Nurses' Home at Bellevue Hospital. These pavilions will provide for general hospital wards and a central kitchen for the whole institution."

These requests for funds have been made: By the Commissioner of Public Welfare, $15,888,370; Board of Trustees of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals, $8,800,000; Commissioner of Health, approximately, $6,195,800.

STRESEMANN SHIFTS HIS GROUND AGAIN

Second Speech at Dortmund Raises Doubts as to Where Foreign Minister Really Stands.

TAKES NATIONALISTIC TURN

Meanwhile Westarp Comes Out Strongly Against Germany's Entry Into the League.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—Grand Admiral von Tirpitz in the old days of imperial Germany considered Chancellor Prince von Bülow so slippery that he once remarked: "Compared to Bülow, an eel is a porcupine." There are those in Germany today who feel the same way about Foreign Minister Stresemann. Last August he returned from London apparently devoted heart and soul to carrying out the Dawes plan in complete harmony with Chancellor Marx. Then, however, he began flirting with the Nationalists until it was difficult for observers of his acrobatic antics to make head or tail of where he stood exactly on the Dawes plan or anything else.

Last night he made a long keynote speech at Dortmund in preparation for next month's Reichstag election. As a statement of the governmental attitude on important pending questions, notably those affecting German relations with foreign countries, this speech might have been made by Marks himself. But today, just as people had begun to believe that Stresemann had decided to give up his wild flights and definitely light somewhere to stay, he suddenly made another speech also at Dortmund distinctly implying that he still hankered after the Nationalists despite the fact that their attitude on the Dawes plan and Germany's entry into the League of Nations—to mention only two or big pending questions—was, to put it mildly, hardly reconcilable with the official governmental attitude.

Stresemann in his second speech declared himself against the Leftward extension of the Government, that is, toward the Socialists. He strongly [illegible] again his approval of the Rightward extension, that is, toward the Nationalists. Beyond that it was difficult to see just what he was driving at, since in genuine Stresemann fashion he poured out a torrent of words which, taken together, might mean anything or nothing.

A significant fact to be noted is that the comment of the Nationalistic organs on Stresemann's first Dortmund speech was uniformly unfavorable. That may have scored the Pro-Nationalist which is always lurking within him into making his second speech, such as to allay Nationalistic disapproval. Anyhow, that second speech of his produces in the average person reading it the same sort of feeling as an anagram or riddle or acrostic. One wonders whether to read it again in the hope of finding a solution or just drop it as unguessable.

Incidentally, if Stresemann still dreams of Nationalistic cooperation with the present Government, it is difficult to see how he can reconcile certain recent Nationalist statements with a belief in the possibility of such cooperation. For instance, in a speech today, which may be considered the Nationalist opening gun in the Reichstag electoral campaign, Count Westarp, prominent Nationalist leader, came out strongly against Germany's entry into the League of Nations, which Stresemann advocated in his Dortmund speech.

"As long as France keeps colored troops on German soil it would be an unworthy act for Germany to sit at the same table with the French in the League of Nations," thundered Westarp.

He also declared that the Nationalist Party was united in condemnation of the Dawes plan and the London compact—which again might make any one unendowed with Stresemann's mental elasticity wonder just how persons holding such views could cooperate satisfactorily with Chancellor Marx and Stresemann himself—or at least with that manifestation of Stresemann, the lightning change artist, wherein he appears as ardent champion of the Dawes plan and the London compact.

Maybe Stresemann does not take the talk of the Nationalist united front seriously. Maybe he remembers only too well that at last August's decisive vote in the Reichstag on acceptance of laws for carrying out the Dawes plan, the Nationalist Reichstag delegation was split almost exactly in half, 52 voting against acceptance and 48 for it. Be that as it may, Stresemann's second Dortmund speech shows him to be the same old prestidigitater.

POLICE AUTO KILLS A BOY.

Leach in Car That Runs Down Lad Near Brooklyn Home.

Details of an accident in which an 8-year-old boy was run over and fatally injured last Thursday evening by an automobile in which John A. Leach, First Deputy Police Commissioner, was seated, became known late yesterday. The victim of the accident was Stephen Oresyezyn of 872 Lorimer Street, Brooklyn. The car was operated by Policeman Cordes. The accident happened in front of 868 Lorimer Street, two doors from the boy's home. Cordes was driving the Commissioner to his home in Long Island City.

The boy was hurried in the automobile to the Greenpoint Hospital, where he died soon after his arrival. Policeman Cordes reported that he noticed several children playing on the sidewalk in front of 868 Lorimer Street, but that he did not know that the boy had been struck until he felt the impact under the car. He stopped the automobile, he said, and found the boy unconscious. The report of the accident was not made public in Police Headquarters on Thursday night.

MRS. HARDING AT CRISIS.

Physician Expresses Grave Concern for Former President's Widow.

MARION, Ohio, Saturday, Nov. 15 (Associated Press).—Mrs. Florence Kling Harding, seriously ill at White Oaks Farm here, is "approaching a crisis," a bulletin issued at 1:45 A. M. stated.

"We are anxiously awaiting the coming of morning," Carl W. Sawyer, her physician, said.

Reviving a little from a depressing condition earlier in the evening, the former President's widow rested but little during the night. Her physician expressed "grave" cornern, but said she might rally with the coming of morning.

Dr. Sawyer said that Mrs. Harding suffered two slight "air hunger spells" yesterday similar to one the night before when she breathed only with extreme difficulty. The bulletin said: "Mrs. Harding had a very miserable day and is miserable tonight. She has failed considerably during the last twenty-four hours."

More Wireless Wonders Soon Predicted by Godfrey Isaacs

LONDON, Nov. 14.—"I feel as if I were trembling on the verge of a collapse," said Godfrey Isaacs today as he bade farewell to the staff at Marconi House. "For some years, I suppose, I have put in a business an average of fourteen hours per day, and that is too much. I just want to go away and find rest and sunshine."

Mr. Isaacs expressed the belief that the development of wireless was only beginning and that the end would never be reached as long as Guglielmo Marconi was alive.

"Three years ago I was thought unduly optimistic because I said we should soon be speaking to America," he continued. "Today Australia has been heard. The future holds still greater wonders."

RYKOFF SEES ERROR IN WAR ON TRADE

NO GRAIN EXPORTS THIS YEAR

Government Lacks Funds for Railway Construction, He Says, and No Foreign Loans Are Forthcoming.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—A warning against the policy of hampering private trade before State and cooperative societies are able to satisfy the needs of the population through their own organizations was given today by Premier Rykoff in an address to the Sixth Federal Trade Union Congress. Speaking on the realities of the Soviet economic situation and its prospects, the Premier said:

"In declaring war on private trade we bent the stick too fast and too far. Provincial reports show that in many places the needs of the population have been entirely neglected after the closing of private shops. This shows that it is easy to beat private trade politically but not economically."

He said this policy involved a Government outlay of 25,000,000 rubles, which it had taken from industry, thus depriving the latter of the ability to expand. He considered it bad policy to refuse to supply goods for cash to private traders.

Rykoff asserted that Russia's national economy entirely depended on the peasantry, who are the chief producers and consumers, and he urged greater attention to peasant needs.

Speaking of the state of agriculture, he said that despite failing crops in certain districts agriculture as a whole had made wonderful progress during the last two years. The area sown was now 88 per cent. in comparison with 1916, and higher agricultural production had been introduced in various regions. Cotton growing had increased from 150,000 to 1,200,000 acres. Live stock also had increased, with the exception of horses, which were very scarce.

This year's harvest, which is only 10 per cent. lower than the last, would not affect the people's supply, he said, and the buying power of the peasantry had resulted in a scarcity of goods which the present state of industry was unable to supply.

"The Government will therefore have to use its gold fund and reserves of foreign currency to buy commodities abroad in order to satisfy the population's need," he said.

The Government, on the other hand, he continued, was obliged to struggle against the peasantry's raising the price of bread by withholding grain from the market and paying the tax levy at the expense of their live stock.

The high price of bread, according to Rykoff, threatens to break up the success of financial reform. It meant higher workmen's wages and jeopardizing the budget. This the Government was combating by setting a maximum price.

The Premier said the Government had definitely decided to abandon for this year the export of grain. It was going to increase the export of oil, manganese and timber, which he hoped would make up for the loss of $100,000 000 obtained last year from grain export.

The total amount of exports was expected to yield $400,000,000, which is the same amount as obtained last year.

Referring to the state of industry, Rykoff said production of oil was gradually increasing and had been brought to 65 per cent. of the pre-war standard, while this year's export had reached 80 per cent. of the pre-war level.

The production of coal had grown so high that the Government was unable to find a market, and 1,000,000 tons had deteriorated. It was therefore proposed to reduce production.

The metal industry, despite its being the most important to the national economy, was in the worst state. Production of pig iron was only 12 per cent. and steel 20 per cent.

"With all the Government's efforts we will only be able to increase the output during next year to 20 and 30 per cent. respectively," he added, "but the Government is unable to embark on big schemes of construction of railways, as it lacks money and foreign loans are not forthcoming."

He specially emphasized the success of this year's budget, which he said was the first real budget since the Soviet took power. He admitted, however, that while it was balanced without resorting to the printing press, the Government had to omit most urgent expenditures for education, health and other national needs. He repudiated the assertion that taxes had increased under the Soviet rule.

"Taxation is now lower than in pre-war time and this year lower than last," he declared.

In conclusion the Premier urged the necessity of realizing that unless efforts were made to raise the standard of living of the population year by year, dictatorship of the proletariat would not be able to consolidate and retain hegemony over the peasantry.

CHICAGO TO HEAR COOLIDGE.

President Will Make Two Speeches on Visit to the Live Stock Show.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Under a revised plan President Coolidge expects to deliver two addresses during his visit to Chicago early in December to attend the National Livestock Exposition.

He plans to attend a luncheon at the Commercial Club at noon on Dec. 4 and deliver an informal address, and in the evening he plans to speak at the live stock show.

The Presidential party will leave Washington on the afternoon of Dec. 3, expecting to remain in Chicago next day. No speeches will be made by the President either going or coming from Chicago, it was said today at the White House.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Exhibits from the Canadian ranch of the Prince of Wales will be seen at the International Livestock Exposition, it became known today when nominations from the Prince's ranch were received. It is expected that more than a dozen animals will compose the exhibit. The show opens Nov. 29.

STOCKS SLACKEN THEIR HIGH SPEED

538 ISSUES TRADED IN

RAILS RENEW ADVANCE

Industrials as a Group Also Gain, but Average of the Whole Shows Small Drop.

The stock market yesterday witnessed its ninth day of tremendous trading since the election. A total of 1,838,930 shares was traded in on the New York Stock Exchange, and there and on the Curb business proceeded under the same high pressure. A total of 538 issues was dealt in on the Stock Exchange and fifty-one new high records were established in the wide list of representative stocks.

The cross-channels of irregularity were more pronounced than on any day since the present feverish speculation started. The stock market closed the day with an advance of more than one-half point for the average of stocks, with both the railroad and industrial issues showing gains, the former of .52 and the latter .63. The average as a whole came within two cents of equaling the high record for the year, established on the previous day.

The railroad issues were re-established as market leaders. Although extremely active for three or four days, they had been under the influence of heavy profit taking, following the long upturn. Yesterday, under the leadership of New York Central, which sold at 117⅛, a new high record for the year, the railroad shares revived, and many of them showed good gains at the close of the day.

Other Markets Irregular.

In other market directions, too, there was irregularity. Wheat declined more than two cents; corn, too, was under pressure, as was rye. Cotton advanced sharply, about $2.50 a bale, on announcement that cotton consumption for October had aggregated 532,629 bales, as compared with 435,216 in September, and 541,825 for the same month last year. Another feature of this report which attracted a great deal of attention in the financial district was that exports for October were 947,556 bales, the greatest in the history of the country for any single month. Most of the gain, however, was lost before the close of the market.

The same story was to be told of the foreign exchanges. Sterling at $4.64 reached a higher price than at any time since May, 1923, but subsequently lost this gain and closed but fractionally up for the day. Guilders reached a new top of 40.12 cents, and were strong and active during the entire trading day.

The foreign trade statement for October, issued yesterday, confirmed the already known fact that there had been a sharp increase in foreign trade of all sorts. The balance favorable to the United States was $217,000,000 for the month, as compared with $142,000,000 in September and $92,058,000 for the corresponding month of last year. Exports totaling $527,000,000 were the largest since January of 1921 and the favorable trade balance was the largest since February of that year.

Wall Street also received other favorable news. The gain in the Federal Reserve Bank ratio of reserves, in view of the great expansion in the markets, attracted a great deal of attention. The average of eight leading iron and steel products showed the first advance in price in several months, caused most likely by the increased price of pig iron. The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad Company announced an order for 50,000 tons of rails.

Dividend News.

The Sims Petroleum Company inaugurated dividends at the rate of 50 cents, and dividends of the Laclede Gas Company of St. Louis were increased from $1.75 to $2 quarterly. All of these "straws" were seized upon by Wall Street as confirmation of the market's expression that industry on the whole is on the upgrade and that distinct improvement is to be noted in a widely separated number of lines.

The manner in which outsiders, that is, those who are not engaged professionally in the market, are taking stocks is shown in the sharp increase in shipments of securities out of the financial district. Some are going by mail and a few by air, but the majority of the securities are being shipped by express to a central distributing point, from which they are delivered to the customers. Practically all of this stock represents orders which have come to the floor of the Exchange through the "wire houses," who reach all sections of the country.

The men and women who man the Wall Street machinery, while working overtime under a very heavy strain, are looking forward to the time when they will benefit financially from the boom in stocks. It is the policy of most of the big Exchange houses to base their bonus for the year, if one is given, upon the annual profits. The sharp increase in volume of business done by all houses has led many to believe that the Christmas bonuses this year will be larger than last year.

HUNTING BAN LIFTED AS DEER SEASON ENDS

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 14.—The ban on hunting and camping in the Adirondack and Catskill fire towns was revoked today by a proclamation signed by Lieut. Gov. George R. Lunn. In most of the territory affected the deer season comes to an end tomorrow.

A general rain last night drenched the forest floors of the territories where forest fires have been prevalent. Action was immediately taken to give hunters of the State the benefit of one day of sport before the end of the season.

The woods of the State were closed to hunting and camping on Oct. 31 by Governor Smith. This action was taken upon the recommendation of the Conservation Commission as a result of the extreme fire hazard. A long drought and the falling leaves had left the forest floor dry as tinder and fires broke out in many places.

The deer season opened Oct. 15 in the Adirondacks, Nov. 1 in the Catskills and Nov. 7 in the towns of White Creek, Salem and Jackson, in Washington County. The season ends tomorrow in all sections, except in the three towns of Washington County, where hunting may continue until Nov. 19.

GIRL SCOUT DRIVE GETS A GOOD START

The initial luncheon of the drive for funds for the Girl Scout building and budget fund was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. Harold I. Pratt, 58 East Sixty-eighth Street, when announcement was made of contributions amounting to $42,375. John D. Rockefeller Jr. headed the list with $25,000. Another $25,000 has been pledged by Mr. Rockefeller to be contributed when the quota of $476,028 has been reached, bringing the amount to $501,028, the quota for Manhattan.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Rosenwald of Chicago, gave $11,000; Mrs. T. J. Preston Jr., formerly Mrs. Grover Cleveland, who is one of the honorary Vice Presidents of the National Council of Girl Scouts, gave $100, and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, also an honorary Vice President of the National Council, gave $25. Contributions of $1,000 were made by John T. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Choate and Mrs. William Hoffman of Barrington, R. I.; Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rothschild contributed $1,200; Mrs. M. E. Olmsted of Harrisburg, Pa., $500; Miss E. Gwen Martin of Philadelphia, $300, and Mrs. A. Clifford Shinkle of Cincinnati, $500.

Bishop Manning was the principal speaker at the luncheon. He said that the country could not be higher nor lower than its womanhood, and that the ideals taught through the Girl Scout movement would be the ideals of the country later on.

"It is a work of noble proportions," said Bishop Manning, "embracing as it does the care of the health, through the outdoor life, and also giving attention to home life and religion. We must realize that religion is closely connected with the life of the country. It should be and this organization is doing much to promote spiritual well-being."

A wheelbarrow full of bricks, which will be sold at $10 each to swell the fund, had been brought to the Pratt home yesterday morning. After the luncheon, however, there was no one to return the bricks that remained to the headquarters of the organization, 670 Lexington Avenue. Finally three members of Mrs. John Kermit Roosevelt's team volunteered to wheel them back —about three-quarters of a mile. They were Mrs. John Pinckney White, Miss Natalie Davis and Miss Jane Carruthers. They attracted considerable attention as they went down Park Avenue, bedecked with posters.

The next luncheon will be held on Monday at the Hotel Roosevelt. Lady Armstrong will be the hostess and Bishop Dunn will be the principal speaker. Reports on the progress of the campaign will be made every day at the luncheons. More than 2,000 towns are aiding in the campaign. The names of these towns will be recorded on a tablet in the building.

Among those who attended the luncheon yesterday were Mrs. William A. Read, head of the activities in Manhattan; Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, Mrs. Arthur O. Choate, Mrs. John K. Roosevelt, Mrs. Charles L. Riker, Mrs. Richard C. Morris, Miss Raymonde Almirall, Miss Katherine Knapp, Mrs. George Tilden Jr., Miss Margaret Schroeder, Mrs. B. Tappen Fairchild, Mrs. Thomas K. Schmuck, Miss Cornelia Livingston, Miss Harriet Camac, Mrs. J. R. Steers, Mrs. R. Barton Read, Mrs. Douglas Gibbon, Miss Constance Cutler, Miss Betty Rice, Miss Frances Mackenzie, Mrs. David M. Barrows, Miss E. Margaret Steers, Miss Adele Hammond, Mrs. John Franklin, Miss Harriet Price, Miss Julia Quaintance, Mrs. Homer L. Loomis, Mrs. Max Henry Hoeplu, Mrs. Martha Lambert and Mrs. Henry Spaulding Schley.

'MARRIAGE OF FIGARO' IN CARNEGIE HALL

A comedy with a bedroom discreetly off-stage, many panel doors, a painted screen and such like paraphernalia of polite flirtation, all curtained lavishly in metal-lustre silks of up-to-date Broadway, entertained a laughing audience in Carnegie Hall last night as audiences are rarely entertained in classic concert rooms. "Les Folles d'un Jour" of Beaumarchais, the aristocratic "Follies" of a day as old as America's War of Independence, but musically immortalized in Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," was presented by William Wade Hinshaw's company as the latest of a half dozen sequels to the little Mozart operas given some years ago by Metropolitan stars who established the Society of American Singers.

In the laughter, applause and flowers of last night's house lay a demonstration of the delight of "opera in English," when rehearsed and rejuvenated to eye and ear by accomplished artists. Done with spoken dialogue—as "Figaro" was in Paris even at the time of the French Revolution, the play was appreciated and the arias and light ensembles also were often clearly heard in words as well as melody. The text, like Krehbiel's version of "The Impresario" among its predecessors, was done over by H. O. Osgood from the Italian libretto of that hale Columbian, Lorenzo da Ponte, who lies buried in New York.

If Pavel Ludikar exaggerated the accent of Figaro, he acted the famous Seville barber with a fine swagger. Editha Fleischer, late of the Wagnerians, achieved English as neat as the maid Susanna's nimble ankles. Clytie Hine and Alfredo Valenti, the former Alfred Kaufman of the Century Opera, were a distinguished Countess Rosina and Count Almaviva, while a Covent Garden Cherubino, Miss Celia Turrell, put the dancing finish to many a duo and terzet. She also "doubled" as the old Marceline, as did Ralph Brainerd for the Basilio and a Justice of the Peace, and Herman Gelhausen for both a gardener and old Bartolo.

Ernst Knoch, hero of Monday's English "Rhinegold" by another troupe, led Mr. Hinshaw's specially engaged orchestra of twenty-five Philharmonic men. A large audience and one fashionably late in arriving delayed the start, but remained keenly interested till the end, near midnight. The opera was brilliantly costumed from quaint design by Ethel Fox, a daughter of the late James Fox of the Metropolitan.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The fifth annual Equity Ball will be held at the Hotel Astor tonight.

Today's matinee performance of "Peter Pan" has been bought outright by the Federation for Child Study.

A sweeping cut in prices is announced for the last two weeks of the engagement of Mme. Simone at the Henry Miller Theatre.

The first public meeting of the Actors' Theatre (Equity Players) will be held at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre next Sunday evening. Allen McCurdy will preside and among the speakers will be Chrystal Herne, Cosmo Hamilton, Ernest Boyd and Hendrik Van Loon on the general subject "The Theatre Present and Future."

OPERA

By OLIN DOWNES.

Chaliapin in "Mefistofele."

Margherita	Frances Alda
Elena	Frances Peralta
Pantalis	Mary Bonetti
Marta	Kathleen Howard
Mefistofele	Feodor Chaliapin
Faust	Beniamino Gigli
Wagner	Angelo Bada
Nereo	Giordano Paltrinieri

Conductor, Tullio Serafin.

The performance of Boito's "Mefistofele" last night by the Metropolitan Opera Company was doubtless dictated principally by the repertory of Mr. Chaliapin. Perhaps it was also a rejoinder to the pleas that have been made in Italy for the production of the same composer's "Nerone." To produce "Mefistofele" is probably more just to Boito's memory. The best pages of this opera hold the attention of the modern generation. That it is the work of a dilettante need not be denied. It is even questionable whether Boito was responsible for the orchestration. He had intimate friends among the great musicians and critics of his day. They understood him; they wished to see his musical ideas done justice before the public. In its final form "Mefistofele" underwent thorough examination from more than one source. But it is the creation of a thinker and a poet who understood Goethe; of a young man afire with ideas of his period and a man who could, and on occasion did, write living music.

The composer of the quartet of the garden scene and the rapturous outburst of Margherita; of the truly pathetic air of Margherita in the prison; of the meeting of Faust and Helen of Troy, and Faust's solo of the last act, is not to be dismissed lightly. Sometimes Boito's procedure is daringly modern, as in the suggestive enharmonic modulations which accompany the transition from the scene at Frankfort-on-the-Main to Faust's studio. Sometimes it is in the inevitable Italian manner. Yet Margherita's prison song has a simplicity and an emotional intensity worthy of any great Italian composer.

In the quartet of the garden scene Boito writes ironically, with his tongue in his cheek. He shows us a Margherita who, in accordance with certain phases of Goethe's Gretchen, is by no means devoid of earthly appetites and excitements. In this he is faithful to the original. It may also be said that none but an Italian composer, and a composer who comprehended Goethe, could have achieved the lonely classicism of the second "Wolfurgisnacht." These things, irrespective of the presence of distinguished singers in the cast, give "Mefistofele" its right to the attention of the public.

The Metropolitan mounts this opera very sumptuously. The performance last night was effective, and far better sung than that of the evening previous. Neither Mr. Chaliapin nor any one else could make the audience take the witches, Sabbat seriously nor were the bats, the will o' the wisps, the turning down and turning up of lights and other concomitants of a scene that suggested a musical comedy more than sinister revels, things to stir the blood. But the singing of the chorus, and the tremendous figure of Mefistofele in the prologue were impressive. Again, the person of the "gray clad friar" and the scene with Faust in the study are well suited to Chaliapin's powers.

Mr. Gigli sang Faust's music with his wonted beauty of tone, when he did not attempt effects of too robust an order. Mme. Alda sang the great air of the prison scene with true pathos and with vocal breadth and authority. Mr. Bada's Wagner, though not the figure of a starving and devoted student, was nevertheless appropriate, and Miss Howard's Marta was harmless. Mr. Serafin conducted with the rare sense of tonal balance between orchestra and stage which has repeatedly been shown to be his, and there was a well coordinated ensemble.

"Fedora" Sung at Matinee.

A brilliant performance of Giordano's "Fedora" was given yesterday afternoon in the Metropolitan Opera House under the auspices of the Social Service Auxiliary to the Metropolitan Hospital, Inc. The principals were Maria Jeritza as Fedora, Giovanni Martinelli as Count Loris and Antonio Scotti as de Siriex. Mr. Papi conducted. The performance was very well coordinated, Mme. Jeritza was in excellent voice and Mr. Martinelli has seldom been heard to better advantage. The opera moved swiftly and in a manner that was dramatic. The chorus was one of the best features of the occasion. After the second act there were repeated recalls for the principals, the orchestra joining in the applause.

BEGIN BRAHMS CYCLE.

Elshuco Trio and Festival Quartet Play in Aeolian Hall.

The first of a series of eight concerts which will present the twenty-four chamber compositions of Johannes Brahms was given by the Elshuco Trio in conjunction with members of the Festival Quartet of South Mountain last night in Aeolian Hall. The performers were William Kroll and Karl Kraeuter, violinists; Hugo Kortschak, viola; Willem Willeke, 'cello, and Aurelio Giorni, piano. The compositions were the piano quartet in C minor, op. 60; the String Quartet in B flat major, op. 67; the piano trio in C major, op. 87.

In the performance of the C minor quartet it was Mr. Kraeuter and not Mr. Kortschak who played the viola, Mr. Kortschak taking that instrument later in the evening. Whatever his instrument, whatever the composition or the allotments of parts, the performers gave more than ordinary pleasure because of their zest and intelligence and the quality of the music. Whether it is wise to give unadulterated programs, to the number of eight, of Brahms's chamber compositions is a question to be decided by the experiment itself, which is projected probably for the first time in this country.

Nearly all the works of Brahms in this form hold a firm place in the affections of music-lovers, because of their characteristic harmonic style, their clearness of structure and richness of content, and their frequently romantic spirit. The audience last night was of good size, including many musicians. The series had an auspicious beginning.

Mme. Ettore Cadorin Sings.

Had it not been for a very bad cold, Mme. Ettore Cadorin's recital at Aeolian Hall yesterday afternoon would have been a great pleasure to listen to, for through the fog and breaks caused by the prevailing ailment could be discerned a contralto of fine color in the lower register, and, when used softly, agreeable in all its range.

Mme. Cadorin's voice is yet to be discovered; but of her intelligent treatment of the old Italian songs and German Lieder there could be no question. One would like to hear her sing the Brahms and Schubert again; they were on the right level and promised a treat in store for a larger audience than attended yesterday afternoon.

Mme. Cadorin very pluckily made the best of a misfortune and earned the sympathetic attention of her audience. She was assisted at the piano by Nicolai Schneer.

'The Money Lender' at Gaiety Dec. 1

"The Money Lender," by Roy Horniman, will be produced at the Gaiety Theatre on Dec. 1 by Sam H. Harris. Among those in the cast will be James Dale, Helenka Adamowska, Winifred Hanley, Irene Evans, Edward Lawrence, Arnold Lucy, George Thorpe and Harry Plimmer. "Rain," now at the Gaiety, will set out upon a country-wide tour.

MUSIC NOTES.

Sousa's Band comes by special train from Cleveland tonight, due to make the 700 miles in thirteen hours, or an hour and a half less than the regular fliers, and is to arrive over the Pennsylvania lines at 1 P. M. tomorrow at Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, for the first of its New York concerts.

Feodor Chaliapin has been engaged to sing at the first of a series of musicales at the Hotel Ritz-Carlton, for which the opening date is changed on his account to Wednesday, Nov. 26. On the same program is Anna Fitziu.

LEO FALL DENIES HE CRITICISED HAMPTON

He Writes Actress That She Had All the Qualifications for Mme. Pompadour Role.

Hope Hampton, the actress, who was replaced in the title rôle of "Madame Pompadour" by Wilda Bennett a few days before the New York opening, yesterday made public a letter addressed to her by Leo Fall, the noted Viennese composer of the score of the piece. In it Mr. Fall makes reference to and denies printed reports that one of the reasons for Miss Hampton's departure from the cast was criticism by him of her efforts.

Mr. Fall's letter was yesterday submitted to the advertising departments of a number of New York dailies by Jules Brulatour, husband of Miss Hampton, with a request that it be printed in the form of paid advertising.

The letter follows:

"It has come to my knowledge that it has been claimed by C. B. Dillingham or Martin Beck, or both, that I adversely criticized your performance in 'Madame Pompadour' and stated in words or substance that you were incapable of singing and acting, either or both, the leading rôle.

"I beg to assure you that never in any way did I do so. Quite the contrary is the fact. After observing you in rehearsal I stated that you would make a most satisfactory Madame Pompadour and probably as good as any who performed the part and much better than some who were playing it satisfactorily, but it was necessary to rehearse you in the part somewhat differently than the rehearsals were then proceeding. I desired to make suggestions in that regard, and, to my great astonishment, they were rejected in their entirety.

"I saw and heard a part of your performance in Philadelphia. I then reiterated what I had said, that you had all the qualifications necessary for the making of a splendid Madame Pompadour, but that you had not been properly rehearsed. My criticisms were not at all directed to you, but on the contrary were directed to the book, the lyrics, the way the music was being played, some of the acting and the business of the performance.

"I regret very much that you should have been misinformed and trust that if it occasioned you any discomfort you are now entirely relieved."

PLEA FOR PRIVATE MERCHANT MARINE

BLAMES SHIPPING BOARD

Suggests a New Body Directly Responsible to a Cabinet Officer and to the President.

A plea for the establishment of a permanent merchant marine in foreign trade under private ownership and a warning that the present service will entirely disappear if the United States Government undertakes to own and operate ships was made last night by Ira A. Campbell, admiralty lawyer, at the dinner of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, following the completion of the society's second and last day's session in the afternoon at the Engineering Societies' Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street.

Captain W. M. McFarland, President of the organization, presided at the dinner, and other speakers included Rear Admiral D. W. Taylor, U. S. N., retired, the President-elect; Major Gen. William Weigel, U. S. N.; James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, and Professor James T. Shotwell of Columbia University. Curtis D. Wilbur, Secretary of the Navy, who was to have spoken, sent word that it was impossible for him to get away from Washington.

"Until the politicians, and by that I mean those who think in terms of politics and not of business, awaken to the fact that American shipping cannot be successfully sovietized and realize that if there is to be permanency in its maintenance of growth, it must come through the individual initiative of the American business man and not through Government ownership and operation, we are doomed to failure on the seas in foreign trade," said Mr. Campbell.

Government Ownership.

"There is the strongest evidence that there has been, and, unless the event of the past week has killed it, there continues to be a concerted effort to involve the Government in permanent ownership and operation.

"No progress can be made toward inducing the American business man to put his money into ships in foreign trade unless and until this menace of Government ownership is ended. But how can this attempt to involve the Government permanently in the shipping business be stopped? By a full disclosure of the financial results of Government operation.

"By disclosure I do not mean the kind of reports heretofore emanating from those in authority. But I do mean such public accounting as will actually and fully disclose the true results of the operations. You will never, however, see such a disclosure voluntarily made by the Shipping Board.

Wants Shipping Board Changes.

"I am one of those who have come to believe that the present structure of the board must be changed. I do not believe, however, that the board can be entirely eliminated now, but I am convinced that material progress in the working out of this problem is not going to be made until there is created a board of not exceeding three men, directly responsible to a member of the Cabinet, preferably the Secretary of Commerce, and through him to the President. They should sit as a board of directors to one operating head, who should have full freedom of action.

DRY GOODS HAS FAIR WEEK.

Business as Good as Last Week, but Below Last Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods was somewhat in excess of last week's volume but did not quite reach that of a year ago for the same period.

"Road sales showed some improvement over last week but did not equal the total reported for the corresponding period last year.

"There were more customers in the market than during the same week in 1923.

LIVERPOOL'S COTTON WEEK.

British Stocks Show an Increase for the Week.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 14.—Weekly cotton statistics: British stocks, 394,000 bales, against 370,000 last week, 383,000 two weeks ago and 393,000 this week last year, of which American 251,000 bales, against 216,000 last week, 200,000 two weeks ago and 175,000 a year ago. Imports, 97,000 bales, against 66,000 last week, of which American 82,000, against 47,000.

Forwarded 55,000 bales, against 63,000, of which American 39,000, against 44,000. Exports, 5,000, against 4,000, of which American 3,000 against 2,000. Sales, 33,000, against 32,000, of which American 19,000 against 21,000.

Sterling Highest Since May, 1923.

Copyright, 1924, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—Not since May, 1923, has the American exchange been so favorable to Great Britain as it was today when the rate touched $4.64 to a pound. Thus a dollar is worth less in English money now than for more than a year. As a matter of fact, the rate is as high as it has been since the war drop in British money values and the tendency seems to be toward a continued rise until the pound reaches parity.

Higher Coal Rates Suspended.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Proposed new schedules increasing the freight rates on bituminous coal from Evansville, Ind., and related points to points on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway were ordered suspended today by the Interstate Commerce Commission from Nov. 20 until March 20, 1925. The commission will investigate the reasonableness of the proposed new rates.

W. W. Craig Gets New Post.

William W. Craig, for several years financial editor of The New York Herald and previously in charge of financial news for THE NEW YORK TIMES, will become editor of The Wall Street News on Dec. 15, according to an announcement yesterday by Melvin J. Woodworth, President of the New York News Bureau Association. The paper is devoted entirely to the publication of financial news.

Empire Steel Mill to Resume.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Quebec, Nov. 14.—Operation of the Blooming Mill at the British Empire Steel Corporation's plant at Sydney will be resumed Nov. 17. It will be engaged for two weeks in replacing wire and nail stocks at the plant.

Pennsylvania Honors Conductor.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced last night that the signal tower three miles south of Wilmington, Del., has been named "Ragan" in honor of Lewis W. Ragan, the oldest passenger conductor in point of service on the division. Mr. Ragan has been a conductor for forty-three years.

Buys Kentucky Utilities Plant.

The International Utilities Corporation, with offices at 120 Broadway, announced yesterday its acquisition of a controlling interest in the Kentucky Utilities Corporation. The latter controls the public utilities of Lexington, Ky.

EXPECT FEW LIBERAL LAWS.

Labor Lobbyists Say G. O. P. Victories Doom Industrial Legislation.

The Republican victories in the election are expected to have an unfavorable effect upon legislation sought by labor unions, welfare organizations and radical groups, according to a committee report made yesterday to the National Industrial Council, holding its semi-annual meeting at the Hotel Astor.

The report read in part as follows:

"Republican victories in the various State contests for legislative seats are expected to exert an unfavorable influence on the class legislation programs of the labor unions, welfare organizations and radical groups. The belief prevails that conservatism will be the predominant keynote of the sessions in many of the principal industrial States.

"It is a fairly safe prediction to make, however, that organized labor's syndicated program for State legislation next year, the detailed formulation of which was deferred by the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. pending the election results, will be of the same sweeping character as it was in 1923, with a particularly strong drive for passage of anti-injunction measures and ratification of the Twentieth Amendment."

M. J. Hickey, assistant secretary of the Industrial Council, who prepared the report, said that he expected there would be 50 per cent. fewer bills aimed against business and industry in 1925 than last year in the various State legislatures throughout the country.

"The principal contests in the field of industrial legislation," said Mr. Hickey, "will be first, on the ratification or rejection of the Twentieth Amendment (Child Labor law); second, attempts to enact monopolistic State insurance funds or workingmen's compensation; third, limitation of hours for labor for women in industry; fourth, State tax legislation; fifth, efforts of labor unions to secure further immunity from State laws."

WOOL CONTINUES TO RISE.

Speculative Buying Increases Even at the High Prices.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"Wool values continue to rise the world over. The consumers are now beginning to feel the pinch of short stocks, which is resulting in speculative buying with increasing fervor, even at the high prices now ruling.

"Manufacturers who have not anticipated the election results have been the chief buyers in the last week. They evidently are getting more encouragement on the goods end of the market, reports from New York indicating a scramble on overcoatings.

"America is buying steadily in Australia and is commencing to operate in Argentina. Bradford is strong, with demand centring on 50s and below.

"Mohair is very firm at recent quotations.

"The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1924, to Nov. 13, 1924, inclusive, were 148,343,000 pounds against 128,904,300 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from Jan. 1, 1924, to Nov. 13, 1924, inclusive, were 278,087,800 pounds, against 393,168,100 pounds for the same period last year.

C. & N. W. Plans Refunding Issues.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The Chicago and Northwestern Railway today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to procure the authentication and delivery of $1,904,000 of 5 per cent. first and refunding gold bonds, with which to refund the first mortgage bonds of the Minnesota-Iowa Railway Company which matured June 1, 1924. The road also asked authority to issue $1,656,000 of 5 per cent. general mortgage gold bonds with which to reimburse its treasury for funds expended to retire certain existing bonds.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—3¼@3½% for the best names.
Thursday—3¼@3½% for the best names.
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Better to Sell Them Finished.

It is more advantageous to the retailer to sell finished knitted undergarments to women than to sell the materials for home sewing, according to the results of an investigation made public yesterday by the Associated Knit Underwear Manufacturers of America. The research was conducted by W. L. Siewers, President of the Maline Mills, who says in his report that besides the fact that the knit suit shows as much or more profit, only one sales effort is required for finished garments contrasted with four or five for the materials. "The purchaser," he adds, "not only gets a suit that will absorb a greater quantity of moisture, be more comfortable and last at least as long, but she gets it at a considerable saving." From Mr. Siewers's comparative figures it is shown that only on special sales prices does the profit on finished knit garments become smaller and, considering the overhead required on the many transactions in selling the materials, it is held apparent that the sale of the former is more advantageous.

Opening of Salt's Spring Lines.

Formal opening of the Spring lines of the Salt's Textile Company, Inc., will be held on Dec. 4 and 5 for garment manufacturers and on Dec. 8 and 9 for retailers and other piece goods buyers, it was announced yesterday. Many novelty effects in raised-faced fabrics, both in pattern and color, will feature the new collection. No statement with reference to the prices that will prevail on the merchandise was made, but R. W. France, President of the company, said "the lines will represent the best in workmanship and quality materials."

Garment Stocks Not Excessive.

With the middle of November reached, most selling agents of the dress goods mills see little chance of making up the business "lost" because of weather conditions during this month and October. Some of the more optimistic mill representatives believe that cold weather soon will bring additional business, but the majority apparently figure that the cutters now have about covered their needs. As to the stocks of finished garments the latter have on hand, these are not considered excessive. It is calculated that with normal buying they do not represent more than three weeks' supply at the outside. The quantity has been cut down by careful cutting, it is pointed out, and it is to be reasonably expected that the garments on hand will be disposed of without undue difficulty. The Fall season as a whole, however, has been a disappointment so far to the manufacturers, being poorer in many instances than last year at this time.

Tweeds More to the Fore.

In the opinion of some in the women's fabric market, tweeds are likely to come in for more general attention than they have had in several seasons past. It is pointed out that it has been more than two years since the "boom" in tweeds. This ended in a collapse, as the piece goods and garment trades well remember, but the sentiment against the weaves has been gradually disappearing and they are now thought to be on the way to regained favor in a marked way. These fabrics fit in admirably with the vogue for sports coats and suits. Pastel mixtures are spoken of as the favored patterns.

Gray Goods Sales Active.

That the spurt in gray goods buying here is not over is shown by the volume of business booked yesterday in both printcloths and sheetings. In the former November-December deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s and 60-48s were sold at 9⅛ and 8⅛ cents, respectively, with December business done in 39-inch 72-76s at 12 cents. For December-January shipments of 39-inch 80-squares sellers would not consider less than 13 cents, which was paid. For the first time in several days there was no trading in 39-inch 68-72s, due to the difference in the price views of buyers and sellers. The latter stood firm for 10½ cents, while buyers would not go higher than the 10⅜ cent price they paid on Thursday. More than ordinary activity was seen in sheetings during the day. For 40-inch 2.85-yard goods buyers paid 14½ cents, with trading also reported on these 36-inch sheetings: 4.70s, 9⅝ cents; 5-yard, 8⅞ cents; 5.50s, 7⅞ cents, and 6.15s, 7⅝ cents. The price paid for 37-inch 48-square, four-yard sheetings was 10½ cents.

Early Start on Spring Lines.

An early start on Spring lines of women's ready-to-wear garments is anticipated. At the moment, the cutters-up continue to press for delivery of Spring sample pieces, with the greater bulk of these to arrive from the mills in the next two or three weeks. All in all, the Spring situation is considered to be developing very favorably by both the garment trade and the selling agents of the mills. So far the slack demand for Fall merchandise has not been a factor influencing Spring operations to any extent and it is not expected to be.

Weather Holds Coal Trade Back.

The continued absence of really seasonable temperatures is keeping back operations in the coal trade. No trouble is being experienced in the disposition of stove, nut and barley coal, Saward's Journal will say today, and "rice" is also in reasonably good shape. When it comes to egg, pea and buckwheat coal, however, the situation is a hard one to handle. Most of the companies are stocking one or more of these sizes, and independent operators are cutting prices in an effort to obtain orders. Nothing in the way of increased activity has been noted in the bituminous market this week.

No General Pricing of Sheetings.

The pricing of one of the well-known lines of wide sheetings, sheets and pillow cases for delivery during the next three months is apparently not to be followed by similar action on goods of this character that are distributed through other sources. Inquiry along this line yesterday revealed the fact that no announcements concerning the goods in question are contemplated by the two houses generally regarded in the trade as the leaders in this particular field. The price named by the concern which took this action was said to be the same as that recently current, but it was further said that the goods to be sold for the delivery specified will carry discounts larger than those given heretofore.

Gingham Price War Over?

The refusal of one of the principal leading distributers of Southern ginghams to reduce its Spring prices to meet the competition of revisions in certain Eastern goods, together with the withdrawal from sale of the goods of the other leading factor in the Southern gingham field, is taken in the trade as an indication that the skirmishes which threatened to bring on a price-cutting war have ended. Future business will be taken by the latter concern subject only to mill acceptance and at prices a cent a yard higher on one well-known brand and half a cent a yard higher on another. New developments were lacking yesterday in the Eastern gingham field, but, in view of the amount of business that has been taken in certain quarters, withdrawals of goods now available at low prices are expected almost daily.

Cone Denims Are Advanced.

An advance of half a cent a yard on denims for January-March delivery was announced yesterday by the Cone Export and Commission Company, the largest maker of this merchandise in the world. The advance brings the price of 2.20-yard white-back indigo denims to 19½ cents, while the new quotation on 2.40-yard double and twist goods is 18 cents. A nice volume of business has been booked during the week for the delivery specified, according to an executive of the company.

THE WEEK'S PRICE TREND.

Number of Advances Was Nearly Four Times the Declines.

The spread between the number of advances and declines shown this week in Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices is more marked than for some time, there being nearly four of the former to each of the latter. The actual division of the week's 69 changes was 54 advances and 15 declines, against 51 and 25, respectively, last week. Particularly numerous were the increases in the foodstuffs. Hides also showed much numerical strength.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on selected standard commodities this week. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

Twenty-one of the twenty-seven revisions in the foodstuffs were upward this week. In the local market for provisions advances of 40 and 50 cents, respectively, were seen in Spring patent and Winter soft straight flours. The fancy grade of Minnesota flour went up 15 cents. Middle Western lard was also higher here, but hams did not change. Bacon declined. At Chicago the advances took place in live hogs, live sheep and short ribs, with mess pork and live beef unchanged. There were no declines.

The only changes in the local dairy products were an advance of a cent and a half a pound in one grade of cheese and a rise of 4 cents a dozen in the price of first-quality, fresh-gathered eggs. All prices in the list, however, continue lower than at this time a year ago.

For the first time in several weeks neither the fresh nor the dried fruits showed a change either way. Revisions in the vegetables were also limited, consisting only of a decline in choice pea beans and a drop of 25 cents a bag in onions.

More than the usual number of fluctuations took place in the beverages. Both of the Brazilian basic coffees continued their upward climb, while in the teas higher prices were registered by fair Formosa and by low and first-grade Hyson. Sugar was unchanged generally, while in the spices advances in white and red peppers and ginger contrasted with a decline in cloves.

The only decline in the grain list was shown in straw, while the advances took place in wheat, corn, oats, rye and malting barley. The hide list was bare of declines, but higher prices were quoted for eight of the eleven listed grades, including calfskins. In the leather list higher prices were quoted on tannery run union backs, No. 1 scoured oak backs and No. 1 light belting butts. Tallow advanced.

Changes in the building material and lumber lists were missing this week, but four advances were recorded in the metals. They took place in ordinary antimony, electrolytic copper, zinc and tin.

None of the thirteen revisions in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils was of particular interest this week. Nine of them were advances. The only change in the naval stores was a decline in resin. In the miscellaneous changes were a rise in jute and declines in Brazilian and plantation crude rubber.

The week in the textile markets brought higher prices to heavyweight burlaps, with the lighter ones unchanged. In the cotton substantially higher quotations for a number of gray goods constructions were recorded. In the finished goods one of the week's features was the withdrawal of a leading line of Southern ginghams for Spring delivery.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 14.—Judge Runyon has appointed William L. Dill of Paterson receiver for the Automobile Financial Corporation of Broad Street, this city. The order appointing the receiver restrains the Creditmen's Adjustment and Interchange Bureau, which is said to have credits of the assets of the Financial Corporation, from disposing of any of its property pending a hearing. The assets and liabilities are set at many thousands of dollars.

Special to The New York Times.

UTICA, Nov. 14.—Upon petition of creditors headed by H. E. Machold as President of Northern New York Trust Company, James, Inc., automobile dealers of Watertown, was thrown into bankruptcy court today with liabilities estimated at $400,000 and assets of $227,000. Judge Frank Cooper appointed Sidney S. McCumber and Edward W. Ellsworth receivers.

METAL OUTPUT IS DOUBLED.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Manufacture of brass, bronze and copper products more than doubled in value last year as compared with 1921. Census Bureau statistics, announced today, placed the total value of the manufacturers' output at $511,470,131, an increase of 138 per cent. over the last biennial census.

Products for manufacture, such as ingots and bars, plates and sheets, rods, tubing, wire and castings, were valued at $406,104,255 and included 1,010,668,069 pounds of brass, 201,007,861 pounds of bronze, 611,502,692 pounds of copper and 113,122,904 pounds of other metals and alloys. Finished products, including lamps, electrical supplies, hardware and trimmings and other manufactures, were valued at $83,348,316.

Claims Marksmanship Record.

MANILA, Nov. 14 (Associated Press).—The American destroyer Borie today established a world record in marksmanship by scoring four hits with four torpedoes, fired in succession at a target 12,000 yards away, during practice in Manila Bay.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

There were evidences of a greater degree of moderation in yesterday's markets than has been apparent most of the week, and cross-currents, which have been quietly developing in one direction or another, became more pronounced. For the first time in six trading days, the rate of turnover on the Stock Exchange fell below the 2,000,000-share mark, and in other directions, too, there was a moderate easing up in the pace struck immediately after the election. However, there was no hint of actual weakness, except in the grain markets. What seemed most apparent was that markets of all sorts are merely slowing up as increased profit-taking develops. The centre of interest once more was the Stock Exchange, where in a turnover which exceeded 1,750,000 shares most stocks gained a moderate amount of ground. There was irregularity, it is true, in various directions, but a new set of leaders appears to crop up when the usual ones falter. Thus yesterday there was a great deal of activity and considerably higher prices in the best class of industrial stocks and in these directions there was an unmistakable outbalancing of selling orders by the orders to buy.

It is considered a perfectly logical consequence that these cross-currents should develop in such highly speculative and inflammable markets as have been the rule rather than the exception on every trading day since the election. The tremendous gains established by grain and by almost all classes of securities naturally, in themselves, induce profit-taking of a substantial sort. This has appeared in the markets at just about the anticipated time and apparently is having the desired effect of holding them well in hand.

Probably, the day's most interesting news came in the foreign trade figures, showing a favorable trade balance of $217,000,000, a figure which more than doubled the $90,908,208 of October, last year. Our imports for the month made a slight gain, amounting in fact to less than $2,000,000, but the exports showed an increase of about $125,000,000 over the same month last year. This has been due in very large measure to the extraordinarily large volume of cotton and wheat shipments from this country and to the high prices paid by the foreign importer for these American commodities. For the ten months of the year the imports show a very decided decline while the exports have increased. The decline in imports has amounted to something like $232,000,000 for the ten months period, while the gain in exports is in excess of $300,000,000. The only interpretation which can be placed upon these figures is that Europe has been able to greatly increase the volume of her purchases in this country, particularly during the late Summer and early Fall.

It may be that the export of capital via the foreign loans which have been made has been a large factor in bringing about this increase in foreign trade. It is evident that such sustained demand as is reflected in these figures, particularly for our farm products, has been a factor of considerable importance in the markets for them this year. From another direction during the day came further confirmation of the present heavy volume of cotton shipments abroad. The total for the month amounted to 947,556 bales, which represents an increase of 210,546 bales over September shipments, and 173,336 over the same month last year. As a matter of fact this is the greatest volume of cotton ever shipped out of this country in a single month. The nearest comparable figure is the 929,671 bales shipped during January of 1920, under the pressure, of course, of war necessities. The cotton consumption figures showed 532,629 bales used during October, a gain of 97,000 over September and a decline of only about 9,000 bales below the consumption of October, 1923. Probably the most surprising feature of this report was that the active spindles, numbering 31,000,000, were only about 3,000,000 below the number in service at this time last year.

The commercial reporting agencies stress the fact that sentiment, particularly in speculative buying, has improved vastly since the election, but they note that the widely predicted boom to follow election "is making haste slowly so far as actual final distribution is concerned."

MONEY.

FRIDAY, NOV. 14, 1924.

Stock Exchange call loans continued at 2 per cent., with nothing cheaper than this in the outside trading. There was little less money around than early in the week, the present charge being considered too low by interior institutions with funds here, resulting in withdrawals. Time money ruled a trifle easier, especially in the near dates, 60-90 days' dropping ¼ to 3@3¼ per cent., and for four months' where bid had previously been 3½ funds are now offered at this figure; five-six months' bid 3½, offered at 3¾. Acceptances stiffened ⅛ in all maturities up to 120 days, but call money was unchanged at 1¾ per cent. Merchants' notes discounted without change.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Many Stocks Established New High Records.

Except for a drop in aggregate sales to below the two-million-share mark for the first time in a week, the general character of the stock market yesterday was little changed from that of previous markets since election day. Both the railroads and industrials moved to new high ground as indicated by the averages, and many individual issues in both groups made new high records for the current year. Speculation in some of the recently reorganized rails and low priced speculative industrial issues was the outstanding feature of yesterday's operations. While many of the standard issues, which featured the recent markets, lost ground, these new issues were taken in hand, with the result that net gains were again in the majority at the close of the market. Advances ranged from one to four points or more, whereas the reactions, with few exceptions, were confined to a point or less. A significant development, from the Wall Street viewpoint, was that trading slackened on the reaction, whereas activity continued to prevail in those stocks which showed signs of moving forward. Many speculators, according to report, continue to endeavor to pick the top of the market, thus helping to strengthen the technical position. On the other hand, commission houses say that heavy buying orders have been placed in the market a point or more below prevailing quotations by outsiders and traders who are awaiting a general reaction.

General News Continues Favorable.

In stock markets such as those witnessed during the last nine days Wall Street gives little attention to the news developments from day to day, whether they are favorable or unfavorable. The speculation has gained such headway, according to brokers, that it will have to run its course before a check may be looked for. Fortunately, however, the news developments, while virtually ignored, are favorable. One outstanding item yesterday was publication of figures showing the extent of the country's foreign trade in October. This showed total exports of $527,000,000, the largest for any month since January, 1921. The export balance of $217,000,000 was the most favorable since February, 1921. The cotton consumption figures also made cheerful reading. These showed consumption of 532,000 bales in October, against 435,000 bales in September and 541,000 bales in October last year. A more favorable report is expected for the current month, as many mills have increased operations since election day. Stocks of cotton in hands of spinners aggregated 730,600 bales on Oct. 31, which at the October rate of consumption was equal to only six weeks' supply. Steel trade news continues favorable and the price tendency appears upward. Information covering conditions in the copper and petroleum industries also was favorable.

A Hungry Market.

Investment bankers reported yesterday that their only complaint about business was that they did not have enough bonds to offer. In the last two weeks, they said, previously undigested odds and ends of various issues had been pretty well cleaned up, and the market today was described as hungry for new issues. With only a relatively small amount of domestic business now in sight, they expressed the hope that foreign issues would come more into favor with the investor.

The Rise of the Bank Stocks.

An investor in the stock of a certain New York bank yesterday experienced the realization of hope deferred when the quotation on his stock reached a point set by him more than two years ago. In his wait of nearly three years his stock came within $20 of actually doubling in value. The same thing can be said of many other bank stocks. Stock of the First National Bank, for instance, was obtained four years or so ago by a number of financiers at less than $700 a share. This week the quotation reached $2,000, a profit of nearly 200 per cent. The advance has been due, bankers say, to the steady improvement in bank earnings and to the gradual scaling down of an interest yield which in Wall Street is regarded as fair.

Bringing American Railways Home.

Purchase by American interests of two railways from English holders caused the financial district yesterday to comment on the number of railways ownership of which has been brought to the United States in the last ten years. One authority on railway financing said that ten years ago the control of many of the leading railroads of this country was lodged in England. Today practically all are controlled here, and Americans have been obtaining control of roads outside of this country. One banker who has been following the progress of the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railway and the Alabama & Vicksburg Railway Company said yesterday that efforts had been made for the last five years to bring about this result.

A Well-Advertised Market.

One broker remarked yesterday that he was at a loss to know just which way the market would go, because of the advertising which the present market has received. He said that the stock market stories in the newspapers throughout the country for the last week make the present market "one of the best advertised in history." He said that it was not so difficult to judge the market when the public was out, but when the public arrived in large numbers there was no telling what would happen, because then it became necessary to figure "mob psychology."

Cutting the Operating Ratio.

Railway earnings in the last few months indicate that the roads will make a material reduction in their operating ratios in 1924 as compared with 1923. This is in part due to the economies practiced by the railroad managers and also to the fact that in 1923 the railroads were just recovering from the effects of the shopmen's strike in 1922. Officials do not hesitate to predict that the operating ratio, which is the percentage of expenses to the gross income, will be less this year than last, and some of them go a step further and say that they will be able to make additional reductions in the ratio during 1925. One of the officials of a large railroad said recently that unless the unexpected happened his company would reduce its operating ratio three points in 1925, compared with the good record which it has made this year.

A Comparison of Earnings.

A comparative analysis of industrial earnings which has just been made by one of the Wall Street services affords interesting confirmation of the fact that, taken as a whole, the earnings for 1924 thus far have not been up to those of last year. The figures so compiled, however, show that of the sixty-two companies, representing eight groups of stocks, thirty-two gained in net over last year, while thirty showed decreases, taking the third quarter results as a basis. The decline in net income applicable to common stocks of the sixty-two companies was 18.6 per cent., but for the nine months a total of eighty-six companies for which comparative figures were available showed a decrease of only 10.7 per cent. from the same period of 1923. While the only groups to show increased net, according to third quarter figures, were utilities, oils and metals, the nine months' figures show that the oil group was the only one to show an increase, and that by a very small margin.

GOODYEAR COMPANY WILL RETIRE BONDS

MEANS SAVING IN INTEREST

Officials of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, which has thirty-two subsidiaries and branches in the United States and Canada, are working on plans with their bankers, Dillon, Read & Co., for the retirement of certain outstanding bonds, it was learned yesterday. The plans provide for the refunding at a lower coupon rate of nearly $50,000,000 of bonds and possibly the retirement of $15,000,000 of outstanding cumulative prior preference stock also.

With prevailing interest rates much lower than they were when these issus were floated, and with the tire and rubber industry reported to be prosperous, the preesnt was regarded as a propitious time in which to undertake this task. The whole plan is so large, however, that its completion is not expected until after the new year. A boon to the company and to all other tire and rubber companies this year has been the perfection of the balloon automobile tire. Sales have increased largely because of the desire of automobile owners to change to this style of tire even before their old ones wear out.

Foreshadowing Goodyear's plans for scaling down its carrying charges has been a general advance in the open market of the company's bonds and stocks. Taking them in the order of their prominence, the common stock moved up 4⅛ points net, closing price yesterday on the Curb being 18⅝. On the New York Stock Exchange the company's preferred stock ran up 1⅛ points to 78⅝, and its prior preference 8 per cent. cumulative stock was up three-eighths of a point to 103¼, while the 8 per cent. sinking fund gold debentures advanced three-eighths of a point to 109¾ and the first sinking fund gold 8 per cent. bonds ruled steadily at 120.

Refunding of the two 8 per cent. bond issues would be done, it was reported, through the sale of a $50,000,000 issue of bonds bearing a coupon rate of 2 per cent. less. There were outstanding, as of May 1 last, $25,500,000 of the first sinking fund 8s and $23,500,000 of 8 per cent. sinking fund gold debentures. The first issue will mature on May 1, 1941, and is callable at 120, while the debentures mature May 1, 1931, and are callable at 110. The prior preference which might figure in the plan, although such action is not now expected, is callable at 110 also. By refunding the bonds the company would save $1,000,000 a year. In addition, it would lessen the $3,000,000 a year necessary to meet sinking fund provisions.

Under the contract for the issuance of the 8 per cent. prior preference cumulative preferred stock provision was made that this issue should be retired by the sinking fund just as the outstanding bond issues were retired. The question has arisen, therefore, as to whether the company in calling in its 8 per cent. bond issues in whole would be forced also to call in its prior preference preferred. To test this proposition, the company's directors are considering the advisability of asking permission of the prior preference stock holders to call the bonds but to leave the prior preference issue outstanding. Approval, it was believed, would be given, but if not, the company would be obliged to include that issue in its refunding plan. As the prior preference stock is now selling within one-quarter of a point of the callable price, it was pointed out that the stockholders, should they want to cash their holdings for the redemption price set, could readily get it through recourse to sales in the open market. Only $15,000,000 of this issue is still outstanding, the company having redeemed in the last two years half of the stock originally sold.

Neither the preferred stock, which ranks next to the prior preference issue, nor the common stock is now on a dividend basis. Their advances in the last few days have been attributed to the expectation that the refunding plan now in prospect, through trimming down the company's carrying charges, would give them a better chance of paying dividends.

As of Dec. 31, last, the company's balance sheet showed current assets totaling $56,584,789 against current liabilities totaling $7,612,707, leaving a net working capital of $48,972,082.

WEEK'S NEW BONDS TOTAL $43,062,000

Industrials Lead With $17,550,000 and State and Municipal Group $12,262,000.

A substantial amount of industrial financing this week brought the total of new bond offerings to $43,062,000, comparing with $32,806,000 the preceding week. Industrial offerings amounted to $17,550,000. State and municipal offerings were second largest with a total of $12,262,000.

By groups the offerings of this and last week compared as follows:

	This Week.	Last Week.
Industrial	$17,550,000	$1,000,000
State and Municipal	12,262,000	2,806,000
Public Utility	8,000,000	26,000,000
Insular Possessions	1,500,000	....
Farm Loan	1,000,000	....

Issues in sight for next week were said yesterday to be larger than the total of this week. Included in the offerings said now to be near is a public utility issue of $10,000,000 or more. Industrial financing is also expected to be brisk.

The bond market has become more active, coincident with the increased activity in stocks. Activity converged yesterday largely on the speculative railroad bonds and convertible issues, with foreign bonds showing firmness.

Morgan to Sail for Home in 2 Weeks

J. P. Morgan plans to sail for home in two weeks, according to advices received in New York yesterday from Paris. During his trip abroad, Mr. Morgan participated in conferences arranging for the recent $200,000,000 German Government loan, of which $110,000,000 was floated in the American market, and is reported at work on plans for a new French Government loan of $100,000,000.

Botany Mills Stock Oversubscribed.

Blair & Co., Inc., announced yesterday the closing of books on their offering of 60,000 shares of Botany Consolidated Mills, Inc., Class A stock. The issue was oversubscribed.

In Member Banks' Report, Week Nov. 5, Loans, Investments and Deposits Gain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Increases of $29,000,000 in loans and investments and of $25,000,000 in net demand deposits, together with a decrease of $48,000,000 in reserve balances, are shown in the Federal Reserve Board's weekly consolidated statement of condition on Nov. 5, of 743 member banks in leading cities.

Loans on United States securities and loans on corporate securities went up $4,000,000 and $33,000,000, respectively, while "all other," largely commercial, loans and discounts, went down $32,000,000. Total investments increased $24,000,000, declines of $3,000,000 in United States Treasury notes and of $11,000,000 in United States certificates of indebtedness partly offsetting an increase of $38,000,000 in corporate securities.

Loans and discounts of the New York City banks were $15,000,000 larger than for the previous week. Loans on United States Government securities were up $4,000,000 and on corporate securities $46,000,000, whereas "all other" loans and discounts declined by $35,000,000. Their holdings of United States securities declined by $6,000,000, while their holdings of corporate securities went up $13,000,000.

Net demand deposits were $25,000,000 higher than a week ago, increases in the Minneapolis, Richmond, San Francisco, Dallas, Kansas City, St. Louis and Philadelphia districts being offset in part by decreases in the Chicago, New York, Cleveland and Boston districts. Time deposits increased by $23,000,000, of which $19,000,000 was reported by banks in the Chicago district.

Reserve balances show a decline of $48,000,000, the larger decline of $57,000,000 reported by the New York City banks being partly offset by small increases in other cities. Cash holdings increased by $18,000,000, of which $5,000,000 was reported by the New York City banks.

Borrowings of all reporting banks from the Federal Reserve banks increased from $65,000,000 to $77,000,000, and those of the New York City banks, from $12,000,000 to $21,000,000.

REVALUATION IS UNLIKELY.

No Possibility Seen of Early Action on German War Bonds.

J. Hausmann & Co., Inc., of 15 William Street, reported yesterday that cables from their German correspondents indicated that revaluation prospects for German war bonds were dim. The firm said the Reparation Commission would strongly object to revaluation for a long time to come; that the German Government would not see fit to protect present or future owners, who consist principally of speculators; and that the Nationalist Party, which is espousing the cause of revaluation, is doing so as an election manoeuvre, and even if it should gain power would be unable to carry such a program through.

The German war bonds, it was pointed out, furnished proceeds which were utilized for "non-productive" purposes and, consequently, there is nothing left to show for the money expended.

Dutch Bank Changes Its Capital.

At a general meeting of the shareholders of Rotterdamsche Bankvereeniging the capitalization of the bank was changed to 50,000,000 florins and surplus 20,000,000 florins, according to J. Enderman, representative in the United States. W. Westerman, Dr. A. J. van Hengal and Dr. J. P. van Tienhoven were elected to the Board of Directors.

Jones Brothers Tea Profits Fall.

The Jones Brothers Tea Company for the September quarter reports net profits of $3,394, equal to 9 cents a share earned on the outstanding preferred stock. For the nine months ended Sept. 27, 1924, the company reports net profit of $149,793, equal to $3.98 a share earned on the $3,760,000 outstanding preferred stock.

STEWART WARNER PROFITS.

Company Reports $652,973 Net for Third Quarter.

For the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1924, the Stewart Warner Speedometer Corporation reports net profit of $652,973 after all expenses and reserves for taxes and depreciation. This compares with net profit of $1,608,648 in the same quarter last year. The net profit for the September quarter this year was equal to $1.37 a share earned on 474,990 shares of no par value capital stock outstanding, against $1.08 a share earned in the June quarter and $3.39 a share in the September quarter last year.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1924, the company reports net profit of $2,662,523, equal to $5.61 a share earned on the capital stock, against net profit of $5,547,994 reported in the same period last year, equal to $11.72. a share.

AMERICAN SUGAR CO. TO BUY NATIONAL

MAY PAY $100 PER SHARE

Two Companies Together Refine About One-third of the World's Consumption of Sugar.

The directors of the American Sugar Refining Company at a special meeting yesterday authorized the officials of the company to proceed with plans to acquire a controlling interest in the stock of the National Sugar Refining Company. Plans for the acquisition of this company have been discussed by American Sugar Company officials for some time.

Although no official details were available yesterday, it was reported in fairly responsible quarters that approximately $100 a share would be paid for the National stock. The American Sugar Refining Company already has a 24 per cent. interest in the total capital stock of the National Sugar Refining Company.

The proposed acquisition of the National by the American Sugar Refining Company will bring together two of the largest sugar refining companies in the United States. The American refines about 20 per cent. of the total sugar consumed in the world, while the National has capacity for handling about 12½ per cent. of the world's consumption, thus giving the combined company control of about one-third of the world's sugar consumption, at least from the refining standpoint.

One of the rumors regarding the proposed acquisition of the National had it that new interests would take over the management of the consolidated company. According to information obtained yesterday, both companies are expected to retain their corporate identity and no important changes in the official family of either company is looked for at the present.

Control of National Sugar Refining Company, according to trade opinion, will greatly strengthen the position of the American Sugar Refining Company, which is in need of modern plants. The company's plant in Jersey City was destroyed by fire yesterday, but it is said this will have no effect on the company's operation, as the plant had been shut down for several years. The American sugar stock actually rose two points on the Stock Exchange yesterday in face of the news that the plant had burned. The most modern plant of the American is in Baltimore. It is equipped to handle about 20 per cent. of the company's annual meltings of raw sugar. The American also has plants in Boston, Chalmette, La., Brooklyn and Philadelphia. The National has plants in Brooklyn, Yonkers and Long Island City.

OCTOBER BELOW 1923 IN COTTON CONSUMED

Fewer Spindles Active, but Export and Import Movement Shows Marked Gain.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Cotton consumed during October aggregated 532,629 bales of lint and 55,095 of linters, compared with 435,216 of lint and 49,976 of linters in September this year, and 543,260 of lint and 57,491 of linters in October last year, the Census Bureau announced today.

Cotton on hand Oct. 31 was:

Held in consuming establishments, 730,656 bales of lint and 74,405 of linters, compared with 514,537 of lint and 70,409 of linters held on Sept. 30 this year, and 1,106,347 of lint and 87,412 of linters so held Oct. 31 last year.

Held in public storage and at compresses, 4,224,854 bales of lint and 46,958 of linters, compared with 2,072,956 of lint and 38,202 of linters so held on Sept. 30 this year and 3,485,005 of lint and 35,117 of linters so held on Oct. 31 last year.

Exports during October totaled 947,556 bales, including 4,380 bales of linters, compared with 737,010, including 3,498 of linters in September this year and 774,320, including 3,938 of linters in October last year.

	Oct. 31, 1924.	Sept. 30, 1924.	Oct. 31, 1923.

This month's exports of cotton was the largest ever recorded; the previous high record since the war was 929,671 bales, in January, 1920; smallest, 146,688 in August, 1920. The smallest of war-time was the 125,778 bales, in September, 1914.

Daniel Boone Woolen Mills.

Oscar Gumbinsky has resigned as President and Director of the Daniel Boone Woolen Mills, and has been succeeded by Joseph Byfield, Presidents of the Hotel Sherman Company. Mr. Byfield has had twenty-five years experience in the textile and garment business. Other changes are expected to be made in the board later.

To List Corn Products Stock.

The Corn Products Refining Company has applied to the New York Stock Exchange for permission to list $750,000 additional common capital stock. This application is made by the company in connection with a plan previously outlined under which the company has arranged to sell stock to its employes.

Buys an Arizona Power Company.

Control of the Central Arizona Light and Power Company, serving with electric power, light and gas the City of Phoenix, Ariz., and adjoining territory, has been acquired by the American Power and Light Company, which recently purchased three Florida utilities.

SEES IMPROVEMENT IN TRADE OUTLOOK

In the address yesterday afternoon at Cooper Union, Roger W. Babson, statistical expert, in one of a series of lectures delivered before the Cooper Institute, described business conditions as "very poor in most lines" but said they were showing improvement every day. The farmers, he asserted, would be the first to come back, and "may have already started on their return trip," while conditions were "much better in the Northwest, and the South is looking forward to a fine year."

Refering to the election, Mr. Babson said that conditions made Presidents, but that Presidents did not make conditions. "Business may not boom in 1925, but it is fundamentally improving day by day," he said. "Money should be easy for some two or three years, although it will probably be a little higher this Fall than at present. Only an abnormal demand for money from Europe can keep up rates in this country. There will be plenty of funds in 1925 for legitimate business."

Wages for the present period have reached their peak, and readjustments have already begun, Mr. Babson said, adding that the workers of those communities that accept lower wages would get the business during 1925.

Mr. Babson declared that the only "fly in the ointment" at the present time was La Follette. "He may develop a market scare during the next few months which will temporarily send prices down," he said. "If so, everything will then be a buy; but until this happens discrimination should be used.

"The La Follette campaign never expected to win for him the Presidency. It did hope to get first place for him in half a dozen States and second place in enough more so that he could control a certain amount of patronage and committee appointments. He thus would have become a big factor in the next Congress. Today his hopes must be rather shattered and his influence henceforth, instead of being greater, will be less. This means much to legitimate business, and the strength of the markets is justified as discounting this check of dangerous radicalism. Furthermore, it should mean a reduction in taxation and rebuilding of our railroads, a protection of the Federal Reserve banking system and the upholding of the American form of government with its three departments—executive, legislative and judicial."

EQUIPMENT ORDERS $21,000,000 IN WEEK

Railway Purchases Include 9,071 Freight Cars and Four Locomotives.

Business confidence was reflected in the railway equipment market this week, resulting in $21,000,000 of new orders, including 9,071 freight cars and four locomotives, according to the weekly compilation of The Railway Age. During the week orders were placed by the Norfolk & Western for 3,000 gondola cars, by the New York Central for 3,000 box cars, and by the Texas Company for 1,000 tank cars, as well as an order for 2,000 cars by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé, which was divided between the American Car and Foundry Company and the Pullman Car and Manufacturing Company.

The Long Island ordered fifteen caboose cars from the Pressed Steel Car Company, which company also received an order for forty air dump cars from the Great Northern. The Southern Railway has ordered 1,000 steel underframes from the Virginia Bridge and Iron Company.

There were many reports of prospective new business. The New York Central issued an inquiry for from twenty-five to fifty locomotive tenders. The Terminal Railroad Association of St. Louis wants fifteen and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas wants ten eight-wheel switching locomotives.

The Canadian National Railways propose to buy 1,000 box, 1,000 automobile and 250 refrigerator cars. The Central of Georgia is inquiring for prices on 500 box cars and 6 passenger cars; the Northern Pacific for 600 gondola cars and the Chicago & Northwestern has an inquiry out for 24 coaches, 23 baggage cars and 3 baggage and mail cars. The Great Northern will enter the market for 3 dining cars. The Baltimore & Ohio will rebuild 2,000 hopper cars in its own shops and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy will repair 1,000 gondola cars.

In addition to this business, orders were placed for 67,000 tons of rails.

The Railway Age also calls attention to the fact that several railroads are projecting big construction operations.

CHILEAN BROKERS CHECKED

New Law Is Enforced Providing Drastic Control of Dealings.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 14.—The free and easy life of Chile's stockbrokers was rudely shaken when the new law on stock transactions, which becomes effective Jan. 1, was published today. It decrees that all stock transactions must detail the serial numbers of the shares dealt in.

All term transactions must be guaranteed by 15 per cent. of their total value, and the term must not exceed 45 days. Otherwise the guarantee must be doubled, besides a deposit being made on the Stock Exchange securities involved in the transaction. Government inspectors will be appointed for the stock exchanges at Valparaiso and Santiago to control the new law.

It is understood that regulations will be issued soon to control speculation in foreign currency drafts which affect Chilean exchange. The first result of the new stock law was noticed today in the greatly reduced transactions here and at Valparaiso.

SEES INFLATION NEAR.

Herbert D. Williams Analyzes Stock Market Conditions.

According to Herbert D. Williams of H. D. Williams & Co., the overnight boom that last week started in the stock market presages the approach of this country to an inflation era.

"Considering how rapidly the Dawes plan is reviving confidence and business in Europe, the prevailing low interest rates, the unusually good returns investments produce, the prosperity which has come to our farmers, improvement in foreign exchange, which is working to our advantage, and our heavy car loadings there is but this practical conclusion to draw from all this evidence—that is, that inflation is near. Where it will end it would be difficult for any person to forecast, for the whole world is on the threshold of a reconstruction period the like of which history has not yet recorded."

Denmark May Propose Loan Today.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 14.—The Danish National Bank and the Government began today negotiations regarding the country's economic policy. Political and financial circles were of the opinion that the Government would propose a $50,000,000 loan tomorrow. It is generally understood that several American concerns are eager to underwrite this loan.

Baldwins Sue Rumania.

BUCHAREST, Nov. 14.—Representatives of the Baldwin Locomotive Company today retained counsel preparatory to suing the Rumanian Government for $2,500,000. The sum to be asked represents the price of locomotives sold and delivered to Rumania in 1919-20.

SEVERAL CONCERNS DECLARE DIVIDENDS

LACLEDE GAS RAISES RATE

Also Orders $1 a Share Paid on Deferred Dividends—Other Corporations Act.

Several favorable dividend announcements were made by domestic corporations yesterday.

An initial dividend was declared on the capital stock of the Simms Petroleum Co., while the Directors of the Laclede Gas Light Co., St. Louis, increased the dividend rate on the common stock and also declared a dividend on account of payments in arrears. Several companies also announced the declaration of regular dividend payments.

The Simms Petroleum dividend was set at 50 cents a share, payable Jan. 2 to stockholders of record Dec. 15. No announcement was made as to the period covered by the payment. Some important changes in the executive committees were announced also. These included the addition to the executive committee of M. C. Brush, President of the American International Corporation and John L. Weeks of Luke, Banks & Weeks. Henry Oliver of Pittsburgh resigned from the directorate.

Officers announced the company's earnings for the current year were expected to approximate $2,000,000, equal to about $3 a share on the capital stock outstanding. These earnings were figured after allowing approximately $2,000,000 for development expenses, depreciation and depletion reserves and cost of abandoned leases.

The Laclede Gas increase in its quarterly dividend was from $1.75 to $2 a share, while its contribution toward the unpaid dividends during and after the war period was $1 a share. The unpaid dividends in that period now aggregate $21 a share, the company having paid $7 a share extra in 1923.

According to Charles A. Monroe, Chairman of the company, the increase in the common dividend to an $8 basis was induced by the need of raising new capital with which to expand plant and distributing facilities. The company will spend upward of $3,000,000 on new plants and new mains between now and the end of 1925.

Directors of the American Railway Express Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 a share on the capital stock payable Dec. 31, to stockholders of record Dec. 15.

The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share was declared on the Class A and preferred stock of Montgomery Ward & Co., both dividends being payable Jan. 1, 1925, to stockholders of record Dec. 20.

The United States Realty and Improvement Company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2 a share on the common stock and $1.75 a share on the preferred stock. The common dividend is payable Dec. 15, to stockholders of record Dec. 5, and the preferred dividend is payable Feb. 2, 1925, to stockholders of record Dec. 5, 1924.

The Directors of the United States Cigar Stores Company of America declared the regular dividend of 2 per cent. in cash and 1¼ per cent. in common stock payable on the common stock Dec. 31, to stockholders of record Dec. 15. The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent. was also declared on the preferred stock, payable Dec. 15, to stockholders of record Dec. 1.

The International Securities Trust of America has declared quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share on the preferred shares, Series A, and $1.50 a share on the preferred shares, Series B, and a dividend of $1.50 on the common shares. All three dividends are payable Dec. 1 to stockholders of record Nov. 24.

WILL TRY TO AGREE ON RAIL MERGERS

Following the instructions of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the heads of the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Nickel Plate will meet in New York City the later part of next week to discuss the four-system consolidation plan. This plan was originally submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission by the heads of the four railroads at an informal meeting on Oct. 11.

After this meeting it was learned that the heads of the New York Central, the Baltimore & Ohio, and the Nickel Plate were practically agreed upon a division of the roads in the Eastern part of the country, but that this division did not meet with the approval of the Pennsylvania. The latter objected to the Reading and the Central of New Jersey going to the Baltimore & Ohio; to the Lehigh Valley going to the New York Central, and to the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western going to the Nickel Plate. It also took the position that the New England lines should be concentrated into a single system to be owned jointly by the four Eastern systems.

The commissioners reviewed the plan and suggested to the railroad executives that they hold another meeting, at which an effort be made to adjust some of their differences between themselves. As far as could be learned the meeting with the commission in Washington, scheduled for yesterday, was postponed. Now efforts are being made to arrange a meeting date for the heads of the roads in New York City.

The Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central are working on plans to pacify the Pennsylvania and it was hinted yesterday that they may provide for a joint use of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western by the Nickel Plate and the Pennsylvania, with the New York Central still holding the Lehigh Valley.

It is said that none of the heads of the smaller systems, such as the Lackawanna, the Lehigh Valley, the Delaware & Hudson, the Reading and the Central of New Jersey have been invited to attend the meting scheduled for next week.

The Executive Committee of the Erie Railroad discussed developments on the Nickel Plate lease at their regular meeting yesterday. Counsel for the Erie, along with that of the other railroads interested in the proposed consolidation, have been attempting to revise the lease so that it would meet with the consent of the directors of all the various railroads involved.

Equitable Life Loans.

The Finance Committee of the Equitable Life Assurance Society authorized loans on bond and mortgage amounting to $66,795,284 during the first ten months of this year. Of this amount, $29,565,200 were on dwellings and apartments in 145 cities providing accommodations for more than 9,000 families. Loans on business buildings in thirteen States were authorized to the amount of $3,805,300. Farm loans amounting to $33,424,784 were authorized, principally in Iowa, Oklahoma, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota and Tennessee.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

MORE BUYING SEEN, WITH PRICES HIGHER

Improvement Noted in Manufacturing and Selling Lines in Past Week.

Considerable improvement has been recorded in leading mercantile and manufacturing circles in the past week, according to the weekly trade reviews, and a confident and cheerful tone prevails in all circles. The change for the better has brought about increased buying in many primary markets, and higher prices have resulted in many instances.

Bradstreet's review of current trade conditions says, in part:

"Trade sentiment has vastly improved and buying has quickened in many primary lines. The widely predicted boom to follow election is making haste slowly so far as actual final distribution is concerned, but, with full allowance for exaggeration, there is no doubt that sentiment, this particularly in speculative lines, has vastly improved. In the iron and steel trades tangible evidence is readily had of better buying, of increased output and of higher prices ruling. The securities markets have maintained with slight reactions the big volume of trading and higher prices noted last week.

"Cotton prices have risen in the face of increased Government estimates of yield, and reports from the manufacturing lines are more optimistic. Car loadings show a decrease from the year's peak touched in late October, but exceed the like week of any previous year.

"The cement trade in October broke all monthly records for production and shipment, and stocks are the lowest in a year.

"Perhaps the most notable development of the week has been a marked upward surge in prices of commodities, thirty-nine of which are higher, while only four are lower and thirty-nine are unchanged. The Weekly Food Index is naturally higher on the week. The majority of bank clearings reports show advances over the like week a year ago. Failures are running below a year ago."

Dun's Review says:

"With prices of practically all agricultural products at a high level, the returns to the farming communities will be substantially greater than a year ago.

"Pig iron is in slightly better demand and the price has recovered from the low point of last week. The improvement in the trade is more noticeable in the West and in that section inquiry is somewhat greater from industrial interests. The railroads, likewise, have placed some additional contracts. Unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation increased but 51,490 tons in October, but this in some degree reflects hesitation incident to the election—the increase in September was 184,203 tons. Orders for structural material are very fair with the market firm."

BAKERIES STOCKS CONTINUE RECOVERY

Continental "A" Gains 5¼ Points and United 7 in Day's Trading.

Stocks of the Continental Baking and United Bakeries Corporation continued yesterday their advances from the low levels reached on Wednesday when trading in Continental shares began on the Curb on a "when issued" basis. United Bakeries, which dropped to 112 after opening at 150 on Wednesday, had risen to a closing price of 135½ yesterday, a net gain for the day of 7 points on the common stock, and the Continental "A" common closed at 99¼, within three-fourths of a point of the price at which the stock was brought on to the Curb. This was an advance of 5¼ points for the day on this stock. Continental "B" common, with transactions of 19,200 shares, closed at 19½, up ⅛ from the close of the preceding day. The initial transaction in these shares was around 17.

For the first time there was a transaction in the Continental "when issued" preferred shares. This placed the stock on a market basis of 89⅝. Under the provisions of the plan of organization of Continental the preferred shares are to receive regular quarterly dividends at the annual rate of 8 per cent. a share. The same rate has been set for the "A" common shares, the first payments on these stocks to be made Jan. 1, 1925.

About 60 per cent. of the United Bakeries Corporation stock has been deposited with the Guaranty Trust Company for exchange into securities of the newly organized Continental Baking Corporation, it was said yesterday, while a large part of the deposits still remains to be tabulated.

Announcement of the acquisition of four additional baking concerns is expected to be made by the Continental in the next few days. It was said that the control of a majority of the stock in these companies already had been acquired, and that the management of the Continental was only waiting until all details were in shape for announcement. These four companies will be taken over for cash, and not, as in the case of the American and United companies, through an exchange of stocks. The only stock that will be outstanding of the Continental following the merger will be that exchanged for the securities of United Bakeries.

One share of United Bakeries 7 per cent. preferred is being exchanged for one share of the new 8 per cent. preferred and one share of class B common of Continental. One share of United common is being exchanged for one share of class A common of Continental and two shares of class B Continental common.

RETAIN MONTAGU NORMAN.

Reelection as Governor of Bank of England Is Recommended.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The directors of the Bank of England have unanimously recommended that the proprietors reelect Montagu Norman Governor of the bank for the coming year, this to make his sixth consecutive year in office. Such an honor is unprecedented. The governorship is nominally limited to two years, a previous rare exception being Lord Cunliffe, who served five years.

While it is recognized that the directors have paid a high compliment to Mr. Norman, it is also pointed out that the post-war financial problems, such as the funding of the British debt to America and participation in European reconstruction schemes, have made continuity of the governorship almost a necessity. It is understood that the customary two-year limit will be resumed when the situation becomes normal.

FRENCH GOLD ARRIVES.

Bankers Trust Company Receives $3,500,000 to Be Melted Down.

The Bankers Trust Company received a shipment of gold, valued at $3,500,000, from its Paris office yesterday. The purpose of the shipment was not made clear, even to the New York office, but was assumed to be at the instance of a client of the Paris office. The only instructions given were that the New York bank have the gold melted down and proceeds from its sale credited to the account of the Paris branch.

The Farmers Loan and Trust Company is shipping $500,000 in gold bars to Bombay. The Indian exchange unit, the rupee, has reached a price at which it is more profitable to ship gold to India than to buy rupees in the exchange market in filling commercial requirements.

ENGLISH RELINQUISH 2 SOUTHERN ROADS

STOCK OFFER NEXT WEEK

Two Roads Form "Vicksburg Route" Between Meridian, Miss., and Shreveport, La.

After many uneventful years there were three developments yesterday in the Alabama & Vicksburg and the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railway Companies.

The controlling interest of the Sterling Trust, Limited, an English company, which has held the roads since 1881, passed into the hands of a financial group of New York and New Orleans, headed by Spencer Trask & Co.; the stockholders of the Alabama & Vicksburg were notified that a special meeting would be held on Dec. 10 to pay a 100 per cent. stock dividend, and it was learned that Spencer Trask & Co. would offer to the public early next week shares of both the railroad companies, which later may be listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The two roads form the main line of the "Vicksburg Route" between Meridian, Miss., and Shreveport, La. With the sale of the securities of these two roads the Sterling Trust, Limited, will have completed liquidation of its holding of American railroad securities, it having disposed of its control of the Alabama Great Southern Railroad Company in 1895, and of the New Orleans & North Eastern Railroad Company in 1916. Control of these two roads is now held by the Southern Railway Company. During and since the war Spencer Trask & Co. acquired substantial blocks of the preferred and ordinary stocks of the Alabama Great Southern Railroad from English investors and have since disposed of them in this country.

Stockholders of the Alabama & Vicksburg received a notice yesterday asking for the proxies of stockholders to vote on a 100 per cent. stock dividend. The resolution, which has been passed by the directors of the company, said: "This board recommends to the shareholders of the company that the capital stock of the company be increased by 21,000 shares of a par value of $100 each, this additional stock to be used for the purpose of a dividend to the shareholders at the rate of one additional share for each share of stock now held, to recoup the shareholders in part for the expenditures on capital account defrayed out of the net income of the company from July 1, 1909, to Dec. 31, 1923." According to the statement to the common stock holders, these expenditures, over a period of fifteen years, amount to $2,420,225.

Under the present plans the bankers will offer to the public all the stock which they purchased from the English company. This includes $2,773,500, or practically all the common, and $2,080,000 of the preferred stock of the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific, and $1,168,000, or 52 per cent., of the common stock of the Alabama & Vicksburg. The American interests also took over $1,000,000 refunding and improvement bonds, which they have already sold privately. The offering probably will be made on Monday, although it was said yesterday that the syndicate had not completed its plans and the price would not be announced until later.

SHIP AMERICAN SUGAR BACK

Refined Granulated Returning to This Country From Europe.

American refined granulated sugar is being returned to this country from Europe and Germany, according to the weekly bulletin of trade conditions issued by the Federal Sugar Refining Company.

According to the company, Holland has shipped back to New York 20,160 bags of American sugar and "it is understood that additional quantities of American sugar exported during the past campaign are being returned here. It is also reported that in the last few days shipments of German granulated sugar have been made to this country."

CURB PLANS CHANGE IN COMMISSION FEES

SOME CUTS ARE PROPOSED

Following the action taken by the New York Stock Exchange several weeks ago, the Board of Governors of the New York Curb Market yesterday approved changes in the rates of commission charged for the purchase and sale of stocks. The rates on stock under 50 cents and up to $10 a share will remain unchanged, and the rate charged on stocks selling between $10 and $25 a share will be reduced from $15 to $12.50 per 100 shares.

There will be an increase, however, effective Nov. 24, unless disapproved by a majority of the regular membership, on stocks above $50. The commission charged to associate members also will be increased, but the commission on bond transactions will remain unchanged.

OIL OUTPUT FALLS 7,000,000 BARRELS

Decline for This Year Compares With 168,000,000 Gain Reported in 1923.

Production of crude oil in the United States during the current year will aggregate 7,000,000 barrels less than the production of 1923, according to an estimate made public yesterday by Valentin R. Garfias, head of the foreign oil department of Henry L. Doherty & Co., managers of the Cities Service Company. This drop in production is in sharp contrast compared with the gain of 168,000,000 barrels in output reported last year. According to the estimate this country will produce 718,000,000 barrels of crude oil this year, compared with 725,702,000 barrels produced in 1923 and 557,531,000 barrels produced in 1922. The world's production of crude in 1924 will aggregate 1,013,000,000 barrels, according to the estimate, compared with 1,004,000,000 barrels in 1923.

If the predictions materialize, the current year will be the first in nineteen years in which the United States has shown a drop in crude oil output as compared with the previous year. The influence of this drop in production, according to Mr. Garfias, accounts for the world's production remaining practically stationary during the two years 1924-1923, as the increase in some of the remaining fields was counterbalanced by decline in others.

The following table shows the production of the various countries during the last three years, in order of their importance in 1922. The 1922 figures are furnished by the United States Geological Survey, those for 1923 are partly estimated and partly from official sources, while those for 1924 are estimated in their entirety:

Commenting upon conditions in the various foreign fields, Mr. Garfias says the most important new factor in the world's oil production during 1924 has been the rapid increase in the yield of the Venezuelan fields, the 1924 production aggregating 8,200,000 barrels, or double that of 1923; and Venezuela, which last year ranked eleventh among the world's producers, has now moved to seventh position.

In regard to the outlook for the petroleum industry, Mr. Garfias says: "Although, in the opinion of the writer, the estimates of future production and prices are for the most part misleading conjectures, it seems clear that the producer should be cautioned against unfounded optimism in view of the present temporary and gradually declining production in the United States. It should be remembered that the present rate of production is sufficient to take care of contemplated consumption without necessitating drawing from stocks for months to come, and that there are at present in the United States alone enough oil stocks above ground to take care of the consumption of the entire world for over six months.

"Furthermore, the discovery of a new pool in either the United States or Mexico, or the development of deeper horizons in old ones by the improved drilling methods lately adopted, to say nothing of normal improvement in Russian conditions or a more intensified development of the Persian and Venezuelan fields, will easily and quickly unbalance the industry to a period of congested oversupply and corresponding non-compensatory low prices."

Despite the heavy stocks there were indications yesterday that the smaller companies were making efforts to get more oil. Independent companies in various parts of the country reported new production yesterday.

The Pure Oil Company announced that it has opened a new Berea sand pool in Morgan County, Ohio, producing at the rate of 10,000 barrels monthly. The General Petroleum reported that a test well sunk in the Kettleman Hills, Cal., has struck oil.

A well on the Brunner Lease in Cromwell, Okla., owned 50 per cent. each by the Sinclair Consolidated Oil and the Transcontinental Oil Company, came in with 1,500 barrels, according to advices received in New York. A report was also received that the Phillips new well is making 400 barrels an hour on the eastern edge of the northern extension of the Burbank field.

Postal Savings Gain Here.

Postal savings here in October showed an increase of $84,096 over September. On Sept. 30 the depositors' balance was $41,369,737. In Brooklyn there was a decrease of $38,304 in the total savings in October, the depositors' balance on Sept. 30 being $11,120,762.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Realizing and Sales of Export Paper Halt Advance—Sterling and Guilders Decline.

After European exchanges had started yesterday's trading with a fresh demonstration of the forward swing of other sessions, with sterling, Holland guilders and some of the South Americans touching new high points, the upward rush was choked by heavy offerings of export paper, and active selling for profit, which soon cooled the ardor of the advance and brought a sharp reversal.

Sterling checks opened with an overnight improvement of ⅝ cent, at $4.63¼, bounded up to $4.464, unequaled since early May, 1923, before the liquidation carried it down a fraction under Thursday's final. Holland guilders advanced 13 points to 40.12 cents, best since December, 1922, and within 8 points of par of exchange, but sagged later to 40.05 cents. Italian, Scandinavians and mid-Europeans were 1 to 3 points down on moderate business.

Heavy exports from South America have brought a sharp demand for bills on that continent, yesterday's buying sending Uruguay and Argentina to new highs, with an improvement in Peru which left it only 2 points under previous top. Chinese and other Easterns were firm.

$2,100,000 RAIL ORDER.

St Paul Road Divides 50,000 Tons Between Two Companies.

One of the largest orders for rails placed in recent weeks was that of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway for 50,000 tons with a market value of approximately $2,100,000. The order was divided so that 40,000 tons were awarded the Illinois Steel Company and 10,000 to the Inland Steel Company.

This order will cover the road's requirements for 1925, and will be approximately the same as the amount used last year.

WHEAT PRICES DROP ON REALIZING SALES

EXPORTERS BUY ON BREAKS

Corn Also Is Under Pressure, and, With Other Grains, Goes to Lower Levels.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Heavy realizing sales by houses with Eastern connections resulted in a sharp break in wheat prices, after an early bulge, and, at the inside, May showed 5 cents under the high of the previous day and finished at the bottom, with net losses of 2¼@3⅝ cents.

An excellent class of buying developed on the decline, with some credited to export interests, resting orders for cash grain having been caught, but the day's sales of 500,000 to 750,000 bushels in all positions were rather disappointing.

The technical position was largely responsible for the decline, as there was a lack of depressing news. Argentine cables told of a partial crop failure in some sections due to drought and grass hopper damage, but Australian cables indicated that the damage in that country had been overestimated of late and that there would be more wheat for export than recent cables indicated.

There were 400,000 bushels sold to go to store during the day and numerous orders from abroad somewhat above working limits, but the break came too late for their execution. Chicago handlers reported 50,000 bushels sold here, with bids for round lots from eastern millers. One bid for 1,000,000 bushels cash wheat was here at one cent under asking prices. The market was overbought on the advance.

Primary arrivals for the day were 1,953,000 bushels; week ago, 1,787,000; last year, 1,600,000. Shipments were 1,348,000 bushels; week ago, 2,326,000; last year, 727,000.

Corn was under pressure from profit-takers, with heavy selling from $1.20 down to $1.19 for May, two houses selling 1,500,000 bushels between them. There were also liberal offerings from commission houses in the last hour and the close was at net losses of 1⅛@1⅝ cents.

Weather conditions were generally favorable for the new crop and the movement is gradually increasing, with twenty cars of new received here out of total arrivals of 127 cars.

Primary arrivals today were 477,000 bushels; week ago, 430,000; last year, 856,000. Shipments, 190,000 bushels; week ago, 201,000; last year, 402,000.

Oats declined 1¼@1⅝ cents in sympathy with other grains. Rye was off 3@3⅝ cents, with liquidation by scattered longs in evidence. Export demand was slow.

NEW YORK CENTRAL READY TO OPEN CUT-OFF

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The New York Central Railroad Company today received authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission to acquire control of the lines of the Hudson River Connecting Railroad Corporation and its franchises and facilities.

The Hudson River Connecting Railroad is the corporate title of a New York Central subsidiary which constructed the "Castleton cut-off" by means of which freight traffic flowing over the six-track main line of the Central will be diverted from steep grades and congested trackage at Albany and shunted across a high level bridge over the Hudson, ten miles below the city, by easy gradients.

Beside the high level bridge, to be named the "A. H. Smith Memorial Bridge," located just south of Castleton, N. Y., the cut-off includes twenty-eight miles of new double-track railroad connecting the New York Central's Hudson division at Stuyvesant, the West Shore at Ravena, and the Boston & Albany at Post Road, and a vast terminal freight classification yard at Selkirk. The whole improvement cost $25,000,000, and has only been two years in construction.

The cut-off will be put into operation next Thursday, when the first train will cross the bridge, carrying a notable official party, and will travel from Albany over the entire improvement. The inspection will be followed by a luncheon and speeches at the capital city. In attendance will be the Board of Directors and other officials of the New York Central, officials of the States of Massachusetts and New York and of the Federal Government.

The cut-off will do heavy duty from the opening day, because of the extraordinary efficiency it will afford in handling heavy through freight trains, with a saving in time to the shipper and economies in operation costs to the railroad.

Rail Bonds Authorized.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The New Orleans, Texas and Mexico Railway Company today received authority from the Interstate Commerce Commission to issue $3,752,000 of first mortgage 5½ per cent. bonds, the bonds together with $981,000 of first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds to be sold at not less than 99 and 92 per cent. of par respectively.

DEMAND FOR COTTON STIMULATES PRICES

NET RISE IS 7 TO 13 POINTS

Though another advance in cotton carried prices to highest levels of the movement, the market met contracts to a degree that halted the rise and most of the early gain disappeared before the close. Throughout the week mill buying has been conducted on a large scale and operations of this character were generally regarded as reaching largest proportions of the season during the first hour's trading. At the same time, the advance increased hedging business from Southern sources and various spot houses reported the execution of more orders than for many weeks. Census figures showed domestic consumption of 532,000 bales against 541,000 last year, or within 9,000 bales of the quantity used during October a year ago, whereas in August curtailment represented 135,000 bales. Final prices showed a gain of 7 to 13 points on the day.

SINCLAIR OIL ISSUE.

Bankers to Offer $15,000,000 First Lien 6 Per Cent. Bonds.

The Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, of which Harry F. Sinclair is the Chairman, has arranged for a new $15,000,000 loan through the sale of that amount of three-year first lien collateral 6 per cent. gold bonds, series C, due Dec. 1, 1927, to Blair & Co., Inc., and the Chase Securities Corporation.

The bonds will carry stock purchase warrants entitling the holder of each $1,000 bond to purchase common stock in the following amounts: Fifty shares at $20 per share if exercised on or before Dec. 1, 1925; forty-five shares at $22.25 a share if exercised thereafter but on or before Dec. 1, 1926, and forty shares at $25 per share if exercised thereafter on or before June 1, 1927. Public offering of the bonds is expected next Monday.

CLINCHFIELD STOCK ISSUE.

Negotiations Said to Be Under Way for $25,000,000.

Negotiations were reported yesterday to be going on between the Carolina, Clinchfield & Ohio Railroad Company and Blair & Co., Inc., for the sale of a new issue of the railroad company's stock. The amount was said to be $25,000,000, the stock to be guaranteed jointly by the Louisville & Nashville and the Atlantic Coast Line railroad systems. It was also said the stock would bear a 3 per cent. coupon during the first two years, the rate gradually to be increased to 5 per cent.

Blair & Co., Inc., would not comment yesterday on the reported negotiations.

Offering Radio Stores Stock.

Frank T. Stanton & Co. are offering 50,000 shares of the Liberty Radio Chain Stores, Inc., at $5 a share.

COMMODITY PRICES.

There were no startling price changes in yesterday's cash markets, the trend being an irregular one, in fact, wheat, oats and lard sagging, while flour, butter, copper, tin, and cotton improved. Elsewhere values were maintained without change.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale markets at the close of business Friday, a week before and a year ago. Prices are those of the New York cash markets, unless otherwise indicated:

EXPORTS IN OCTOBER TOTAL $527,000,000

GAINS IN COTTON AND GRAIN

Gold Imports for the Month Are $19,701,542, While Those for Silver Are $5,828,572—Both Are Decreases.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—An excess of exports over imports for the United States of $217,000,000 was shown today in foreign trade figures issued by the Commerce Department for the month of October. The figures indicated that the balance had more than doubled in favor of America since October last year, when it was $90,908,205.

Exports of merchandise for the month were valued at $527,000,000 against $399,199,014 for the same period last year. Imports were valued at $310,000,000 against $308,290,809 a year ago. The export increase was due principally to enlarged movements in cotton and grain.

Imports of gold totaled $19,701,542, against $29,795,185 for October, 1923. Gold exports were valued at $4,125,268, against $1,307,060.

Year.	Exports.	Imports.	Excess Exports.
1924	$527,000,000	$310,000,000	$217,000,000

Month.	Exports.	Imports.		Excess.
Oct.	$527,000,000	$310,000,000	—	$217,000,000

Superior Copper to Liquidate.

A meeting of stockholders of the Superior Copper Company has been called for Dec. 15 to authorize the liquidation and dissolution of this company, according to advices from Boston yesterday. The directors have recommended the sale of real estate and assets, excepting cash and Government securities, to the highest bidder. It is said that Calumet and Hecla Consolidated, which owns a controlling interest, has bid $80,000 for the property.

General Cigar Income.

The General Cigar Company earned in the third quarter of 1924 net income of $691,489, after deducting all charges and providing for Federal taxes. For the nine months net earnings were $1,873,820, after the same deductions and dividends on the preferred stocks.

INTERNATIONAL CEMENT.

The International Cement Corporation, for the quarter ended Sept. 30, 1924, reports total sales of $4,955,083, against $3,276,766 in the same period last year and total income of $1,160,944, against $889,233. After allowing for charges and taxes, the company reported net income of $921,426, equal, after preferred dividends, to $2.36 a share earned on the 364,167 shares of no par value common stock outstanding. In the same period last year the company reported net income of $755,623, equal to $2 a share on the common stock after allowing for preferred dividends.

For the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1924, the company reported sales of $12,403,945, against $9,738,549, in the same period last year and total income of $2,653,604, against $2,189,421. After reserves for charges and Federal taxes, the company reported net income of $2,041,729 available for dividends, against net income of $1,852,548 reported in the same period last year. The net income for the first nine months of 1924, after allowing for preferred dividends, was equal to $5.24 a share earned on the outstanding common stock, against $4.87 a share earned on the same stock in the first nine months of 1923.

Bank to Scale Down Capital.

The Dresdner Bank of Berlin plans a change in its capitalization, according to advices received yesterday by J. A. Sisto & Co. On Dec. 12, next, stockholders will meet to vote on the proposed change, which provides for scaling down the present capital stock by exchanging twelve and a half shares of the present capital stock for one share of the new gold capital stock. If the plan is ratified, the new capital of the bank will be 78,000,000 gold marks and the open reserves will amount to 22,000,000 gold marks. Business is picking up, according to the bank's report.

Live Stock Markets at Chicago.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Big shipping orders for hogs helped to sustain values today, and while there was an early decline of 10@25 cents, the finish was on a strong rally, with few left unsold. Arrivals were 52,000. Outsiders took 23,000 during the day. The top price was $9.70 and the day's average $9.05. Lambs advanced 10@15 cents, with an active demand. Killing kinds sold up to $14.35. Receipts were 12,000. Cattle were generally steady, with quality plain. Receipts were 6,000.

TO ERECT APARTMENT

Fifteen-Story Multi-Family House on the East Side Sold to Joseph Hertzberg.

As a site for an apartment house, the plot on Central Park West, adjoining the north corner of Ninety-seventh Street, has been sold by Frederick Brown, the operator. According to the present plans of the new owner, Leon Weinstein, the property will be improved with a building not more than six stories in height, an unusual improvement for land of its value.

The realty has a frontage of 50 feet and and is 100 feet deep. Only twenty feet, on which is a five-story house, stands between the plot and the north side of Ninety-seventh Street. On the north side of the plot also is a narrow house. The property was bought several months ago by Mr. Brown from Dr. Abraham Kane of Brooklyn, who had purchased the site to erect on it a fine private dwelling. William L. Jordan & Co., Inc., were the brokers in the deal.

East Side Building Sold.

The new fifteen-story apartment house at 17 East Ninety-sixth Street has been purchased by Joseph Hertzberg from the 17 East Ninety-sixth Street Corporation. It was sold by the builders, headed by Joseph G. Siegel. The building is on a plot 85 by 100 feet, adjoining the northwest corner of Madison Avenue.

Isadore B. Geller, operator, as President of the Artisan Realty Company, Inc., has purchased from the estate of I. Goodstein the six-story walk-up apartment house at 212 East 117th Street, on a plot 40 by 101 feet with three stores. The premises rent for $12,000 and were held at $80,000. Berman Realty Company were the brokers.

Mr. Geller also purchased from Edward H. Mount, trustee of the estate of Charlotte A. Mount, 368 Third Avenue, adjoining the corner of Twenty-seventh Street, on which lot of 25 by 100 there is a five-story front building and a four-story rear building facing on Broadway Alley. This building has been in the possession of the Mount family for over thirty years and has been disposed of to liquidate the estate. The premises rent for $6,000 and were held for $50,000.

The same operator also sold to Jacob Gold and William Kulzasky the six-story walk-up apartment house at premises 205 East 103d Street, which is on a plot 40 by 100 and arranged for three stores and twenty-eight families. The premises rent for $12,000 and were held for $75,000. The resale was negotiated by Sherman & Kirshner, brokers. Abraham N. Geller acted as attorney in all of the transactions.

Isidor H. Kempner & Sons resold to J. Berlin 283 First Avenue, a four-story building, 23 by 65 feet, with double store. This is the second sale of the group of houses situated at the northwest corner of Sixteenth Street and First Avenue, which the sellers recently purchased from J. Louis Cunningham, trustee.

Isidor H. Kempner & Sons resold to Samuel A. Sigel, 285 First Avenue, northwest corner Sixteenth Street, a four-story building, 23 by 65. John Peters was the broker in this transaction.

Fred W. Kroehle Jr. and Joseph A. Beaudry sold for I. Weltzman the four-story tenement at 325 East Eightieth Street, 25 by 102.

Private Dwelling Sales.

The four-story-and-basement dwelling at 31 West Eighty-seventh Street was sold by a Mrs. Hoyt to Mrs. N. Gutalos. The broker was Mrs. S. B. Fischer and the price was $45,000.

Celia Greenberg sold to Julius D. Tobias, 48 West Seventy-first Street, a five-story private house, 20 by 100 feet. The buyer expects to alter and occupy. Del Sappenfield, Inc., were the brokers.

The Athenia Realty Corporation, Paul A. McGoldrick, President, purchased the four-story-and-basement furnished house at 27 West Ninety-third Street, on a lot 20 by 100 feet, from James I. Brokaw. The seller has owned the property since 1909. The brokers were the Houghton Company.

Netter & Netter, attorneys, purchased from Solomon Blum and Annie Blitt, through Jackson & Co., brokers, the two six-story apartment houses, each on a plot 50 by 100, at 537-543 West 133d Street. These properties bring a combined rental of $34,000 a year, and were held by the sellers at $205,000. The purchasers immediately resold No. 541 to John Aclin, operator, through Charles M. De Rosa & Co., as brokers. Mr. Aclin in turn resold the building to an investor. It is understood that Netter & Netter, who have taken title to the property, are now negotiating a resale of the remaining house.

James H. Cruikshank has purchased from Selena L. Block and Clarice Engel 234 West 144th Street, a five-sotry flat on plot 25 by 100. Joseph Loeb and Shaw & Sanford were the brokers.

Full Value Realty Company, Inc., has sold to the Carthage Realty Corporation the five-story flat on a lot 25 by 100 feet, with stores, at 863 Amsterdam Avenue, held at $52,000. Leonard Morgan Company, Inc., and J. G. Hough were the brokers.

Full Value Realty Company, Inc., has bought from Morris Schneider the two-five story double flats at 15 and 17 West 111th Street on a plot 54 by 100 feet. Leonard Morgan Company, Inc., and Barkan & Goldberg were the brokers.

Pierre & Golden Company, as brokers, sold for Bernard A. Ottenberg, operator, to the newly formed Abben Realty Corporation, B. Richter, President, the three six-and-a-half story new-law tenements at 5, 7 and 9 East 114th Street, on a plot 75 by 100 feet, with twelve stores, renting for $28,500 and held at $185,000. A resale is pending.

WEST ISLIP TRACT SOLD.

Brooklyn Manufacturer Buys Estate Valued at $150,000.

Robert H. McCurdy sold his estate of ninety acres at West Islip, L. I., about half a mile east of the Babylon Station, Babylon, L. I., to Emil F. Kupfer, a manufacturer and real estate operator of Brooklyn. This has a very substantial dwelling, large stable, garage, numerous cottages and other outbuildings, and it has always been considered one of the show places on the south shore of Long Island. It has been held at $150,000. Jeremiah Robbins was the broker.

Lessee to Alter House.

Bernard S. Deutsch has taken a lease from Marie A. Blath of the four-story brownstone dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, at 790 Lexington Avenue, adjoining the corner of East Sixty-first Street, for a term of sixty-three years. Mr. Deutsch intends to alter and remodel the premises into stores and apartments. The premises have been in the possession of the lessor for forty-two years. Pease & Elliman were the brokers in the transaction.

O'Reilly & Dahn leased for the Alliance Realty Company to a client the five-story building at 940 Third Avenue for a period of twenty-one years.

Trading in Brooklyn.

The Elwin S. Piper Company reports the sale, through the Multiple Listing Bureau, of the one-family dwelling at 1,964 East Twelfth Street to a client for immediate occupancy.

GRACE MANSION RESOLD.

As a site for a fourteen-story apartment house the residence of the late William R. Grace, one time Mayor of the City of New York, on the northwest corner of Madison Avenue and Seventy-ninth Street, has been sold by the Liberty Place Holding Corporation, a subsidiary of the Lawyers' Title and Trust Company, to the Seventy-ninth Street-Madison Avenue Corporation.

This corporation was organized several weeks ago by Almuth C. Vandiver. Associated with him in the directorate are Addison A. Van Tine and Ludlow S. Fowler, both of his office.

As part of the deal the Liberty Place Holding Corporation advances to the new owners a building loan of $250,000 for the erection of the proposed apartments.

The Grace mansion, which is known as No. 31 East Seventy-ninth Street, is four stories high and stands on a site fronting 69.2 feet on the avenue and 46 feet on the street.

The late Mayor Grace bought the house more than thirty years ago. His heirs disposed of it last February to Frank J. Cassidy, who planned to erect a fifteen-story apartment house. Last month the property was conveyed, subject to a mortgage of $225,000, to the Liberty Place Holding Corporation, which now disposes of the corner.

SPALDING BROTHERS LEASE.

Will Have New Home on Fifth Avenue Near Forty-second Street.

A. G. Spalding & Brothers, who on Wednesday last sold their building at 523 Fifth Avenue to the Harriman National Bank for a price close to $1,000,000, have leased 518 Fifth Avenue, diagonally opposite. The property was taken for the unexpired term of the lease to Irene, Inc., whose corset business was recently merged with Gimbel Brothers.

It is an eight-story structure on a plot 23 by 125, adjoining the northwest corner of Forty-fourth Street.

The property is owned by the Actors' Fund of America, Inc., who acquired it through the will of the late John Hoge of Zanesville, Ohio. The lease just taken by the Spaldings runs for a period of just under four years at an annual net rental of about $40,000.

The price received by Spalding Brothers for their property at 523 Fifth Avenue is considered a new high record for a full-sized lot not only on Fifth Avenue but on Manhattan Island.

BUILDING CONTRACTS.

October building contracts in the five boroughs of New York City amounted to $73,111,100, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation. This was a 40 per cent. increase over September and a 7 per cent. increase over October, 1923. The largest item continues to be residential building, which amounted to $45,691,300, or 62 per cent. of the month's total. Commercial buildings amounted to $10,613,500, or 15 per cent., and public works and utilities (including the project for electrification of the Staten Island Railroad) to $10,390,000, or 14 per cent.

Construction started in the five boroughs during the first ten months of this year has amounted to $737,678,700, which is not only 50 per cent. greater than the amount for the first ten months of last year, but also $100,000,000 over last year's entire construction volume.

IMPORTANTBROOKLYNDEALS

Four important transactions involving three parcels of land at the corner of Church and Ocean Avenues, Brooklyn, were made public yesterday. The Brooklyn Trust Company bought the plot occupied by the home of Dr. John Zabriskie, on the northeast corner, for $135,000. It is to erect a twelve-story office building on the land with banking rooms on the first floor.

The property at the southeast corner, occupied by the home of Dr. Burt D. Harrington, was sold to Walter Kraslow, a builder, who is to move the house to Maple Street, near Bedford Avenue, for his own residence and build an apartment on its present site.

Two sales were made within two days of the property at the northwest corner, occupied by the home of Dr. F. L. Van Note. It was passed to Arthur Waterman on Thursday for $60,000 and sold by him yesterday to a purchaser whose name was not announced for $70,000.

Bond Issue Made on Fifteen-Story Apartment.

Lawrence, Blake & Jewell have arranged a nine-hundred-thousand-dollar bond issue for the construction of a fifteen-story and penthouse apartment on the plot at 61 to 65 East Ninety-sixth Street. This plot is 100 by 100 feet and is located between Park and Madison Avenues, and has recently been bought by interests representing Kidansky & Levy, Inc., old-time builders. The apartment will be laid out in suites of four, five and six rooms and the building should be finished early next Summer.

Quinlan & Leland have placed a first mortgage loan of $150,000 on the northeast corner of Aqueduct Avenue and 180th Street, a five-story apartment, on a plot 71 by 127 feet, for the Rosal Realty, Inc., A. Feterson, President.

Library for Fordham University.

Plans have been filed for a two-story library to be erected for Fordham University on the north side of Fordham Road, between Third Avenue and Emmet Street. It will occupy a base 172 by 69 feet, and is to cost $300,000, according to the estimate of Emil G. Perrott, architect.

The Civil Service.

United States.

LAUNDRY WORKERS—Receipt of applications to close Dec. 1 to fill vacancies in the Federal Service in New York City and vicinity and to perform the duties of bundler, extractorman, feeder, folder, machine girl, mangle operator, ironer, presser, shaker, starcher, tumblerman, washer, wringer. Male and female workers are paid salaries ranging from $960-$1,400 per annum. Men and women may enter. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability 80, experience 20. Applicants must show that they have had one month's experience in laundry work. The exact kind of laundry [illegible] must be stated. Male applicants must [illegible] to shoulder and carry with ease 125 [illegible] weight. Applicants must have [illegible] their eighteenth but not their fiftieth [illegible]

[illegible]RON IMMIGRATION SERVICE, at [illegible]land, New York, on Dec. 4, at $1,140 [illegible]; open to all citizens. The duties [illegible] as follows: Eight hour assignments, [illegible]ing and assisting women and children [illegible]tention or dormitory quarters, including [illegible]rvation as to conditions of cleanliness [illegible] hygiene; transferring slightly ill or diseased women and children to hospital; accompanying insane women from institutions to vessels for deportation; obtaining personal property of such aliens, delivering same to proper official and having other official documents relative to such cases properly executed; accompanying female deportees to vessels and occasionally verifying the departure of such aliens acting as attendant or guide to groups of aliens in transit through the country, accompanying officers making arrests of female aliens. Competitors will be rated on elementary mental tests (designed to test the applicants common sense, judgment, general knowledge and aptitude for the position) 60, language 40. It is desired to secure eligibles who have a working knowledge of these languages: Scandinavian, Italian and French or Spanish, Polish and German, Slovak and any other Slavic language. Persons qualifying in but one of the languages will have their names entered on the register for consideration for other vacancies in the service as they may occur. The tests in each language will consist of (1) conversation (2) reading from printed matter and (3) writing. These tests will be given equal weight in determining the rating in the language. The examiner will converse with the competitor in each of languages selected, and if the competitor speaks the language with sufficient readiness to meet the needs of the service she will be given an earned rating of at least 60 per cent. in the conversation test. If the competitor fails to attain an earned average rating of at least 60 per cent. in the conversational, reading and writing test in any language selected, she will not be eligible in that language. Applicants must have reached their twentieth but not their fortieth birthday.

RADIO OPERATOR, LIGHTHOUSE SERVICE at New York, applications to close Feb. 7, for vacancies in the Third Lighthouse District with headquarters at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, N. Y. at $1,320 per annum and subsistence. Male eligibles are desired. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place but will be rated on education, 30; experience, 70. Applicants must have completed eight grades of common school or equivalent education, and have had six months' experience as commercial radio operator on board a vessel or at a wireless telegraph station; or have had one year's general experience as radio operator in other than commercial work. Applicants must furnish satisfactory evidence that they hold a second class radio operator's license. Applicants must have reached their eighteenth but not their fortieth birthday.

The commission also announces examinations, to close Dec. 16, for these other places:

JUNIOR MATHEMATICIAN for vacancies in the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Washington, D. C. The salary is $1,860 a year up to $2,400. Promotions are made to the higher grades as vacancies occur at salaries ranging from $2,400 to $5,000. Male eligibles are desirable. The work is technical in character. It involves computation and adjustment of the data obtained from the field work in one or more of the various branches of geodesy, terrestrial magnetism, tides and currents, and the preparation of the results for publication. A mathematician is frequently called upon to devise new methods to facilitate the work of the bureau and to solve intricate mathematical problems connected with the work on which he is engaged. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on mathematics, including trigonometry, analytical geometry, calculus and analytical mechanics (major subjects), 40; physics, including mechanics, heat, electricity, magnetism, light and sound (major subject), 20; four minor subjects (see below), 10 each, 40. Under the third subject applicants may select any four of the following subjects: Astronomy, English, hydraulics, machine design, modern languages, surveying, thermo-dynamics. Applicants must have completed three and one-half years of a course in mathematics, engineering or physics, with mathematics in each case through analytical mechanics, in a college, university or technical school of recognized standing, but graduation with a degree will be required before appointment. It is further required that the applicant shall, for his entire collegiate course, including the last previous examination, have been in the upper half of his class in each of the major subjects listed above. Applicants must not have reached their thirtieth birthday.

ASSOCIATION ORDNANCE ENGINEER—For a vacancy in the Ordnance Department at Large, Picatinny Arsenal, Dover, N. J., at $3,000 to $3,600 a year. Men and women may enter. Under direction, the appointee will develop improvements and supervise or conduct experimental tests on ordnance material or apparatus. He will be assigned to one or more of the phases of the general line of work, which includes designing gun carriages, "caterpillar" artillery, cannon, ammunition, mines, or torpedoes; supervising the making of complete working drawings and details for such work; writing specifications; checking specifications, contracts, and purchase orders; inspecting ordnance materials and construction; handling technical correspondence. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on their education, training, and experience on a scale of 100, such ratings being based upon competitors' sworn statements in their applications and upon corroborative evidence. Applicants must have been graduated in engineering, preferably in mechanical engineering, from a college or university of recognized standing, and, in addition, have had four years of experience of a specialized nature in mechanical engineering as it applies to the design or manufacture of machinery or instruments. Experience in design or manufacture of artillery ammunition, airplane bombs, and other ordnance material or equipment is especially desirable. In lieu of college graduation in engineering, there may be substituted graduation from common school and eight years or graduation from high school and four years (or graduation from a college or university in a course other than engineering and two years, subsequent or concurrent) of training or experience in mechanical engineering. Applicants must not have reached their seventieth birthday.

ASSISTANT BUSINESS SPECIALIST (CONSTRUCTION)—For a vacancy in the Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce. The salary is $2,400 a year, up to $3,000. The duties will be to prepare for publication reports on seasonal operations in the construction industries, including the rewriting of articles, the checking of statistical data, and general editorial work; to supervise the collection of additional information in this field and the preparation of correspondence relative thereto; and to perform related work as required. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on education, training, experience, and fitness, 60; thesis or discussion (to be filed with application) 40; total, 100. Applicants must have been graduated from a college or university, preferably with major wokr in economics, or have been graduated from a civil engineering course in such institution. In addition, applicants must have had three years of experience. The completion of a year of graduate work in economics or civil engineering will be accepted in lieu of not more than one year of the required experience. Applicants must not have reached their forty-fifth birthday.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Pressure is low over the Canadian maritime Provinces, the Rio Grande Valley and the Canadian Northwest. High pressure extends from the northern plateau region eastward to the Ohio Valley and pressure is relatively higher along the East Gulf Coast. During the last twenty-four hours rains have occurred in the North Pacific States, the Ohio Valley, the West Gulf States, the lower lake region and the Middle and North Atlantic States and snows in the northern plateau region. Elsewhere the weather has been generally fair. It has become cooler in the Ohio and middle Mississippi Valleys, the Middle Atlantic States and the north portion of the West Gulf States, and warmer over the middle and northern Rocky Mountain region, the Northern Plains States and the Canadian Northwest.

The outlook is for unsettled weather on Saturday with rains in the north portion of the East Gulf States and the lower Ohio Valley. Elsewhere in the States east of the Mississippi River the weather will be generally fair Saturday and Sunday. It will be warmer on Sunday in the lower lake region and Ohio Valley.

Votes for Rival and Loses Election.

BRIGHTON, Col., Nov. 14.—William Heebner, candidate for County Commissioner, believing he would be elected by a comfortable majority, voted for his opponent, Frank Kemp, he admitted to friends. When the vote was officially counted, Heebner and Kemp were tied. Yesterday the mail vote was counted. Kemp was declared the winner by one vote.

Missouri Bank Is Closed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 14.—The Centropolis Bank, in the Centropolis factory district here, failed to open this morning, a notice saying that it was in the hands of the State Finance Department. The bank, capitalized at $100,000, is closed "for investigation," an official explained. Joseph R. Gant, President, is seriously ill.

Finds Old Silver Mine on Catalina.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—An old silver mine has been found on William Wrigley's Catalina Island off the California coast, and already two carloads of ore realizing $6,500 to a carload, have been shipped to San Francisco, Mr. Wrigley said today. The mine has probably been lost for sixty years, he added.

DR. OLDS INDUCTED AS AMHERST HEAD

HE OFFERS LIFE SERVICE

AMHERST, Mass., Nov. 14.—Sons of Amherst College came back today to help usher in the administration of Dr. George Daniel Olds, ninth President of the century-old institution which is the alma mater of President Coolidge.

Designed to be essentially an Amherst "family affair," the inauguration of Dr. Olds, long dean and for more than a year Acting President, kept that character throughout and was an occasion of the utmost simplicity. A telegram from President Coolidge to Dr. Olds, once his teacher of mathematics at Amherst, was read by Dwight Morrow of the Board of Trustees at the alumni luncheon following the inauguration.

Aside from a brief induction speech by George A. Plimpton of New York, President of the Board of Trustees, the only address at the exercises in College Hall was that of the new President. Distinguished educators and men in public life, nearly all Amherst graduates or holders of honorary degrees from the college, heard Dr. Olds outline his idea of what a college should be and his hopes for Amherst.

President Olds, while not mentioning his predecessor, Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, who resigned in June, 1923, under circumstances which involved a conflict among undergraduates, alumni, Faculty members and trustees, frankly expressed his opinions as to proper relations between Faculty and trustees, emphasizing the responsibility of each in their respective fields.

He asserted that Amherst Faculty members always had received the greatest possible freedom. Conservative and progressive forces could work in harmony and must work together in promoting sane and vital progress in thinking, he continued in developing his theme, "The Making of the College." Picturing the ideal Board of Trustees and the ideal Faculty, he said:

"Such a Board of Trustees will be tolerant, will realize that times change and we change with them, that theories of education pass and new ones take their places, not because the old were not efficient in their day, but because new conditions of thought and life need new remedies. * * *

"But our college governors can be tolerant and sympathetic with the new, not because they have forgotten the things behind, but because they realize that the productive ventures in this world are based upon something solid, something permanent. The most daring campaigns must rest upon bases. * * * If the world is to be saved by moral forces, and of these education is the mainspring, it must be by a chain of hands, each unit reaching out with one hand, but holding its other in the firm grasp of the unit that has gone before; and the hand of the first unit must grasp a rock. The ideal attitude toward the education process seems to suggest the analogy of the airplane. Without motion it must fall; without resistance it cannot fly.

"The teacher must inhale freedom and exhale freedom. He must be conscious that he is leading his pupil in the world of glorious adventure, yet he must never fail to remind him that there are moorings and buoys and that by these he must steer his course.

In closing he said:

"This morning you have seen a precious jewel placed in my keeping. I only wish that I had more to give in return, but I will give you all I have. I offer you my life."

The message from President Coolidge as read by Mr. Morrow was as follows:

"It is with a great deal of regret that I have to decline the invitation to be present at the inauguration of President Olds. He began his career at Amherst at the same time that my class began its career. I know he was a good teacher because I was able to pass the examinations that he gave us in mathematics. I am certain that he will be a good President for he is a man of ability, of vision and of high ideals and has that strength of character which is the result of a sound and honest mind.

"He is more likely to be attached to principles because he believes them to be true than because he fancies that they are novel. I think he will minister to the purpose for which Amherst College was founded, of resisting the disbelief of the times by teaching men what is right and inspiring them with a firm faith in the realities of life. I expect that those who follow him will finish their course with a firmer conviction that there is a difference between right and wrong; that there are not only material values but even more important moral and spiritual values in life; that there is a law of service which carries its own recompense, and that there has never been any progress or development of society which neglected industry and self-denial. Believing these things, I feel that he will be a worthy President of a Christian college established to teach men to follow the truth."

INDIAN PRINCESS FREE; LAWYER CAUSES SCENE

"Honorably discharged," was the verdict of Magistrate Thomas F. McAndrews yesterday afternoon, when the Princess Atalie Unkalunt Rider, Cherokee Indian, was for the third and last time arraigned in court on a charge of grand larceny made by Mrs. Lucie Benedict, daughter of George H. Ainslie, wealthy art dealer, 677 Fifth Avenue.

The Indian Princess was arrested two weeks ago on a charge of stealing personal property of the Ainslies, valued at less than $355. Just before the Magistrate rendered his decision there was excitement in court when Mirabeau L. Towns, chief counsel to Miss Rider, turned to the elderly Ainslie and shaking his fist in his face said:

"Now you go on your pattering way to the solid hell that is waiting for you."

Several character witnesses appeared for the Princess. Most prominent of these was Mrs. Joseph Edgar Traynor, wealthy society woman of Salem, W. Va. Despite the vigorous cross-examination by District Attorney Levine, she clung to her story that she had given the Princess many thousands of dollars, not only to maintain her but to educate her. She was unshaken in her testimony that she now is, and for the last nine years has been, the foster-mother of the Indian Princess.

Declines to Serve in Church School.

An article published in THE TIMES on Nov. 9 listed the Rev. Arthur W. Brooks as the astrologer for a proposed new school at the Episcopal Church of St. Mark's-in-the-Bouwerie. Mr. Brooks said yesterday that he never had any connection with the proposed school and that he had sent a letter to its inceptors declining to serve.
